Dear Sir/ Madam

I would like to register my objections to the proposed Apex CSG development in the Illawara region. Although I do not live in the Illawara region, I often travel there with my family. Local friends there constantly voice their concerns about CSG developments in the region. With a professional background in public health, I feel that CSG developments represent a significant threat to hydrological systems, and thus human health and ecosystems. While CSG may be relatively new in Australia, there is growing body of evidence from the US EPA and academic research that CSG developments have polluted groundwater systems. Given the risks CSG poses, I feel more research should be conducted to assure the safety of CSG before sensitive water catchments are possibly compromised by these sort of developments.

Regards, Damian Harkin
