The decision to renew 22 CSG exploration licences, including water catchments areas, goes against Barry O'Farrell's pre-election promise.

Given that people are not permitted to walk in water catchment areas, I think it's insane to allow CSG drilling in these areas.

I also have concerns about areas such as Darkes Forest, where there was a recent bushfire. Indeed, we are in for a extreme bushfire season this summer.

Chris Hartcher has said that CSG "...activities with unacceptable impacts would not be approved". Given that drilling is permitted in water catchments, I would like "unacceptable impacts" defined!

Our water and agricultural land is more important than mining resources and profits.

People should have also been given more time to voice their approval/disapproval.

Nicole Flynn
