Hi Britt,

Thanks for your referral.

Following review of the EIS and the PHA, it is noted that the development will handle explosives, diesel/petrol as part of the operation. A qualitative risk analysis is undertaken and demonstrated that there are controls in place to manage the onsite dangerous goods activity and explosive uses. These materials will be handled in accordance with the relevant Australian standards.

Given the operation is away from any sensitive and residential uses, we do not consider handling of these material will pose off-site impact to the surrounding land users and therefore satisfy land use safety risk criteria.

As mining operation are regulated by other legislations and the safety aspects are well covered, hazards and risk related conditions are required for this SSD.

If you need additional information, please let me know.

Regards,
Doris
