Dear Chris,

RE: New Liverpool Primary School – Archaeological Testing Works

As outlined in Comber Consultants Historical Archaeological Assessment, Research Design and Excavation Methodology Report (Version A, dated 30 April 2021), test excavations are recommended to be undertaken on the site of New Liverpool Primary School. These works will determine the archaeological importance of the site, establish the presence of evidence of former occupation sites, and potentially uncover unexpected relics for salvage.

We confirm Comber Consultants have been engaged to undertake these works, which have been captured within the scope of the VECI Consultant, ADCO Constructions. This testing will be undertaken when ADCO gain possession of the site in late June 2021. The handover date has been selected in consultation with the Principals of the adjacent Liverpool Boys and Girls High Schools to align with school holidays and minimise disruption to school operations. As such the Project had limited opportunity to undertake these investigations prior to lodgment of the State Significant Development application.

The excavation testing will be undertaken in accordance with the Historical Archaeological Assessment provided by Comber Consultants, including required permits, inductions and testing/salvage methodology, with any findings and reports to be provided to DPIE for assessment.

We trust this demonstrates the Project's commitment to undertake the necessary historical archaeological assessments.

Yours sincerely,

Steph Rossi
