EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

To create a sustainable future for the Western Sydney Parklands as a community asset, the Greater Sydney Parklands Trust (GPST) plans to lease 2% of its lands for long term commercial leases and employment generation. The Wallgrove Business Hub in Cecil Park is being scoped as one of the commercial leases as part of this plan. All proceeds from the Business Hub will be used by Western Sydney Parklands Trust to fund the ongoing development of new community facilities, environmental management, cultural events, programs, and land management. The redevelopment of the study area is a declared State Significant Development (SSD) and was issued Secretary's Environmental Assessment Requirements (SEARs) on 16 December 2022 (SSD – 50972718). Western Sydney Parklands Trust engaged Artefact to undertake an Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Assessment Report (ACHAR) to assess the Aboriginal heritage and archaeological significance of the study area. Desktop research was undertaken which included:

- A search of the Aboriginal Heritage Information Management System (AHIMS)
- A review of publicly accessible reports on previously completed Aboriginal archaeological investigations conducted within the local area
- A desktop review of the Aboriginal history and ethnography of the local area
- A desktop review of the environmental background of the study area
- A desktop review of historic disturbance

No registered AHIMS sites were identified within the study area during the search, subsequently two AHIMS sites were registered, Wallgrove Business Hub AS01 (AHIMS ID 45-5-5738), located in the southwest of the study area and Wallgrove Business Hub PAD02 (AHIMS ID 45-5-573), which was later determined to not be a site. A review of reports prepared by KNC and Jacobs found that most of the study area is unlikely to contain Aboriginal objects one Aboriginal site (M12 Ropes Creek AFT) was identified in the west of the study area. The background research was then synthesised to produce a predictive model, that found that archaeological potential is closely related to levels of ground disturbance. However, other factors are also considered when assessing archaeological potential, such as whether artefacts were located on the surface, and whether the area is within a landforms known to be associated with Aboriginal objects according to the predictive statements. Based on a synthesis of information from the results of desktop research, previous archaeological reports in the proximity of the study area, and an understanding of the effects of differing soil types on local archaeological potential, the following predictive statements were produced:

- Aboriginal objects are unlikely to be present across the majority of the study area
- An existing Aboriginal 'archaeological site area' has been identified by KNC (M12 Ropes Creek AFT), in the western portion of the study area Aboriginal objects are likely to be present in this area
- Previous investigations by Jacobs and KNC identified that Aboriginal objects are unlikely to be present outside of M12 Ropes Creek AFT
- Aboriginal stone artefacts encountered within the study area are likely to be made from silcrete
- Aboriginal scar trees may be present where old growth trees survive. However, previous archaeological investigations of the study area for the M12 project have not identified any scarred trees.

A survey of the study area was subsequently undertaken to test the predictive model. One artefact scatter was identified through desktop research Wallgrove Business Hub ASAS01 (AHIMS ID 45-5-5738), and was found to be the same as M12 Ropes Creek AFT. However, it was determined that Wallgrove Business Hub AS01AS01 (AHIMS ID 45-5-5738) would not be impacted, and that Aboriginal objects are unlikely to be present elsewhere within the works area, therefore it is recommended that:

- As harm is unlikely mitigation is not required.
- To manage Wallgrove Business Hub AS01AS 01 (AHIMS ID 45-5-5738) measures must be put in place to ensure workers and machinery do not access that area
- Wallgrove Business Hub AS01 (AHIMS ID 45-5-5738) should be marked on site plans
- A heritage induction should be provided to all site staff prior to commencing works
- An unexpected finds policy should be prepared in consultation with the RAPs and would be implemented in the event of any unexpected finds of Aboriginal sites, objects, or archaeological deposits being identified during construction.
- To facilitate the preparation and operation of the unexpected finds policy Aboriginal community consultation should be maintained in accordance with Consultation Requirements
- Unexpected Aboriginal objects remain protected under the NPW Act and must not be harmed without authorisation
- If there are any changes to the project area to include areas which have not been previously inspected, further archaeological assessment will be required.

GLOSSARY OF TECHNICAL TERMS

Aboriginal cultural heritage: The material (objects) and intangible (mythological places, dreaming stories etc) traditions and practices associated with past and present-day Aboriginal communities.

Aboriginal object: Any deposit, object or material evidence (not being a handicraft made for sale), including Aboriginal remains, relating to the Aboriginal habitation of NSW.

Aboriginal place: Any place declared to be an Aboriginal place under s.94 of the National Parks and Wildlife Act 1974.

AHIMS: Acronym for 'Aboriginal heritage information management system'. AHIMS is a register that contains information about NSW Aboriginal heritage, and it is maintained by DECCW.

Archaeological object: any object that was made, affected, used, or modified in some way by humans in the past and has been discarded.

Archaeology: The scientific study of human history, with focus on material remains and ethnographic evidence.

Area of archaeological sensitivity: A part of the landscape that may contain Aboriginal heritage values that have not yet been identified

Artefact: An item of cultural material created by humans.

Artefact scatter: Where two or more stone artefacts are found within an area of potential archaeological deposit or a site.

Easting: This is a measurement used to determine location. The easting is the x-coordinate and relates to the vertical lines on a map, which divide east to west. It increases in size when moving further east.

Exposure: The level of ground exposure is based on the whether the landform is eroding, aggrading or stable and relates to the amount of bare ground that has been eroded to a point that buried Aboriginal objects are revealed and would be identifiable through pedestrian survey.

Footprint: The scale, extent or mark that a development makes on the land in relation to its surroundings.

Holocene: The Holocene epoch forms part of the late Quaternary period and extends from about 11,000 years ago to the present day.

In situ*: A description of any cultural material that lies undisturbed in its original point of deposition.

Midden: The term midden is a Danish word meaning a mound of kitchen refuse. In archaeological terms, a midden refers to an accumulation of shell deposited after people had collected and eaten shellfish. These could contain estuarine and freshwater shellfish species in addition to faunal remains, stone artefacts and charcoal from cooking fires. In northern NSW in many areas, burials have been recorded in direct association with midden deposits.

Northing: This is a measurement used to determine location. The northing is the y-coordinate and relates to the horizontal lines on a map, which divide north to south. It increases in size when moving further north.

Potential Archaeological Deposit (PAD): A PAD is a location that is considered to have a potential for subsurface Aboriginal objects. This is determined through predictive modelling and archaeological survey of the study area.

Pleistocene: The Pleistocene is an epoch within the early Quaternary period, extending from about 1.6 million years ago to about 11,700 years ago. The end of the Pleistocene is marked by the last of the great ice ages.

Resource zone: An area of the landscape or part of the environment that provides a resource (be it food or material items such as a source of stone for making artefacts) for Aboriginal people. Swamps are good examples of rich resource zones.

Sand: A material composed of small grains (0.625-2.0 mm) (Keary 2001, p. 233). Sand is formed from a variety of minerals and rocks, but commonly contains silica, such as quartz.

Scarred trees: Trees that feature Aboriginal derived scars are distinct due to the scar's oval or symmetrical shape and the occasional use of steel, or more rarely, stone axe marks on the scar's surface. Scarred trees are identified by the purposeful removal of bark for use in the manufacture of artefacts such as containers, shields and canoes. The bark was also used for the construction of shelters. Other types of scarring include toeholds cut in the trunks or branches of trees for climbing purposes and the removal of bark to indicate the presence of burials in the area.

Sediment: Is a mineral that has undergone erosion or weathering and that is then deposited via aeolian, glacial or fluvial means.

Soil: Soil is a thin layer of material that covers the earth's surface and is produced by the gradual weathering of rock

Spit: Refers to an arbitrarily defined strata of soil removed during excavation (often 50 millimetres to 100 millimetres in depth).

Stratification: The way in which soil forms in layers.

Stratigraphy: The study of soil stratification (layers) and deposition.

Survey: In archaeological terms, this refers to walking over a surface while studying the location of artefacts and landmarks. These are then recorded and photographed.

Termination: Refers to the shape of the distal end of a flake.

Tool: A stone flake that has undergone secondary flaking or retouch.

Visibility: Refers to the degree to which the bare surface of the ground can be observed. This may be influenced by the character of the native vegetation, and by land use practices, such as ploughing or grading. It is generally expressed in terms of the percentage of the ground surface visible for an observer on foot.

NOTE ON LANGUAGE IN QUOTES

A number of quotes used in this report come from documents written in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries by European observers. They have been included because they provide information on the lives of Aboriginal people in the region, through the language used and views expressed by these writers can be offensive and distressing.

1.0 INTRODUCTION

1.1 Project brief

Greater Sydney Parklands Trust (GSPT) are developing Wallgrove Business Hub at 97-123, and 125-151 Wallgrove Road, Cecil Park. The redevelopment of the study area is a State Significant Development (SSD) and was granted Secretary's Environmental Assessment Requirements (SEARs) on 16 December 2022 (SSD – 50972718). Artefact Heritage has been contracted by WSPT to complete an Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Assessment Report (ACHAR) to accompany a Development Application for the work at this location.

1.2 Description of the study area

The proposed Wallgrove Business Hub is located at 97-123 and 125-151 Wallgrove Road Cecil Park on Lot DP: 1152887 and Lot DP: 2954 (Figure 1). The study area is owned by WSPT and is located within the Fairfield local government area within the Western Sydney Parklands. The northern section of the Study area, 125-151 Wallgrove Road, is currently under lease to Transport for NSW, as part of the M12 project.

Western Sydney Parklands is the largest urban parkland in Australia (Figure 2) and covers 5,280 hectares, stretching 27 kilometres from Quakers Hill to Leppington. It passes through the three local government areas of Blacktown, Fairfield and Liverpool. The Parklands is one of the largest urban parkland systems in Australia and internationally.

The study area is located approximately 500m north of Elizabeth Drive and the proposed M12 Motorway, and to the west of the M7 Motorway and Wallgrove Road. A ramp to the M7 Motorway from Wallgrove Road is located within 100m south of the study area. A tributary of Ropes Creek is located west of the study area. Land to the north and further west is not within the Parklands – that land is subject to Fairfield Local Environmental Plan (2013).

The study area is within the Cecil Park North precinct of the Parklands, a 65-hectare area that is isolated from the main parklands by the M7 motorway and Elizabeth Drive. The study area would be further isolated from adjoining Parklands by the proposed M12 Motorway and the realignment of Wallgrove Road through the precinct and immediately south of the study area.

1.3 Aims and objectives

This ACHAR has been prepared to contribute to the Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) for Wallgrove Business Hub and support the application for Conditions of Consent (CoC).

The aims of this report are to:

- Assess the Aboriginal cultural heritage values of the study area, including archaeological and community cultural values, and the significance of identified values
- Identify Aboriginal cultural heritage values that may be impacted by the project, including consideration of cumulative impacts, and measures to avoid significant impacts
- Confirm the presence of Aboriginal objects and gather enough information to assess significance and to determine if harm to Aboriginal objects is likely
- Ensure appropriate Aboriginal community consultation in the assessment process
- Identify any recommended further investigations, mitigation and management measures required, should the project proceed

In order to achieve the above aims, the following objectives will be undertaken:

- Complete desktop research and develop a predictive model of the nature and location of Aboriginal objects
- To test the predictive model with field investigations
- Consult with Aboriginal Community to gather information to determine the significance of any identifies Aboriginal sites or objects
- Analyse design plans to determine the likely harm posed to identified sites or objects

This report includes:

- A description of the project scope and the extend of the study area
- A significance assessment of the study area including archaeological values
- A description of the statutory requirements for the protection of Aboriginal heritage
- Documentation of the process and outcomes of the consultation
- An impact assessment for recorded Aboriginal sites and area of archaeological potential
- Provision of measures to avoid, minimise and, if necessary, offset the predicted impacts on Aboriginal heritage values

1.4 Limitations and constraints

The scope of this ACHAR is based on information provided by the proponent to date. Background research completed to inform the development of this report was limited to existing and publicly accessible sources of information. The findings of archaeological assessments cited in the report were not independently verified except where inconsistencies within the documents were identifiable.

An archaeological survey was undertaken on 1 March 2023 which identified a number of limitations in access to the study area. Constraints were imposed on the survey due to the dense grass and overgrowth present across the majority of the study area, which prevented viewing of ground surface and in places obscured the details of the landforms. Knee length grass in certain sections posed a high snake risk and limited access to the northwest boundary of the study area. The northeastern portion of the study area is on temporary lease to Transport for NSW, and impacts have been approved as part of those works under the M12 SSI approval.

1.5 Authors and contributors

This report was authored by HollyMae Steane Price (Senior Heritage Consultant) with consultation by Phillip Obah (Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Officer), background research by Lily Hackett (Graduate Heritage Consultant), fieldwork undertaken by Gareth Holes (Heritage Consultant) and David O'Sullivan (Heritage Consultant), and mapping by Mike Douglas (GIS Officer). Management input and review has been provided by Nicola Jorgensen (Aboriginal Heritage Team Leader [Assistant]), Ryan Taddeucci (Aboriginal Heritage Team Leader) and Sandra Wallace (Director).

1.6 Project framework

The Planning Secretary's Environmental Assessment Requirements (SEARs) issued for the project include the following:

> Aboriginal Cultural Heritage – an Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Assessment Report (ACHAR) prepared in accordance with the Code of Practice for Archaeological Investigation in NSW (DECCW 2010), and guided by the Guide to Investigating, Assessing and Reporting on Aboriginal Cultural Heritage in New South Wales (OEH 2011). The ACHAR must:
> − identify, describe and assess impacts on the Aboriginal cultural heritage values that exist across the development site
> − provide evidence and details of consultation with Aboriginal people in accordance with the Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Consultation Requirements for Proponents (DECCW 2010)
> − include results of a surface survey and any test excavations and an unexpected finds protocol.
> • Non-Aboriginal Cultural Heritage – a non-Aboriginal cultural heritage assessment (including both cultural and archaeological significance) which must detail potential impacts on heritage assets and any proposed management and mitigation measures.

According to the Wallgrove Business Hub Scoping Report, WSPT (November 2022):

> 2.2.7 Heritage The SSDA site does not contain any items of environmental heritage identified in an environmental planning instrument or any Aboriginal sites that are identified on the Aboriginal Heritage Information Management System (AHIMS) register
> 6.1.8 Heritage The EIS will be accompanied by an Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Assessment report which will assess the significance of the site from a cultural and Aboriginal heritage perspective and determine whether the proposal may affect the heritage significance of the site or locality. Consultation will be undertaken in accordance with the Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Consultation Requirements for Proponents 2010 (DECCW).

The Agency advice includes:

D. Aboriginal heritage

An Aboriginal Heritage Assessment must be undertaken in accordance with the National Parks and Wildlife Act 1979. The assessment report must be prepared in consultation with the local Aboriginal community and Deerubbin Local Aboriginal Land Council.

Heritage NSW recommends that in relation to Aboriginal cultural heritage, that the following assessment be undertaken:

Aboriginal Cultural Heritage

Provide an Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Assessment Report prepared in accordance with relevant guidelines, identifying, describing and assessing any impacts for any Aboriginal cultural heritage values on the site.

- Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Assessment Report

2.0 PROJECT FRAMEWORK

2.1 Commonwealth legislation

2.1.1 Environment Protection and Biodiversity Conservation Act 1999

The Environment and Heritage Legislation Amendment Act (No.1) 2003 amends the Environment Protection and Biodiversity Conservation Act 1999 (EPBC Act) to include 'national heritage' as a matter of National Environmental Significance and protects listed places to the fullest extent under the Constitution. It also establishes the National Heritage List (NHL) and the Commonwealth Heritage List (CHL).

The Australian Heritage Council Act 2003 (AHC Act) establishes a new heritage advisory body - the Australian Heritage Council (AHC) - to the Minister for the Environment and Heritage and retains the Register of the National Estate (RNE).

The Australian Heritage Council (Consequential and Transitional Provisions) Act 2003 repeals the Australian Heritage Commission Act 1975, amends various Acts as a consequence of this repeal and allows the transition to the current heritage system.

A search of the registers was undertaken on 24 April 2023 and a summary of the results is outlined below:

- There are no items listed on the NHL within the study area
- There are no items listed on the CHL within the study area
- There are no items listed on the RNE within the study area

2.1.2 Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Heritage Protection Act 1984

The Commonwealth Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Heritage Protection Act 1984 (ATSIHP Act), deals with Aboriginal cultural property (intangible heritage) in a wider sense. Such intangible heritage includes any places, objects and folklore that 'are of particular significance to Aboriginals in accordance with Aboriginal tradition'. These values are not currently protected under the NPW Act.

There is no cut-off date and the ATSIHP Act may apply to contemporary Aboriginal cultural property as well as ancient sites. The ATSIHP Act takes precedence over state cultural heritage legislation where there is conflict. The Commonwealth Minister who is responsible for administering the ATSIHP Act can make declarations to protect these areas and objects from specific threats of injury or desecration. The responsible Minister may make a declaration under Section 10 of the Commonwealth Act in situations where state or territory laws do not provide adequate protection of intangible heritage.

Where an Aboriginal individual or organisation is concerned that intangible values within the proposal are not being adequately protected, they can apply to the Minister for a declaration over a place.

A search of the Federal Gazette for declaration under the ATSIHP Act was undertaken on 24 April 2023. No declaration relevant to the study area were identified.

2.1.3 Native Title Act 1993

The main purpose of the Native Title Act 1993 is to recognise and protect native title. Native title is the rights and interests in land and waters that Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islanders have under their traditional laws and customs.

The following list is indicative of the type of land, which might be subject to native title:

- vacant Crown land and any other public or Crown lands including oceans and inland waterways, beaches and foreshores, State forests, national parks and public reserves
- pastoral leases
- land held by government agencies
- land held in trust for Aboriginal communities

Under the amended Native Title Act 1993, Native Title is extinguished by the following:

- private freehold land, valid grants of private freehold land or waters
- residential, commercial or exclusive possession leases
- mining dissection leases
- community purpose leases (e.g. religious, sporting or charitable purposes)
- scheduled interests that give exclusive possession
- public works (e.g. schools, public amenities, hospitals etc.)

Section 24KA of the Native Title Act 1993, requires that native title claimants are notified of any 'future act' which may result in a change in land use for Crown lands affected by claims. A 'future act' is defined in section 233 of the Act as a proposed activity or development on land and/or waters that may affect native title, by extinguishing (removing) it or creating interests that are inconsistent with the existence or exercise of native title. If, after one month, there were no response to the notification, then the proponent will be deemed to have fulfilled their obligations under the Act.

The Consultation Requirements stipulate that consultation must be conducted with Native Title holders or registered Native Title claimants. A search of the National Native Title Tribunal database was completed on 24 April 2023. There are no known registered Native Title claimants within the study area.

2.2 State legislation

2.2.1 National Parks and Wildlife Act 1974

The National Parks and Wildlife Act 1974 (NPW Act), administered by Heritage NSW, provides statutory protection for all Aboriginal 'objects' (consisting of any material evidence of the Aboriginal occupation of NSW), and for 'Aboriginal Places' (areas of cultural significance to the Aboriginal community).

The protection provided to Aboriginal objects applies irrespective of the level of their significance or issues of land tenure. However, areas are only gazetted as Aboriginal places if the Minister is satisfied that sufficient evidence exists to demonstrate that the location was and/or is of special significance to Aboriginal culture.

There are no gazetted Aboriginal places in the study area. All Aboriginal objects, whether recorded or not, are protected under the NPW Act.

Section 86 of the NPW Act identifies that it is an offence to harm or desecrate an Aboriginal object and/or an Aboriginal place. Section 86 outlines penalty units applicable where it is identified that a person or corporation is in breach of Section 86.

The NPW Act defines harm to an object or place as any act or omission that:

(a) destroys, defaces or damages the object or place, or

(b) in relation to an object moves the object from the land on which it had been situated, or

(c) is specified by the regulations, or

(d) causes or permits the object or place to be harmed in a manner referred to in paragraph (a), (b) or (c)

A section 90 permit is the only Aboriginal Heritage Impact Permit (AHIP) available under the National Parks and Wildlife Act 1974 and is granted by Heritage NSW. Various factors are considered by Heritage NSW in the AHIP application process, such as site significance, Aboriginal consultation requirements, Ecological Sustainable Development (ESD) principles, project justification and consideration of alternatives. The penalties and fines for damaging or defacing an Aboriginal object were increased in 2010.

As this project is being assessed under Part 4 Division 4.1 of the EP&A Act, permits issued under the NPW Act are not required for impacts approved by Heritage NSW, under the SSD provisions. Impacts to Aboriginal objects will be authorised by the Conditions of Approval for the project issued by Department of Planning & Environment (DPE) under the EP&A Act.

2.2.2 Environmental Planning and Assessment Act 1979

The EP&A Act establishes the framework for cultural heritage values to be formally assessed in the land use planning, development assessment and environmental impact assessment processes. Part 3, Division 3.4 deals with the development of Local Environmental Plans (LEPs). Planning decisions within Local Government Areas (LGAs) are guided by LEPs. Each LGA is required to develop and maintain an LEP that includes Aboriginal and historical heritage items which are protected under the EP&A Act and the Heritage Act 1977. The study area is located within the boundaries of the Fairfield LGA and is covered by the Fairfield LEP (2013). Section 5.10 of the LEP includes provisions for the protection of Aboriginal heritage

A review of the Fairfield LEP (2013) undertaken on 30 March 2023 determined that there are no listed items within the study area.

The proposal will be assessed under Part 4, Division 4.1 of the EP&A Act, which establishes an assessment and approval regime for SSD. Part 4, Division 4.1 applies to development that is declared to be an SSD by a State Environmental Planning Policy (SEPP). Section 4.41 (previously section 89J(c)) of the EP&A Act specifies that approvals or permits under section 90 of the NPW Act 1974 are not required for approved SSD.

2.2.3 NSW Native Title Act 1994

The Native Title Act 1994 was introduced to ensure that the laws of NSW are consistent with the Commonwealth Native Title Act 1993. Native Title claims, registers and Indigenous Land Use Agreements are administered under the Act. Reference Section 2.1.3 for results and implications.

2.2.4 Aboriginal Lands Right Act 1983

The Aboriginal Land Rights Act 1983 (ALR Act) established Aboriginal Land Councils (at State and Local levels). These bodies have a statutory obligation under the ALR Act to:

> (a) take action to protect the culture and heritage of Aboriginal persons in the council's area, subject to any other law, and
> (b) promote awareness in the community of the culture and heritage of Aboriginal persons in the council's area.

The study area is within the boundary of the Deerubbin Local Aboriginal Land Council (LALC).

3.0 SUMMARY OF CONSULTATION

Aboriginal community consultation was conducted in accordance with the Consultation Requirements (DECCW 2010c). A consultation log is being maintained which details all correspondence with the registered Aboriginal parties for the ACHAR (see Appendix 1 – Consultation records).

3.1 Stage 1

3.1.1 Agency letters

The consultation for this ACHAR commenced on 28 February 2023. In accordance with step 4.1.2 of the Consultation requirements, Artefact Heritage corresponded with the following organisations by email on 28 February 2023 requesting the details of Aboriginal people who may hold cultural knowledge relevant to determining the Aboriginal significance of Aboriginal objects and/or places within the local area. The due date for response was 15 March 2023. The following agencies/organisations were contacted:

- Heritage NSW
- National Native Title Tribunal
- NTSCorp
- Office of Registrar
- Fairfield City Council
- Deerubbin LALC
- Greater Sydney Local Land Services

3.1.2 Advertisement

In accordance with Step 4.1.3 of the Consultation Requirements, an advertisement was placed in the Daily Telegraph newspaper for publication on 7 March 2023, inviting the participation of Aboriginal people who may hold cultural knowledge relevant to determining the Aboriginal significance of Aboriginal objects and/or places within the local area, requesting their response by 29 March 2023.

3.1.3 Registration of Aboriginal parties

In accordance with Step 4.1.3 of the Consultation Requirements, an Invitation to Register an Interest in the project was sent by email or letter to all those people identified through contacting the agencies on 30 March 2023 with a response date of 13 April 2023. As a result of the agency letters and advertisement eighteen (18) individuals/organisations responded and these are listed in Table 1. Two (2) groups requested that their organisation details not to be published, while another group requested not to publish their email address.

As part of their registration of interest Korri Currell, of Koori Digs, raised the following comment:

> The Wallgrove Road area of Cecil Park, New South Wales is home to several Aboriginal sites and artefacts that hold immense significance to the local Aboriginal community. These cultural treasures provide a unique insight into the rich history and traditions of the Aboriginal people who inhabited the region for thousands of years.
> The rock engravings, which date back to around 4,000 years, depict a range of images including animals, people, and spiritual symbols. The grinding grooves, which were used by Aboriginal people to grind seeds and other food sources, and the stone tools, used for hunting and daily activities, offer a glimpse into the daily lives of past generations.
> These sites and artefacts serve as a tangible link to the cultural and spiritual heritage of the local Aboriginal community. They offer a connection to their ancestors and a deeper understanding of their traditions and customs. The significance of these sites and artefacts cannot be overstated, as they represent a vital part of the region's history and cultural identity

This comment has been integrated into the cultural values assessment (Section 10.3).

3.1.4 Notification of RAPs

In accordance with Section 4.1.6 a notification letter was sent to Heritage NSW on 1 May 2023 to inform them of the RAPs list. A copy of the letter was sent to Deerubbin LALC on the same day.

3.2 Stage 2 and 3

Stage 2 of the consultation process is to provide RAPs with information about the scope of the proposed project and the proposed cultural heritage assessment process. Stage 3 consultation facilitates a process whereby RAPs can contribute to culturally appropriate information gathering and the research methodology, provide information that will enable the cultural significance of Aboriginal objects and/or places on the proposed project area to be determined, and have input into the development of any cultural heritage management options.

In accordance with Stages 2 and 3 of the Consultation Requirements an Assessment Methodology was sent to all RAPs listed in Table 1 on 1 May 2023 with 28 days response (closing date 8 June 2023). The Assessment Methodology presented information about the project and invited feedback on the cultural significance of the area. Seven (7) out of Eight (8) individuals / organisations responded directly to the Assessment Methodology and their comments are presented in Table 2. One group request that their organisation's details is not included in the reports.

All comments were supportive of the Assessment Methodology.

Kelvin Boney Wallanbah Aboriginal Site Conveyancing	Thank you for the information. I really appreciate being apart of identify and protection this unique and superb culture.	Recorded on Consultation Log and in this ACHAR
Korri Currell Koori Digs	Agrees with methodology. Many Aboriginal cultural sites and artifacts have been lost or damaged due to colonization, development and other factors. The protection and preservation of Aboriginal cultural heritage is important for both the spiritual well-being of Aboriginal communities and the broader social and environmental health of the region. Justine Coplin Darug Custodian Aboriginal Corporation	This project is on Dharug land. This should be written in all correspondence. Raised concerns that Aboriginal histories are generic and based on the perspective of early colonists or solely on the archaeology and sites. Raised concerns that groups and individuals who do not hold cultural knowledge of the Western Sydney area are increasingly registering for consultation. Extract from feedback: “This area is significant to the Dharug people due to the evidence of continued occupation, within close proximity to this project site there is a complex of significant sites. Landscapes and landforms are significant to us for the information that they hold and the connection to Dharug people. Aboriginal people (Dharug) had a complex lifestyle that was based on respect and belonging to the land, all aspects of life and survival did not impact on the land but helped to care for and conserve land and the sustenance that the land provided. As Dharug people moved through the land there were no impacts left, although there was evidence of movement and lifestyle, the people moved through areas with knowledge of their areas”. “...Knowledge of culture, lifestyle and lore have been part of Dharug people’s lives for thousands of years, this was passed down to the next generations and this started with birth and continued for a lifetime.”	Recorded on Consultation Log and in this ACHAR, Has been integrated into the cultural values assessment (Section 10.0). As per Section 5.2 of the Consultation Requirements it is only Aboriginal people who can determine who should speak for Country and cultural heritage. It is not appropriate for Heritage NSW or the proponent to make these determinations.

Lee Field Barraby Cultural Services	Satisfied by the methodologies outlined. We would like to know when the archaeological survey will be taking place. Phill Khan Kamilaroi-Yankuntjatjara Working Group	The study area is close to range of water ways, Ropes Creek & Upper Canal this suggest room for occupation by Aboriginal people, allowing a resource rich environment, allowing Aboriginal people to thrive in an ecosystem known to them and cared for the land around them for tens of thousands of years as we continue to do so today. We support your methodology to investigate further. We look forward to working alongside you on this project	Recorded on Consultation Log and in this ACHAR Has been integrated into the cultural values assessment

3.3 Consultation update for continuity

Consultation should not have gaps in communication greater than 6 months. As the last submission on the ACHAR methodology was received on 6 June 2023, a project update was issued on 15 November 2023. The project update noted that the preparation of the draft ACHAR was underway and would be released for review shortly.

3.4 Stage 4

On 8 December 2023, the draft ACHAR was emailed to the RAPs for review and comment, requesting response by 5 January 2024. Two RAPs provided comment, supporting the draft ACHAR (Table 3).

4.0 ARCHAEOLOGICAL CONTEXT

4.1 AHIMS search

NOTE: The location of Aboriginal sites is considered culturally sensitive information. It is advised that this information, including the AHIMS data appearing on mapping below must be removed from this report if it is to enter the public domain.

An extensive search of the AHIMS was undertaken on 27 February 2023 (Client Service ID: 756822) to determine the location of Aboriginal sites in relation to the current study area. An area of land Approximately 6.2 km x 4.2 km centred on the study area was included in the search to inform the characterisation of the local archaeological context. The AHIMS search parameters were as follows:

GDA, Zone 56	Eastings: 298539.0-302739.0 Northings: 6246089.0 - 6252313
Buffer	0 metres (m)
Number of sites	14

No Aboriginal sites were identified in the study area during the search, subsequent to the AHIMS search two sites were registered within the study area (AHIMS ID 45-5-5738 and AHIMS ID 45-5-5739) and are discussed below.

A total of 70 Aboriginal sites were identified within the search area (Figure 3). The frequency of site features in AHIMS search results is provided in Table 4 below. The majority of sites are Artefacts (n=56, 80%), followed by PADs (n=11, 15.71%). The inclusion of PADs in calculation of site representation can be misleading, as there is no guarantee that PADs contain artefacts and it could be argued they should therefore not be given the same statistical weighting as sites containing confirmed artefacts. Were PADs to be removed from the artefact count, the total number of sites would be 59, and as a result the 56 artefact deposits would comprise 94.91% of sites.

Aboriginal occupation covered the whole of the landscape, though the availability of fresh water and resources was a significant factor in repeated and long-term occupation sites within the search area are either located directly next to (within 50m) or near a watercourse or creek tributary and are dominated by silcrete flakes or core artefacts or fragments.

Certain site types, such as culturally modified trees, are particularly vulnerable to destruction through historical occupation, in particular vegetation clearance. The sole scar tree in the extensive search area is located in surviving woodland adjacent to a creek, on a similar landform to that which occupies the southwestern portion of the study area. More resilient site types, such as stone artefacts, are predominant in the archaeological record. Because of this, the nature and location of registered Aboriginal sites is an imperfect reflection of past Aboriginal occupation. Furthermore, the surviving archaeological record is also a reflection not only of historical land-use, disturbance, and the post-depositional events, but also reflects the sampling bias of previous archaeological investigation.

Site types	Frequency	Percentage
Artefact	56	80
Potential Archaeological Deposit(PAD)	11	15.71
Modified Tree (Carved or Scared)	1	1.43

Site types	Frequency	Percentage
Aboriginal Resource and Gathering	1	1.43
Art (Pigment or Engraved)	1	1.43
Total	70	100%

Subsequent to the AHIMS search two sites were registered within the study area:

AHIMS ID 45-5-5738

AHIMS ID 45-5-5738 was identified as an area of PAD, located adjacent to the non-perennial creek on western side of the study area. Investigations by KNC subsequently identified an 'archaeological site area' in this area, this is discussed further in Section 4.2.3.

AHIMS ID 45-5-5739

AHIMS ID 45-5-5739 was initially identified as an area of PAD, however subsequent investigation determined that it was not a site.

A total of 10 of the registered AHIMS sites were within a 1.1km radius of the study area summarised below:

AHIMS ID 45-5-3631

AHIMS 45-5-3631 consists of an open campsite with isolated silcrete stone artefacts. The site was located on a low hillslope terrace about 20m from an ephemeral (unnamed) creek with observable high disturbance by past market gardening. The artefacts were exposed from sheet erosion, cattle grazing and track construction.

AHIMS ID 45-5-2477

AHIMS 45-5-2477 was recorded on 16 December 1998 and consists of an open site with 1 small bipolar core artefact of heat treated silcrete found on the end of a dam wall about 10m from drinking water, a minor gully tributary of Ropes Creek.

AHIMS ID 45-5-2476

AHIMS 45-5-2476 was recorded on 16 December 1998 and is an open site of 1 recorded silcrete flaked artefact found on a vehicle track. The site is located on a spur of the ridgetop about 40m from drinking water, a tributary of Hinchinbrook Creek. The site was considered disturbed.

AHIMS ID 45-5-5523/2563

AHIMS 45-5-5523/2563 was registered on 8 October 1999 during a survey for the proposed Eastern gas pipeline route from Wilton to Horsley Park. The site consisted of an isolated surface artefact. An isolated red silcrete blade artefact was found on a slightly sloped pedestrian trail which was relatively undisturbed and had potential for subsurface deposits. A PAD site was recorded.

AHIMS ID 45-5-2468

AHIMS 45-5-2468 consists of an open site located near a dam 200m south on a river gully junction on Bingley Shale. The site was recorded on 26 October 1998 as being disturbed with the artefacts being exposed by gully erosion and likely the construction of the surrounding farm dams. A total of 4 artefacts were observed along a discontinuous erosion scars totalling 100m long by 1-5m wide. The artefacts were thought to have been redeposited onto clay or washed A soil horizon which was visible during the survey and varied in thickness from totally absent to approximately 300mm thick. They consisted of 2 silcrete flakes, one fragmented and 2 indurated mudstone artefacts.

AHIMS ID 45-5-5300

AHIMS 45-5-5300 is located approximately 1 km southwest of the study area on Cecil Hills Ridgetop Place and consists of an several flaked stone artefacts and was noted as having the potential for subsurface archaeological deposits. Text excavations were conducted in the PAD that recovered a total of 16 flaked stone artefacts. An additional surface artefact was recovered on the that was originally registered as AHIMS 45-5-4935. After analysis it was determined the site was of high cultural, scientific, and aesthetic significance at a local level and had the potential to provide evidence for the use of the area by the local Indigenous people. It was also noted that an associated artefact scatter AHIMS 45-5-4022 was located on the same ridgeline about 500m away which had evidence of knapped ceramics and flaked glass which presented rare contact evidence for the traditional manufacturing of tools with introduced European materials.

AHIMS ID 45-5-4935

AHIMS 45-5-4935 was recorded on 8 September 2017 and is located on a slope approximately 400m from water. The site consists of an open site with one grey silcrete flake. The site condition was noted as good.

AHIMS ID 45-5-2773

AHIMS 45-5-2773 was recorded on 17 June 2002 and consist of an open site located on a spur near the upper tributary drainage lines of Hinchinbrook Creek, 180-280 metres from the creek line. 1 grey chert core fragment, grey silcrete core fragment, red silcrete flaked piece, grey silcrete fragment and quartz bipolar flake along with three fragments of red silcrete were recorded. Disturbance was observed within the area, and it was noted that the artefacts were likely not in-situ due to this disturbance.

AHIMS ID 45-5-2884

AHIMS 45-5-2884 was recorded on 21 July 2003 and consists of an open campsite. The site was highly disturbed by market gardening and vegetation clearing.

AHIMS ID 45-5-2354

AHIMS 45-5-2354 was recorded during an investigation for the proposed works of an Olympic Mountain bike facility in Fairfield city farm on 22 August 1995. The site consists of a 40^2m open campsite. The site is located on an exposed soils next to a dam. Approximately 20 artefacts were observed in the exposed soil that consisted of 14 Red silcrete flaked pieces that were predominantly fragmented, 2 yellow mudstone flaked pieces and 1 grey mudstone flake with use ware. It was noted the site had been impacted by past land disturbance of gardening, dam construction and track work however the condition of the site was recorded to be fair.

Summary

Aboriginal sites in the search area are dominated by stone artefacts, in particular silcrete, with smaller quantities of mudstone, quartz and flaked European objects (ceramics and glass). Sites found within the search area are typically located in close proximity of creek lines and other water sources or on ridgelines overlooking creeks. Culturally modified trees are restricted to locations with surviving old growth trees.

4.2 Review of existing archaeological literature

4.2.1 Regional summary

A large number of Aboriginal heritage surface (surveys) and sub-surface (excavations) investigations have been conducted throughout the Cumberland Plain of Western Sydney due to increasing residential and industrial developments alongside a greater cultural awareness and emphasis on the importance of Aboriginal cultural heritage. Archaeological evidence of Aboriginal people living in the Sydney region from Shaw's Creek west of the Dyarubbin (Nepean) River is dated at around 14,000 years ago and numerous other sites in the area have been dated at around 15,000 ago. While Cranebrook Terrace, near Penrith in Western Sydney, has been dated to 41,700 years and a site near Parramatta at 30,000 years old, there is growing consensus among archaeologists and historians that people have lived across the Sydney region from around 50,000 years ago (Griffith, 2018: 112; Karskens, 2009: 25). The earliest evidence of occupation in the Sydney region dates between 30,735 ± 407 BP (McDonald et al 2005). The majority of archaeological material that is dated io the Cumberland Plain is 5000 years old or less (mid-late Holocene). However, Hiscock notes that the acidic soils of Sydney do not allow for great long-term survival of archaeological sites (Hiscock 2008: 106). The most common archaeological site type and material within the Cumberland Lowlands includes artefact scatters or open campsites, ranging from thousands of artefacts with, shell or hearths to smaller assemblages or isolated finds (Attenbrow 2002: 75 – 76).

4.2.2 Summary of local studies

Smith. 1989. Liverpool Release Areas. Inclusive of the study area.

Smith was commissioned by NSW National Parks and Wildlife Service to conduct a baseline study of the archaeological sites within the Cumberland Plain to assist the long-term management and conservation of Aboriginal heritage sites. The area stretched for approximately 2,700 hectares that including Hoxton Park, Cecil Park, West Hoxton, Casula, and Edmondson Park. Analysis of the investigation concluded that sites were most likely located along permanent water courses and creek flats, particularly at confluences, with 50% of all sites being found within 50m of a water source. Ephemeral creeks were deemed to have moderate archaeological potential and slopes and hill tops contained low archaeological potential.

January 2002. Archaeological Surveys and Reports PTY LTD. The archaeological investigation of Lot 2, DP 120673, Old Wallgrove Road, Horsley Park prepared for R.W. Corkery & Co on behalf of the Austral Brick Company. Approximately 5.35 km northwest of the study area.

An archaeological survey was conducted by Archaeological Surveys and Reports for R.W Corkery & Co on behalf of Austral Brick Company to prepare an Environmental Impact Statement for the proposed developments of a new extraction area of clay and shale in the Horsley Park and Kemps Creek on Lot 2, DP 1120673. The project study area covered a total of 62.23 hectares. Although dense grass cover was present in most areas of the site, ground surface exposure was visible on tracks, creek banks and areas of erosion. Two isolated artefacts were recorded during the survey. A flaked red cherty mudstone (tuff) was located approximately 50m outside of their study area on an exposed face of the creek bank about 210mm below ground surface. A flake of the same stone material was recovered on a vehicle track east of a minor creek. The two locations were considered PADs. The PAD site was registered due to the discovery of the artefact at a 200mm subsurface depth and close proximity with the creek that indicates the possible likelihood of other deposited artefacts being present. The other PAD site was identified on the minor creek because of its association with the other surface artefact in its vicinity.

It was noted that the six PADs are likely to extend much further than the bounds of the study area, and their extents were not specified.

August 2010. Biosis. Erskine Park Link Road Aboriginal Archaeological Excavation undertaken as part of AHIP for Roads and Traffic Authority. Approximately 5.80km northwest of the study area.

NSW Roads and Traffic Authority (now Transport for NSW) proposed to construct a link road between Erskine Park and Old Wallgrove Road that would cause significant ground disturbance. Subsurface investigation was conducted along 3 km of Erskine Park Link Road on three previously registered AHIMS sites; AHIMS site RCIF 1 (45-5-3843), an isolated artefact site; EPLR 1 (45-5-3842), an artefact scatter; and EP PAD1 (45-5-3062), an identified area of archaeological potential. Of the 113 test pits excavated 352 artefacts were recovered. EP PAD 1 was registered that consisted of a low-density surface artefact scatter of 53 artefacts of varying materials and tool types, however these were located outside of the study area and were recorded but not collected. Results from the excavations are consistent with other archaeological evidence within the region with the dominant stone tool being that of red and yellow silcrete with smaller yields of quartz, chert, basalt, and some shell. These were mostly flakes however one silcrete core was also recovered. The sites were concluded as short term camp sites where everyday activities would have taken place such as food preparation and consumption, tool production, and hide and wood working. Several insulator flakes made from ceramic electricity insulators were also recovered giving evidence of the use of adapting traditional stone tool manufacturing methods with introduced European material during colonisation (likely during the 1920s when electricity was installed in the area). It was also noted that the ground had been moderately to highly disturbed through agricultural practices, and residential and industrial developments.

2013. AMBS. Aboriginal Assessment of Sydney International Equestrian Centre. Approximately 2.4km northeast of the study area.

AMBS conducted an Aboriginal Assessment for proposed redevelopments at the Sydney International Equestrian Centre in the Western Sydney Parklands Trust. Two artefact scatters, one previously recorded and a newly identified site were recorded and likely to be impacted by the proposed developments. Due to the presence of these sites and the proposed developments being in close proximity (approximately 100m) of Reedy Creek, they were identified as having moderate-high archaeological significance and possible stratified subsurface deposits. Test excavations were recommended prior to the commencement of proposed works.

June 2015. Prepared by Jacobs for Sydney Water on behalf of ENSure JV. St Marys Wastewater System Augmentation Salvage Excavation Report. Approximately 6.15km northwest of the study area.

ENSure Joint Venture was engaged to undertake salvage excavation across seven identified archaeological sites that would be impacted by the proposed works. The salvage excavation was undertaken in October and December 2014, and January and February 2015 to obtain a sample that was representative of the seven archaeological sites that reflected other archaeological work within wider the St Marys area. Surface artefact collection was initially conducted within 50m of AHIMS registered sites due to the initial survey being limited because of poor ground surface visibility. A total of 2,128 artefacts were recovered during excavations. These included fragments, cores, tools and flakes. The assemblage of artefacts was dominated by silcrete stone tools followed by quartz as it is the most accessible raw material in the locality. It was concluded that this was a preferred raw material used due to the long distances (averaging 10km) needed to source the material. The entirety of the collection and salvage areas ran parallel of Ropes Creek or an associated tributary or waterway. Ropes creek is a third order tributary and subsequently is associated with a higher likelihood of repeated occupation and subsequent archaeological cultural material being present. It was concluded that the preferred location for the production of stone tools occurred in:

> "elevated, well drained landforms adjacent to the floodplain of Ropes Creek – a third order stream" (2015: 51).

June 2017. RPS. The Horsley Drive Upgrade, Environmental Investigation Report and Cultural heritage assessment Report. Approximately 3km north of the study area.

RPS was engaged by Roads and Maritime Service (now Transport for NSW) to prepare a Cultural Heritage Assessment for the proposed upgrade of road infrastructure at The Horsley Drive. The proposal area included The Horsley Drive between Cowpasture Road, Bossley Park in the east and Wallgrove that measures approximately 2.4 kilometres. An Aboriginal Archaeological Survey was conducted in August 2015 that identified 10 sites within the survey corridor. These 10 sites comprised of 8 artefact scatters and two isolated finds alongside other area of high archaeological potential in association with two of the identified surface artefact scatters. Further investigation including test excavation and salvage was recommended at five of the identified sites.

In that report, archaeological potential was defined as areas "undisturbed mid to lower gently inclined hillslopes located between 0-150 metres from the first order drainage lines within the southern portion of the study area and Eastern Creek in the north west" and study of the Haglund and Associates (2007) report corroborated the likelihood of there being high density clusters of Aboriginal objects in those areas.

March 2021. Archaeological Management & Consulting Group & Streat Archaeological Services Aboriginal Test Excavation Report. 1111-1141 Elizabeth Drive Cecil Park NSW (Fairfield LGA). Approximately 200m south of the study area.

Archaeological Management and Consulting Group (AMAC) in conjunction with Streat Archaeological Services Pty Ltd (SAS) was commissioned by 1111 Elizabeth Drive, Cecil Park in January 2018, to prepare an ACHAR for the proposal to subdivide the Lot. Test excavations were conducted between 26-29 February 2018 which consisted of 30 test trenches measuring 500mm x 500mm. The investigations resulted in no identified Aboriginal objects or cultural deposits and the site was subsequently found to be of low-nil archaeological significance. The area was determined to have been highly disturbed from past agricultural land use.

7 June 2021. Biosis. Keyhole lands, Horsley Park: Archaeological Report. Prepared for Frasers Property Industrial. Approximately 3.6 km northeast from the study area.

Biosis was commission by Frasers Property Industrial to undertake an ACHAR for the rezoning of land at Horsley Park. An archaeological survey was conducted on 5 April 2021 that targeted accessible portions of that study area. The study area is underlain by the Blacktown and Luddenham soil landscape. Due to the location of an active golf driving range, high density vegetation and vegetation restricting surface visibility across portions of the survey area, the effectiveness of the survey was deemed low. No Aboriginal sites were identified within the survey however, areas of low-high archaeological potential were recorded, although no cultural surface material was observed. Areas of moderate and high archaeological sensitivity were attributed to the undisturbed nature of areas on the upper hillslopes in proximity to lower drainage lines which are commonly associated with PADS and likely isolated or low-density artefact scatters. Areas of higher archaeological significance were identified based on undisturbed mid to lower inclined hillslopes situated 0-150m from drainage lines and Eastern Creek.

4.2.3 M12 Motorway

A series of reports have been prepared for the M12 motorway project, which includes the study area. The study area is located wholly within the area assessed as part of the M12 works.

October 2019. Jacobs. M12 Motorway, Environmental Impact Statement – Appendix I ACHAR

Jacobs prepared an ACHAR for the M12 project. The study area for the M12 works included the study area of the Wallgrove Business Hub. As part of the ACHAR an archaeological methodology was prepared and an area of PAD was identified occupying the western portion of the study area, this was marked as an Unnamed Aboriginal Heritage Sensitive Area on mapping for the project (Figure 5),That PAD was not listed on AHIMS as it was determined that it would not be impacted by the M12 works. This PAD was latter reassessed in the KNC report discussed below. That report identifies that potential for Aboriginal objects is present in the western portion of the Wallgrove Business Hub study area, while the eastern portion of the study does not have potential for Aboriginal sites.

October 2020. Jacobs. M12 Motorway, Amendment Report – Appendix E: Aboriginal heritage supplementary technical memorandum

Jacobs prepared an amendment to the ACHAR for M12 (Transport for NSW 2019). The amended ACHAR established an amended project site boundary excluding the previously identified area of PAD. The amended ACHAR supported the conclusions of the previous report that the proposed works would be unlikely to impact any Aboriginal sites. This report reiterated that outside of the Unnamed Aboriginal Heritage Sensitive Area the portion of the M12 study area now occupied by the Wallgrove Business Hub study area did not have potential for Aboriginal sites.

September 2023. KNC. M12 Motorway Project (SSI-9364) Aboriginal Heritage Clearence Memo

KNC prepared a clearance memo for an Unnamed Aboriginal Heritage Sensitive Area, identified earlier in the M12 works (Figure 5), this Unnamed Aboriginal Heritage Sensitive Area is located in the western portion of the study area adjacent to the creek. The clearance memo reduced the boundary of the sensitive area, reassessed the site as being an ‘archaeological site area’ (M12 Ropes Creek AFT) and concluded the site is located outside of the M12 boundary and will not be impacted by the M12 construction or associated works. The ‘archaeological site area’ identified by KNC corresponds with AHIMS ID 45-5-5738. That report reduces the area of potential for Aboriginal sites limiting it to the south eastern portion of the Wallgrove Business Hub Study area and determining that there is no potential for Aboriginal sites in other portions of the study area.

4.3 Historic records of Aboriginal material cultural

Living on Country

Many Aboriginal people, like other Indigenous or First Nations people around the world, say they have been living on Country for 'time immemorial' – that they have always been here and their origins lie in the creation of the land and animals. Over the last few decades, archaeologists' knowledge of deep human time in Australia has expanded from just a few thousand years in the 1950s, to 25,000 years in the 1960s, then 40,000 years, to now around 60,000 years or more. (Belshaw, Nickel & Horton, 2020; Griffith, 2018: 112; Karskens, 2009: 25; Currie 2008: 4)

Archaeological evidence of Aboriginal people living in the Sydney region from Shaw's Creek west of the Dyarubbin (Nepean) River is dated at around 14,000 years ago and numerous other sites in the area have been dated at around 15,000 ago. While Cranebrook Terrace, near Penrith in Western Sydney, has been dated to 41,700 years and a site near Parramatta at 30,000 years old, there is growing consensus among archaeologists and historians that people have lived across the Sydney region from around 50,000 years ago (Attenbrow, 2010: 18-20; Nanson, Young & Stockton, 1987: 77; Williams, et al. 2017: 100-109; Jo McDonald Cultural Heritage Management, 2005: 4, 87-94; Karskens, Burnett & Ross 2017: 4).

Prior to colonisation, Aboriginal people in the relatively resource rich Sydney region lived in extended family groups estimated at around 30 to 50 people. These groups were associated with certain territories or places that gave clan members particular social and economic rights and obligations. Each of the estimated 30 clans in the Sydney region had a name often associated with a place or resource such as the Cabro (Gabra) gal (people) at modern day Cabramatta. Clan groups moved around a defined area in response to changing seasons and the availability of food and other resources. European observers mistakenly took this as a nomadic lifestyle, when in fact they moved around a 'limited and deeply known' area. There were also forms of more sedentary agriculture and aquaculture, and villages such as those described by early colonial diarists at Kamay-Botany Bay and later accounts of '70 huts' at Bent's Basin on the Nepean River west of Sydney (Gapps, 2010: 26-60; Attenbrow, 2010: 78; Karskens, 2009: 36; Gammage, 2012: 281-304).

Some areas, particularly resource rich ones, had shared boundaries or reciprocal rights with bordering and neighbouring groups. With appropriate permission and protocols, people could travel through and hunt on other groups' lands. On special occasions such as feasts associated with the beaching of a whale; a kangaroo hunt on the open forests of southwestern Sydney; trading or exchanging stone, tools and other items, as well as ceremonial occasions, people would often travel long distances around and from outside the Sydney region (Gammage, 2012).

People living inland across the Cumberland Plain focused on hunting small animals, gathering plants and catching freshwater fish and eels. Banksia flowers, wild honey, varieties of yam and burrawang nuts (macrozamia - a cycad palm with poisonous seeds that require processing to remove toxins) were recorded as important food sources. Xanthorrhoea, also known as the grass tree, had many uses - the nectar was eaten, the stalk used as a spear and the resin as a glue. Small animals such as bandicoots and wallabies were hunted with traps and snares. Watkin Tench noted the skill in cutting toeholds in trees to swiftly climb to hunt possums (Tench, 1793: 82, 230; Kohen, 1986: 77; Kohen, 1985: 9; Brook & Kohen, 1991: 3; Attenbrow, 2010: 41).

The landscape and environment before Europeans arrived was a finely managed one. In 1790 John Hunter observed people 'burning the grass on the north shore opposite to Sydney, in order to catch rats and other animals'. In 1804 Henry Waterhouse described the land around Cowpastures as 'a beautiful park, totally divested of underwood, interspersed with rich, luxuriant grass … except where recently burnt'. These forests that had been managed by many generations of Aboriginal people through such methods as what is known as 'firestick farming'. Fire was an important tool and also used to open up tracks, to 'clean country', drive animals into the paths of hunters, cooking, warmth, treating wood, cracking open stones and for a place to gather, dance and share stories and knowledge (Waterhouse quoted in HRNSW 5, Bladen, 1897: 359; White, 1790 [2003]: 163; Gammage, 2012: 163-185; Griffith, 2018: 240).

The Sydney region was a landscape rich with the imprints of activity, art and culture such as rock engravings and paintings, scarred and carved trees, ceremonial rock and mound structures, cooking ovens, villages of bark huts, stone tool quarries, grinding grooves and tool-making sites, burial and other shell middens, and other artefacts. All this activity had a lasting impact on the landscape, and many elements such as rock engravings in particular survive or have been kept intact or cared for by community members. Over time, many Aboriginal pathways were taken up by the colonists and made into roads, some still on the same routes today. 'Kangaroo grounds' became colonial estates, fishing creeks became drains, hills and peaks used for communication became signalling stations and lookouts, and shell middens became the limestone for the bricks and mortar of early colonial buildings (Griffith, 2018: 241; Gammage 2012: xix).

The large swathes of Hawkesbury sandstone across the Sydney region were the canvas for what has been likened to an enormous open air art gallery – engravings of the outlines of spirit creatures, marsupials, birds, fish, weapons, footprints and even European boats alongside people, showing a continuity that carried on beyond the arrival of British colonisers in 1788. This Sydney art tradition was distinctive from other regions such as inland New South Wales where carved trees were more prominent, or further south where painting dominates. There are more than 4,000 known rock art sites and more than 3,000 rock shelters with pigment or painted art, often featuring hand stencils. The Sydney Basin has been compared to Kakadu National Park in terms of the vast numbers of Aboriginal sites that remain today (Karskens, 2009: 32; Griffith, 2018: 188; Mulvaney & Kamminga, 1999: 284, 376-381; McDonald, 2007).

Pathways and creeks

The study site sits near the ridgeline above waterways that run into Ropes Creek and then north toward the Hawekesbury-Nepean River. It is also close to waterways that run to the east towards Prospect Creek. This area is the heartlands of the Cabrogal (or Gabrogal), often called by the early colonists the 'Cabramatta Tribe'. To the north of the site study near present-day Prospect is the Warmuli clan estate and to the west the Mulgoa and Boorooberongal. To the south towards Camden were the Murringong. All these groups were united in speaking the Sydney language and have been identified as part of the Western Sydney Dharug nation (Gapps 2010).

As linguist Jeremy Steele has noted, it is difficult to be precise about traditional language 'boundaries' in the Sydney region today. Many groups had shared boundaries or had boundaries with accepted access rights. Indeed, the ease with which Aboriginal people moved in nawi (tied-bark canoes) along the waterways of the Sydney basin suggests hard boundary distinctions should be limited (Steele 2008: 8).

As well as waterways, ridgelines were also travelling routes. These pathways could also be boundaries – the engravings and artwork in the Cubbitch Barta National Estate at the ex-Holsworthy military lands has been found to be distinct from artwork to the north of the Georges River (Goodall and Cadzow 2009: 39).

Rocky outcrops are common on the ridgelines around the site study area. These were also sources of raw materials for stone tool production. Rocky outcrops are located at the confluence of South and Badgerys Creek, along a ridge near Riverstone and Eastern Creek, and Plumpton Ridge that would have provided the raw material for silcrete cobbles. Silicified wood, tuff, mudstone, quartz, quartzite and basalt and river gravels were all sources of stone for tool making in the region (Attenbrow 2002).

At the headwaters of several creeks running into the Georges River, the site study location may have been more focused toward the Cabrogal who were known to have lived around the lie lowing land surrounding three creeks that run into the Georges River. Described on a 1791 map by William Dawes as 'bad country frequently overflowed' this was where over 200 million years ago the Hawkesbury sandstone that underlies much of the Sydney region sagged or subsided that was gradually cut by meandering estuarine streams. This so-called 'bad country' was in fact incredibly rich with resources for local Indigenous people who lived there. There were breeding grounds for fish and shellfish, as well as birds in the mangroves and swamp oaks or banga'ly in the Sydney language. Kurunderung or paperbark trees and nandan'gora or rough-barked apple lined the banks of the many small creeks, often described by early colonists as 'chains of ponds' that meandered through open woodlands of 'box country' of eucalypt forests with understories of wattungulle or acacia, often burned back to attract new grasses for the patagorang or grey kangaroo and other grazing animals (Dawes 1792; Gapps 2009: 20-22).

Like much of the fringes of the Sydney basin, the initial impact of colonial occupation on traditional landowners during the 1790s and early 1800s was (after the catastrophe of smallpox in 1789) minimal, and mainly consisted of transitory 'exploring parties' and pastoral land seekers. The botanist George Caley led an expedition through the Cow Pastures in 1801 and reported how at the 'head of South Creek' the grasslands and open woodland were 'much burnt in places', also noting that the party 'met with plenty of young grass' – obviously passing through an area of controlled burning (Cayley, 1801).

The first historical reference to the Cabrogal was from the Wangal man Bennelong, who noted to lieutenants King and Dawes in 1790 that it was 'eighteen minutes walk to Car-rar-mattar' from Rose Hill near Parramatta. David Collins may well have met the people he called 'Cah-bro-gal' and gave a brief account of how they caught and eat the cobra worm (Attenbrow 2022: 26; Collins 2022: 462).

This is in fact where the Cabrogal source their name – from the cobra or teredo 'shipworm' that abounded in the brackish creeks and waters around Cabramatta. As the Sydney Aboriginal man 'Mahroot' noted in his testimony to the 1845 Select Committee on Aborigines, 'Cobra means a kind of worm eaten into the wood'. This was a description of what Europeans called shipworm – which is actually a mollusc with a long worm-like body. They are commonly found in brackish waters, but the Cabrogal didn't just find them – they harvested them by placing logs in the water, dragging them up, extracting the worm with a stick tool, then replacing the log in the water (Gapps 2010: 38).

Aboriginal testimony and descriptions of other groups of people are rare in the historical record. 'Mahroot' noted in his 1845 testimony that the name for the 'Liverpool blacks' or the people around Cabramatta was 'Cobrakalls'. He noted their language was different to that of his own people around Botany Bay and that Cabrogal lands extended to the Cook's River. To the west, the watershed of the headwaters of creeks flowing into the Georges River may have been a boundary with western groups near Bringelly (Mahroot 1845: 1; Gapps2010: 40-44).

From 1798 to 1804, the colonists sent parties to the south of Sydney to find wandering cattle, escaped convicts and a way across the rugged fringes of the Sydney Basin. They all began at Prospect Hill and followed what was to become the Cowpastures Road. Undoubtedly an Aboriginal pathway, in 1802 Ensign Barrallier was guided by a man from 'Liverpool or the Cowpastures' named Kogi (Cogey, Goggey) who took him along this route which almost certainly connected the southern Gandangarra and Dharawal people to the Warmuli around Prospect. So too at present day Carne's Hill at the junction of Cowpastures and Bringelly roads, in 1804 the botanist George Caley (who was informed by his guide 'Daniel' Moowattin) described a 'native pathway' (Flynn 1997: 17; Gapps 2010: 87-8).

Resisting the colonisers

The first encounters between the British colonists and the Sydney people were initially based in curiosity, with both sides attempting to comprehend each other. However, misunderstandings or transgressions of Aboriginal law and protocol soon escalated into violence and retribution. Unarmed convicts outside the encampment at Sydney Cove were increasingly targeted during 1788. However, in April 1789, what Sydney Aboriginal people called galgala or smallpox broke out and more than half - possibly even 80 percent - of the population around Sydney Harbour were dead within a month. Evidence of smallpox, including dead and sick people, was also found well away from Sydney. (Karskens, 2009: 50; Gapps, 2018: 55-56).

Despite such massive death and disruption to Aboriginal lives across Sydney, in 1794 resistance warfare against the colonisers began in earnest along the new settlements on the Dyarubbin (Hawkesbury) River and was to carry on through the 1790s, largely under the leadership of the famous warrior Pemulwuy. Even after the death of Pemulwuy in 1802, conflict and resistance continued across the Sydney region (Gapps, 2018: 125-155, 160-162, 209-10, 226-255).

Surviving colonization

Sydney Aboriginal society was not static and did not cease after contact and then conflict with Europeans. Both material and cultural traditions of Aboriginal Sydney continued after the devastation to Aboriginal society, sometimes for example, by incorporating non-Aboriginal materials in traditional elements such as using glass and ceramics to make spear points and other tools. There are several sites in Western Sydney where flaked glass has been recorded – for example at Prospect and Oran Park. Twenty-nine engraved and pigment art sites have been dated to the period after European arrival. Some creation and other stories told to R. H. Mathews by Gundungurra (Gandangarra) people in 1901 were carried on for generations and survive today (Irish & Goward, 2013: 61; Artefact Heritage, 2022: 18; Smith & Jennings 2011: 241).

As the Cumberland Plain became more closely settled during the late 1800s, Aboriginal people continued to live close to their traditional country where they could. Some managed to live on the outskirts of populated areas such as at La Perouse and at Salt Pan Creek on the Georges River. From the 1880s, others moved to or were forced on to reserves such at Sackville in the northwest. Families such as the Locks, descendants of Maria Lock, continued to live near Blacktown and descendants of Lucy Leane at Liverpool. All carried knowledge of their ancestors and their Country down to this day.

5.0 LANDSCAPE CONTEXT

5.1 Soils

The study area sits within the boundaries of the Luddenham soil landscape (Figure 6). The Picton soil landscape also sits approximately 200m of the eastern boundary of the study area. The Luddenham soil landscape occurs towards the south and west of the Cumberland Lowland. The soils range from shallow to moderately deep. Within crests topsoils are generally shallow (<100mm) Dark Podzolic Soils and on upper slopes they are Red Podzolic Soils. Within the lower slopes and drainage lines Prairie Soils and Yellow Podzolic Soils can be found at a moderate depth (<150mm). Dominant soil materials include a friable dark brown silty clay loam topsoil A1 horizon (<400mm), overlying a hard-setting brown clay loam A2 horizon, overlaying several clay b horizons. Soils depth doesn't generally exceed 2m on crests, lower slopes and drainage lines, and >1m on upper slopes and mid-slopes. The Luddenham soil landscape is erosional. Erosion can be observed on the unpaved roads of the minor gullies. Land that has been cultivated has caused moderate sheet erosion with smaller areas of greater erosion occurring on overgrazed pastures and paddocks of farmland. Previous erosion of the topsoil can be observed where soil has been re-deposited along fencing (eSPADE 2023). Fertility of the soil is low to moderate.

The Picton soil landscape also occurs within the Wianamatta Shale group but typically occurs on steeper slopes with local reliefs of 90-300m and varying levels of soil depth (shallow to deep, 500mm-2m). Within the upper slopes Red and Brown Podzolic soils occur and on lower slopes and drainage lines, Yellow Podzolic Soils occur. Brown and Yellow Podzolic Soils occur on colluvial material. A Dark brown clay loam topsoil A horizon overlays a reddish-brown sticky clay subsoil B horizon that overlays a Brown stony light clay subsoil B horizon. On the crests and upper slopes the total soil depth is approximately >1.5m with downslopes having a total soil depth of approximately >2m. The soil landscape is colluvial with some slumps and sheet erosion seen throughout the landscape with moderate to low fertility. The Picton soils landscape is susceptible more mass moment than the Luddenham soils due to its greater steepness, particularly when saturated (eSPADE 2023).

The Aboriginal potential of an area is related to the soils that are present in that area, the depth of the soils effects the degree to which disturbance impacts the presence of Aboriginal objects, deep soils allow for the Aboriginal objects to survive a greater degree of disturbance as the sensitive deposit will be correspondingly deep. Meanwhile shallow soils may result in even minor disturbance completely impacting Aboriginal objects and resulting in total destruction of sites. Soils within the study area are moderate in depth with potential for Aboriginal objects to survive a corresponding degree of disturbance.

5.2 Geology

The soil landscape is part of the Wianamatta group of Ashfield shale and Bringelly Shale formations, often associated with Minchinbury Sandstone that is situated between the two. Laminite and dark grey Shale forms the Ashfield Shale approximately 45-60m thick. Shale, Laminite and Calcareous claystone forms the Bringelly Shale approximately 257m thick (eSPADE). Minchinbury Sandstone is a fine to medium grained lithic quartz of the middle Triassic that forms the uppermost Mesozoic unit in the Sydney Basin approximately 4m thick (Herbert 1979). As noted in Section 4.1, AHIMS ID 45-5-2773 includes quartz artefacts. Previous investigations summarised in Section 4.2.2 identified artefact assemblages that included quartz.

5.3 Hydrology

The study area is situated in the Sydney Basin connected to Hawkesbury River and Georges River. It sits between two high order streams, Prospect Reservoir which is dammed, approximately 5.9km to the northwest of the study area and one of the 2 upper canal systems that supply Sydney. Located northwest is Ropes Creek and eastern creek in the northeast. A tributary of Ropes Creek is located approximately 280m north and north-west of the study area, that is part of the Hawkesbury-Nepean catchment (Figure 7). A minor non-perennial watercourse runs north-south, partially in the furthermost south-west of the study area boundary. Previous investigations have demonstrated that Aboriginal sites are often found in close proximity of water sources.

5.4 Vegetation

Extensively cleared tall open forest (wet sclerophyll forest) is present within the study area and the broader region however this vegetation is not in its native state. Spotted gum (Eucalyptus maculate) and grey box (E. moluccana) are the dominant tree species that thrive within the landscape. Broad-leaved ironbark (E. fibrosa), Narrow-leaved ironbark (E. crebra), forest red gum (E. tereticornis) and woollybutt (E. longifolia) can also be observed. The understorey shrub species consist of Blackthorn (Bursaria spinosa), coffee bush (Breynia Oblongifolia), forest oak (Allocasuarina torulosa), hickory (Acacia implexa), hairy clerodendrum (Clerodendrum tomentosum). Speargrass (Aristida vagans), bordered panic (Entolasia marginata), Kangaroo grass (Themeda australis) and (paddock lovegrass (Eragrostis leptostachya) are the common grasses that are found within the soil landscape (eSPADE). Extensive vegetation clearance has taken place within the local area, however surviving forest is present in the southern portion of the study area and culturally modified trees may be present.

5.5 Landforms

The landscape consists of undulating rolling low hills with local relief of approximately 50-120m slopes (5-20%). The landscape is dominated by moderately inclined sloped landforms of 10-15% with narrow ridges, hillcrests and valleys. The study area is located on a slight slope between approximately 94-114m increasing in elevation to the east, towards a minor ridgeline and Wallgrove Road (Figure 7). Aboriginal sites in the local area are generally found in close proximity to creek lines or on ridgelines overlooking creeks. Both of these landscapes are present within the study area. The AHIMS sites show that there is a sampling bias in relation to areas where more construction and development works have taken place. This does mean other areas will not contain Aboriginal archaeology, rather that these areas simply have not been investigated.

5.6 Historic land disturbance

During the late eighteenth-century poor sandstone soils in the Sydney Cove region encouraged Europeans to seek improved agricultural land west of Sydney. By 1788 Europeans had settled around Paramatta. In 1789 the alluvial plains east of the Nepean River were described by early surveyors as favourable soil for farming, and towns were established soon after at Richmond and Windsor along the Hawksbury River. In 1806, 3300 acres of land was granted by Governor King to Major George Johnson and Captain Edward Abbot (Figure 8) in what is now known as Fairfield (Jacobs, October 2019).

The study area appears to have been used for agricultural and pastoral purposes. 1947 aerial imagery (Figure 10) demonstrates that the study area had been significantly cleared of native vegetation forming paddocks. Two main residential properties appear to have been established in the northern and south-eastern portions of the study area. Several ancillary structures appear to be surrounding the main properties. Aerial imagery form 1965 (Figure 11) suggests that the north-eastern portion of the study area was used for agricultural purposes while the remainder was likely used for pastoral purposes.

Aerial imagery from 1978 (Figure 12) confirms the removal of agricultural and pastoral ancillary structures throughout the study area but mostly along the northern portion. Development of residential properties took place along the southern half of the study area while the northern half was cleared of all structures. The agricultural fields along the northern half of the study area were removed while the paddocks were left mostly unchanged. Subsequent imagery from 1991 shows that the several ancillary buildings were removed and by 2004 only the residential property on the southern side of the study area is present and that remains true to date (Figure 13, Figure 14 and Figure 15).

Summary

Large parts of the study area have been subject to extensive vegetation clearance however tree cover appears to have survived in the southern portion of the study area, vegetation clearance impacts Aboriginal potential through the removal of scar trees and exacerbating erosion. The majority of the study area has been historically used for pastoral farming which a minimal impact on Aboriginal potential, although some minor erosion and disturbance may be caused by livestock. The northeast portion of the study area was used for agriculture, and the evidence of disturbance associated with these activities is visible in historic aerial photographs. It is uncertain as to the depth of this disturbance and it possible for archaeological deposits to remain in situ.

6.0 SUMMARY AND PREDICTIONS

6.1 Regional and local archaeological character

Observations of the Aboriginal people in the Cumberland Plain at the time of colonisation reveal the area was a place of Aboriginal occupation and subsistence activities. In areas surrounding more permanent water sources like that of Ropes Creek, Eastern Creek and Reedy Creek a the archaeological evidence indicates a high probability of encountering Aboriginal artefacts. The area falls within the Luddenham soil landscape that is generally erosional with shallow-moderately deep soils. Vegetation clearance and activities associated with historical land disturbance of agricultural and pastoral activities since early colonisation has exasperated naturally occurring sheet erosion within the soil landscapes. It is important to note that such soil modelling is frequently broad scaled, and that variations in real local soil occurrences may occur, which is particularly important to note when the Picton soil landscape is 200m from the study area. However, the Picton colluvial soil landscape is also subject to erosion. Despite identified existing disturbances to the soil in the region, the study area and its surrounds represents a far less disturbed landscape than other locations in the wider region with comparatively less dense residential and commercial developments remaining semi-rural in character. The study area itself has experienced varying levels of ground disturbance with extensive vegetation clearing and some historical agricultural and building construction activity based on historical aerial photos.

Previous assessments of the archaeological context of the local and regional history have identified that the majority of the known Aboriginal sites in the landscape contain low – moderate archaeological and culturally significant material consisting of predominantly isolated or small surface artefact scatters and some subsurface deposits. Subsurface deposits recovered from excavations largely remain in the topsoil and likely not in-situ but redeposited from ground disturbance from farming. Previous excavations in the Cumberland Plain have shown that the majority of sites date to the late Holocene, and post-contact material has been identified at several local sites. However, the location of the study area specifically being situated close to a tributary of Ropes Creek (approximately 280m) as well as having a non-perennial creek run through the study area increases the potential for archaeological material, although no known Aboriginal sites are registered within the study area. Consequently, the study area and its local surrounding land has potential to provide further information about Aboriginal land and resource use, and potentially stone tool manufacture. Aboriginal artefact and PAD sites are associated with proximity to creek lines, and ridgelines overlooking creeks. Scar trees are associated with the survival of old growth trees.

6.2 Predictive model

Archaeological potential is closely related to levels of ground disturbance. However, other factors are also considered when assessing archaeological potential, such as whether artefacts were located on the surface, and whether the area is within a landforms known to be associated with Aboriginal objects according to the predictive statements. A review of reports prepared by KNC and Jacobs found that most of the study area is unlikely to contain Aboriginal objects. One Aboriginal site was identified in the west of the study area, initially identified as a Unnamed Aboriginal Heritage Sensitive Area by Jacobs (2019), the boundary of the site was subsequently defined by KNC (2023) and named as (M12 Ropes Creek AFT. Based on a synthesis of information from the results of desktop research, previous archaeological reports in the proximity of the study area, and an understanding of the effects of differing soil types on local archaeological potential, the following predictive statements were produced:

- Aboriginal objects are unlikely to be present across the majority of the study area

- An existing Aboriginal ‘archaeological site area’ has been identified by KNC (M12 Ropes Creek AFT), in the western portion of the study area Aboriginal objects are likely to be present in this area
- Previous investigations by Jacobs and KNC identified that Aboriginal objects are unlikely to be present outside of M12 Ropes Creek AFT
- Aboriginal stone artefacts encountered within the study area are likely to be made from silcrete

- Aboriginal scar trees may be present where old growth trees survive. However, previous archaeological investigations of the study area for the M12 project have not identified any scarred trees

7.0 METHODOLOGY

7.1 Aims

The aims of archaeological survey are to:

- test the predictive model by ground truthing the findings of the desktop assessment
- identify and record all Aboriginal objects visible within the study area
- identify and define areas of PAD (as defined by the predictive model)
- gather enough information to assess scientific values of identified Aboriginal objects

7.2 Constraints and limitations

The study area was heavily vegetated with dense undergrowth and grass cover, limiting visibility and restricting access to parts of the study area, in part due to the risk of snake bites. Constraints were imposed on the survey due to the dense grass present across the majority of the study area which prevented viewing of the ground surface and in places obscured the details of the landforms, in addition the dense undergrowth in the southern portion of the study area limited access. This report relies on the conclusions of the ACHAR prepared for M12 (Transport for NSW 2019 and Jacobs 2020), for the area leased to Transport for NSW.

7.3 Survey personnel

The survey was conducted by Gareth Holes (Heritage Consultant, Artefact Heritage), David O'Sullivan (Heritage Consultant, Artefact Heritage) and Steven Randall (Site Officer, Deerubbin LALC), on 1 March 2023.

7.4 Sample strategy and survey procedure

An archaeological survey was undertaken on foot and a photographic recording of the landscape conducted using a scale where necessary. The study area was divided into two survey units based on the physical lots and access (Figure 16). The survey was undertaken by three people, where possible a distance of approximately 5m was kept between individuals however due to the density of the undergrowth some portions were not accessible and were observed from a distance. The study area was assessed in the Jacobs and KNC reports (Section 4.2.3), prepared for M12, the assessment of those reports was used to assess potential within the area leased by Transport for NSW.Site recording procedure

An Aboriginal site is generally defined as an Aboriginal object or place. An Aboriginal object is the material evidence of Aboriginal land use, such as stone tools, scarred trees or rock art. Some sites, or Aboriginal places, can also be intangible and although they might not be visible, these places have cultural significance to Aboriginal people.

The Heritage NSW guidelines state in regard to site definition that one or more of the following criteria must be used when recording material traces of Aboriginal land use:

- The spatial extent of the visible objects, or direct evidence of their location.
- Obvious physical boundaries where present, e.g. mound site and middens (if visibility is good), a ceremonial ground.

- Identification by the Aboriginal community on the basis of cultural information.

For the purposes of this study an Aboriginal site would be defined by recording the spatial extent of visible traces or the direct evidence of their location.

8.0 RESULTS

8.1 Description of survey units

Survey Unit 1

Comprising Lot 25 DP2954, Survey Unit 1 occupied the southern portion of the study area. Located on a moderate slope descending to the east towards a non-perennial creek, a channel that would feed the creek could be seen running down the centre of the survey unit (Figure 17). Vegetation within survey unit one comprised open woodland to the east becoming denser at the base of the slope and along the channel, visibility was poor with short to moderate grass cover across the whole survey unit, very rare exposures were present on trails throughout the woodland (Figure 18 and Figure 19). A vehicle track with imported modern demolition and aggregate was identified along the southern side of the survey unit with occasional exposures present associated with vehicle movement (Figure 20). A single house and associated outbuildings were identified adjacent to the vehicle track, with some associated exposures (Figure 21). A depression was identified approximately 2m diameter, potentially a tree throw, which showed the soil sequence down to the exposed bedrock at a depth of between 300mm and 500mm, soils are friable light greyish brown silty clay (Figure 22, Figure 23). None of the trees inspected were identified as having cultural scarring, and it was commented by Steve Randall that the majority appeared young, around 20 years (Figure 24). No Aboriginal objects were identified within Survey Unit 1.

In discussions Steve Randall indicated that the area adjacent to the non-perennial creek forming the western boundary of the study area, was likely to contain Aboriginal objects. Therefore, an area of PAD was identified adjacent to this creek and extending along the western boundary of the study area. The identified artefact scatter is the same as the ‘archaeological site area’ (M12 Ropes Creek AFT) identified by KNC as part of M12 (KNC 2023).

Survey Unit 2

Comprising Lot 2 DP1152887 Survey Unit 2 occupied the northern portion of the study area. Located on a moderate slope descending to the west towards a non-perennial creek (Figure 25 and Figure 26). Visibility within Survey Unit 2 was extremely poor with no exposures seen. Extremely dense grass up to 500mm high, was observed throughout the survey unit which obscured both the ground surface and the details of the landform. It was extremely difficult to move around and with poor visibility the risk of encountering snakes was considered very high, therefore access was limited to the south and eastern portions of Survey Unit 2. No Aboriginal objects were identified in survey unit 2. The results of the assessment undertaken for M12 was used to assess the eastern portion of Survey Unit 2.

8.2 Analysis of survey coverage and effectiveness

The Code of Practice (DECCW 2010a) specifies that survey coverage should be assessed to the nearest 10%, and provides the following definitions:

Visibility:

> is the amount of bare ground (or visibility) on the exposures which might reveal artefacts or other archaeological materials. It is important to note that visibility, on its own, is not a reliable indicator of the detectability of buried archaeological material. Things like vegetation, plant or leaf litter, loose sand, stony ground or introduced materials will affect the visibility. Put another way, visibility refers to 'what conceals' > is different to visibility because it estimates the area with a likelihood of revealing buried artefacts or deposits rather than just being an observation of the amount of bare ground. It is the percentage of land for which erosion and exposure was sufficient to reveal archaeological evidence on the surface of the ground. Put another way, exposure refers to 'what reveals'

Exposure:

Effective survey coverage is outlined in Table 5, and landform survey coverage is outlined in Table 6.. A plan of the landforms can be seen in (Figure 27).

Table 5: Effectiveness survey coverage

Survey Unit	Landform	Survey unit area (m^2)	Visibility (%)	Exposure (%)	Effective Survey Coverage (m^2)	Effective Coverage (%)

Wallgrove Business Hub AS01 (AHIMS ID 45-5-5738) is located at the base of a gentle slope adjacent to a non-perennial creek line, extending along the western boundary of the study area (Figure 28, Figure 17, Figure 18 and Figure 19). The artefact scatter was identified based on fieldwork undertaken by Artefact (this report) and KNC (2023). The artefact scatter is located within an open wooded area. A tree throw was identified within the artefact scatter showing natural sandstone to be present at a depth of between 300mm and 500mm (Figure 23). KNC identified two Aboriginal 'archaeological site areas' together forming M12 Ropes Creek AFT, the northern of which is located within the study area. While KNC identified the site as M12 Ropes Creek AFT, it has been registered on AHIMS as Wallgrove Business Hub AS01 AHIMS 45-5-5738.

9.0 DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

During the archaeological survey a number of small waterlines were observed running through the study area. Previous studies in the area have identified reliability of water resources as an important contributing factor to archaeological potential. While the watercourse on the western side of the study area was identified as non-perennial, Aboriginal sites are still known to be associated with ephemeral creeks. Visibility and accessibility during the survey varied throughout the survey units from nil to low to moderate survey effectiveness. Survey unit 1 contained moderate grass cover across the whole unit with nil-low exposures visible. Within survey unit 2, visibility proved extremely poor with dense grass coverage across much of the survey area. The area on the minor ridgeline provided a good view overlooking the creek line. The identification of the tree vegetation as being quite young, approximately 20 years old confirmed research during the desktop study (see section 4.5.1) that most likely all the native vegetation has previously been cleared.

The following statements made in the predictive model were confirmed through ground truthing during the survey as summarised in Table 8 below:

Table 8: Summary comparison of the predictive statements compared to surface survey observations.

Predictive Statement	Ground truthing during survey
Aboriginal objects are unlikely to be present across the majority of the study area	No Aboriginal objects were identified during the survey.
Previous investigations by Jacobs and KNC identified that Aboriginal objects are unlikely to be present outside of M12 Ropes Creek AFT	No additional Aboriginal objects were identified during the survey.
Aboriginal stone tools encountered within the study area are likely to be made from silcrete	No Aboriginal objects were found; therefore, It was not possible to fully test this prediction.
Aboriginal scar trees may be present in the southern portion of the study area where old growth trees survive However, previous archaeological investigations of the study area for the M12 project have not identified any scarred trees	No Aboriginal scar trees were identified during the survey

10.0 CULTURAL HERITAGE VALUES

10.1 Methodology

The cultural assessment in this report includes information collected through desktop assessment and Aboriginal community consultation undertaken in accordance with the Consultation Requirements. This information was collected by Gareth Holes (Senior Heritage Consultant, Artefact Heritage).

10.2 Cultural landscape

The World Heritage Convention of United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organisation (UNESCO) defines a cultural landscape as one which has 'powerful religious, artistic or cultural associations of the natural element rather than material cultural evidence, which may be insignificant or even absent' (UNESCO 1991). The relationship between Aboriginal Australians and the land is conceived in spiritual terms rather than primarily in material terms (Andrews et al 2006). Aboriginal cultural knowledge has been defined as:

> Accumulated knowledge which encompasses spiritual relationships, relationships with the natural environment and the sustainable use of natural resources, and relationships between people, which are reflected in language, narratives, social organisation, values, beliefs and cultural laws and custom (Andrews et al 2006).

Aboriginal cultural knowledge was traditionally bequeathed through oral traditions from generation to generation. Within all Aboriginal communities there was a time of dislocation and upheaval associated with the arrival of colonial settlers. This widespread disruption resulted in much of the detailed knowledge and understanding of many of the elements of the cultural landscape being lost from the Aboriginal community, nonetheless many Aboriginal people maintain a strong connection to the land of their ancestors and collectively possess a wealth of knowledge passed down through the generations.

10.3 Identified Aboriginal cultural heritage values

Table 9 provides a summary of the Aboriginal cultural heritage values associated with the study area.

Table 9: Cultural heritage values identified for the study and surroundings

Cultural heritage value	Description	Source
Wider landscape	Aboriginal people have lived throughout the Sydney region for at least 50,000 years and the wider regional landscape is significant to Aboriginal people.	(Attenbrow 2010)
Local area	Korri Currell identified the Wallgrove Road area is home to several Aboriginal sites and holds immense significant to the local Aboriginal community. These sites and artefacts serve as a tangible link to the cultural and spiritual heritage of the local Aboriginal community and a connection to their ancestors. Justine Coplin also identified the area as being significant to Dharug people and noted that there is a complex of significant sires in close proximity to the study area. "Aboriginal people (Dharug) had a complex lifestyle that was based on respect and	Korri Currell (consultation) Carolyn Hickey (consultation) belonging to the land, all aspects of life and survival did not impact on the land but helped to care for and conserve land and the sustenance that the land provided. As Dharug people moved through the land there were no impacts left, although there was evidence of movement and lifestyle, the people moved through areas with knowledge of their areas".

Preservation of sites	Aboriginal sites and artefacts have been lost or damaged due to colonization, development and other factors. The protection and preservation of Aboriginal cultural heritage is ongoing and is important for the cultural and spiritual well-being of Aboriginal communities as well as the broader social and environmental health of the region.	Korri Currell (consultation)
Waterways	Ropes Creek and Upper Canal allowed a resource rich environment, Aboriginal people would have thrived within this landscape and cared for the land around them for tens of thousands of years, as they continue to do so today.	Phil Khan (consultation)

11.0 SIGNIFICANCE ASSESSMENT

11.1 Significance assessment criteria

An assessment of the cultural heritage significance of an item or place is required in order to form the basis of its management. The Guide (OEH 2011: 10) provides guidelines, in accordance with the Burra Charter (Australia ICOMOS 2013) for significance assessment with assessments being required to consider the following criteria:

- Social values – does the area have a strong or special association with a particular community or cultural group for social, cultural or spiritual reasons
- Historic values – is the area important to the cultural or natural history of the local area and/or region and/or state
- Scientific values - does the area have the potential to yield information that will contribute to an understanding of the cultural and natural history of the local area and/or region and/or state
- Aesthetic values – is the area important in demonstrating aesthetic characteristics in the local area and/or region and/or state.

Scientific values refer to the potential for the site to contribute toward archaeological knowledge. In accordance with the Code of Practice, an assessment of the scientific value of an Aboriginal object is required in order to form the basis of its management. The Guide provides the following criteria for the assessment of scientific value:

- Research potential - does the evidence suggest any potential to contribute to an understanding of the area and/or region and/or state's natural and cultural history?
- Representativeness - how much variability (outside and/or inside the subject area) exists, what is already conserved, how much connectivity is there?
- Rarity - is the subject area important in demonstrating a distinctive way of life, custom, process, land-use, function or design no longer practised? Is it in danger of being lost or of exceptional interest?
- Education potential - does the subject area contain teaching sites or sites that might have teaching potential?

It is important to note that heritage significance is a dynamic value.

11.1.1 Historic value

Historic values refer to the association of place with aspect of Aboriginal history. Historic values are not necessarily reflected in physical objects, but may be intangible and relate to memories, stories or experiences.

Wallgrove Business Hub AS01 (AHIMS ID 45-5-5738)

No historic values specific to Wallgrove Business Hub AS01 (AHIMS ID 45-5-5738) have been to date during ACHAR preparation.

11.1.2 Aesthetic value

Aesthetic values refer to the sensory, scenic, architectural, and creative aspects of this place. These values may be related to the landscape and are often closely associated with social/cultural values.

Wallgrove Business Hub AS01 (AHIMS ID 45-5-5738)

No aesthetic values specific to Wallgrove Business Hub AS01 (AHIMS ID 45-5-5738) have been to date during ACHAR preparation.

11.1.3 Socio/cultural value

Socio/cultural heritage values should be addressed by Aboriginal people who have connection to, or interest in, the area.

Wallgrove Business Hub AS01 (AHIMS ID 45-5-5738)

No Socio/cultural heritage values specific to Wallgrove Business Hub AS01 (AHIMS ID 45-5-5738) have been to date during ACHAR preparation.

11.1.4 Historic value

Historic values refer to the association of place with aspect of Aboriginal history. Historic values are not necessarily reflected in physical objects, but may be intangible and relate to memories, stories or experiences.

Wallgrove Business Hub AS01 (AHIMS ID 45-5-5738)

No historic values specific to Wallgrove Business Hub AS01 (AHIMS ID 45-5-5738) have been to date during ACHAR preparation.

11.1.5 Scientific value

Wallgrove Business Hub AS01 (AHIMS ID 45-5-5738)

Artefact scatters have inherent research potential, as they can be subject to future archaeological investigations, specific research questions cannot be developed until the nature of the deposit is determined. The nature of composition of Aboriginal objects at Wallgrove Business Hub AS01 is unknown, therefore Wallgrove Business Hub AS01 is of unknown rarity and representative value. The educational cannot be determined until further archaeological investigation have taken place. Overall, Wallgrove Business Hub AS01 is assessed as being of unknown significance.

A summary of the significance of sites identified is presented in Table 10.

12.0 IMPACT ASSESSMENT

12.1 Description of likely impacts

WSPT are proposing the development of Wallgrove Business Hub at 97-123, and 125-151 Wallgrove Road, Cecil Park (Figure 33).

Key features of the concept proposal include:

- Two industrial, warehouse and distribution building footprints to accommodate a range of land uses including light industrial, warehouse and distribution facilities and ancillary office facilities
- Approximately 34,000 square metres of floor space across different buildings/tenancies
- Concept architectural design for the future built form, and landscape concept design
- Access road to the proposed business hub off Wallgrove Road
- Stormwater management works to manage the quality and quantity of water flows across the site and avoid adverse impacts to adjoining properties
- Delivery of utility services required to service the proposed development, including necessary upgrades and siting and design of the proposed industrial subdivision

The first stage of the works (Stage 1 DA) will include:

- The site preparation and bulk earthworks including site clearing to establish the future development sites
- Provision of an access road to connect to Wallgrove Road, for dedication to Council
- Installation of site services and stormwater management infrastructure to accommodate the future development of the site
- Torrens title subdivision to create separate development lots, and dedication of road to council.

12.2 Potential impacts to Aboriginal heritage

A summary of the impacts is provided in (Table 11).

Table 11: Impact assessment

Site name (AHIMS ID)	Type of harm	Degree of harm	Consequence of harm
Wallgrove Business Hub AS01 (AHIMS ID 45-5-5738)	None	None	No loss of value

12.3 Ecological Sustainable Development principles

The Guide (OEH 2011) specifies that Ecological Sustainable Development (ESD) principles must be considered when assessing harm and recommending mitigation measures in relation to Aboriginal objects.

The following relevant ESD principles are outlined in Section 3A of the Commonwealth Environment Protection and Biodiversity Conservation Act 1999:

- Decision-making processes should effectively integrate both long term and short term economic, environmental, social and equitable considerations (the 'integration principle')
- If there are threats of serious or irreversible environmental damage, lack of full scientific certainty should not be used as a reason for postponing measures to prevent environmental degradation (the 'precautionary principle')
- The present generation should ensure that the health, diversity and productivity of the environment is maintained or enhanced for the benefit of future generations (the 'principle of intergenerational equity').

12.3.1 The integration principle

Decision making processes should effectively integrate both long term and short term economic, environmental, social and equitable considerations (the equitable principle). The preparation of this ACHAR demonstrates regard for the integration principle by considering Aboriginal heritage values and impacts to these from the proposal during the planning phase. The nature of the proposal is in itself one of that contributes to the long term economic and social needs of current and future residents of the area.

12.3.2 The precautionary principle

If there are threats of serious or irreversible environmental damage, lack of scientific confidence should not be used as a reason for postponing measures to prevent environmental degradation (the 'precautionary principle'). This report has been prepared to the Code of Practice therefore has met the industry standards for scientific confidence in this assessment. This report has been prepared to meet the requirements of the SEARs (SSD – 50972718) and has assessed that Aboriginal objects are unlikely to be impacted.

12.3.3 The principle of intergenerational equity

The proposed works would adhere, as close as possible, to the principle of intergenerational equity by collating scientific and cultural information on former Aboriginal occupation of the study area through the previous investigations and this ACHAR. This report has prepared an assessment of the study area and synthesised the regional character of Aboriginal objects and sites for posterity and future generations.

12.4 Cumulative impacts

A cumulative impact is an impact on Aboriginal cultural heritage resulting from the incremental impact of the action/s of a development when added to other past, present and reasonably foreseeable future actions. The ongoing loss of Aboriginal sites in the local area, due to development, was identified during the consultation process. The proposed works have been assessed as unlikely to impact Aboriginal objects therefore will not contribute to this process.

13.0 MANAGEMENT AND MITIGATION MEASURES

13.1 Guiding principles

The overall guiding principle for cultural heritage management is that where possible Aboriginal sites should be conserved.

Where unavoidable impacts occur then measures to mitigate and manage impacts are proposed. Mitigation measures primarily concern preserving the heritage values of sites beyond the physical existence of the site. The most common methods involve detailed recording of Aboriginal objects, archaeological test and salvage excavations, artefact analysis and, where appropriate, reburial of Aboriginal objects in a location determined by the RAPs.

Mitigation measures vary depending on the assessment of archaeological significance of a particular Aboriginal site and are based on its research potential, rarity, representatives and educational value. In general, the significance of a site would influence the choice of preferred conservation outcomes and appropriate mitigation measures, usually on the following basis:

- Low archaeological significance – conservation where possible. SSD Conditions of Approval would be required to impact the site before work can commence.
- Moderate archaeological significance – conservation where possible. If conservation was not practicable, further archaeological investigation would be required such as salvage excavations or surface collection in accordance with the SSD Conditions of Approval.
- High archaeological significance – conservation as a priority. Where all other practical alternatives have been discounted mitigation measured such as comprehensive salvage excavations in accordance with the SSD Conditions of Approval would be required.

Sites of unknown scientific value should be conserved where possible. Where conservation is not practical further investigation under the Code of Practice will be required to confirm the presence of Aboriginal objects and gather enough information to assess significance. Test excavation is not a mitigation measure, it is an investigatory action required to gather enough information to inform the development of appropriate mitigation measures.

In line with the assessment criteria there is one Aboriginal site of unknown significance, that will not be harmed by the proposed works. Therefore, no mitigation is recommended. Management measure for the protection of the Wallgrove Business Hub AS01 (AHIMS ID 45-5-5738) should be undertaken, they should include:

- Establishment of an exclusion zone
- Marking site extent on maps
- Heritage inductions
- Unexpected finds procedure.

13.2 Aboriginal stakeholder consultation

Comprehensive Aboriginal stakeholder consultation, commenced in this ACHAR, is required to support the unexpected finds procedure. This process involves consultation with registered Aboriginal Parties as prescribed in the NPW Regulation 2019 and the Consultation Requirements (DECCW 2010a) during preparation of the unexpected finds procedure.

13.3 Heritage training and induction

Heritage training and inductions are provided to contractors undertaking the works and comprise a summary of the Aboriginal history of the area and guidance on identifying Aboriginal artefacts in the field, this is required for contractors to fulfill the Unexpected Finds Procedure.

13.4 Unexpected Finds Procedure

An unexpected finds policy should be prepared, in consultation with the RAPs and would be implemented in the event of any unexpected finds of Aboriginal sites, objects, or archaeological deposits being identified during construction.

13.5 Changes to the project area

Advice provided within this report is based upon the most recent information provided by the proponent at the time of writing. Any changes made to the project should be assessed by an archaeologist in consultation with the RAPs. Any changes that may impact on Aboriginal sites not assessed as part of the project may warrant further investigation and result in changes to the recommended management and mitigation measures.

14.0 CONCLUSION

14.1 Overview of findings

This assessment has identified the following:

- No AHIMS registered sites were identified within the footprint of the proposed works during the AHIMS Search
- Two Aboriginal sites have since been registered on AHIMS
- One area of PAD was subsequently determined not to be a site (Wallgrove Business Hub PAD02, AHIMS ID 45-5-5738)
- One artefact scatter has been recorded within the study area (Wallgrove Business Hub AS01 AHIMS ID 45-5-5738)
- Wallgrove Business Hub AS01 (AHIMS ID 45-5-5738) will not be impacted by the proposed works.

14.2 Recommendations

It is recommended that:

- As harm is unlikely mitigation is not required.
- To manage Wallgrove Business Hub AS01AS 01 (AHIMS ID 45-5-5738) measures must be put in place to ensure workers and machinery do not access that area
- Wallgrove Business Hub AS01 (AHIMS ID 45-5-5738) should be marked on site plans
- A heritage induction should be provided to all site staff prior to commencing works
- An unexpected finds policy should be prepared in consultation with the RAPs and would be implemented in the event of any unexpected finds of Aboriginal sites, objects, or archaeological deposits being identified during construction.
- To facilitate the preparation and operation of the unexpected finds policy Aboriginal community consultation should be maintained in accordance with Consultation Requirements
- Unexpected Aboriginal objects remain protected under the NPW Act and must not be harmed without authorisation
- If there are any changes to the project area to include areas which have not been previously inspected, further archaeological assessment will be required.

Artefact		Korri Currell	Koori Digs Services			Hi Kelly Koori Digs agrees with methodology. It is also important to recognize that many Aboriginal cultural sites and artifacts have been lost or damaged due to colonization, development, and other factors, and that efforts to preserve and protect these sites are ongoing. The protection and preservation of Aboriginal cultural heritage is not only important for the cultural and spiritual well-being of Aboriginal communities, but also for the broader social and environmental health of the region. Kind Regards Korri Currell

Artefact		Jesse Johnson	Muragadi Heritage Indigenous Corporation			Hi Kelly, I have read the project information and methodology for the above project, I endorse the recommendations made. Thanks Jesse 0418970389
Artefact		Justine Coplin	Darug Custodian Aboriginal Corporation			Dear Kelly This Project is on Dharug land. This should be written in all correspondence. Our group is a non- profit organisation that has been active for over forty years in Western Sydney, we are a Darug community group with over three hundred members. The main aim in our constitution is the care of Darug sites, places, wildlife and to promote our culture and provide education on the Darug history. Our group promotes Darug Culture and works on numerous projects that are culturally based as a proud and diverse group. It has been discussed by our group and with many consultants and researches that our history is generic and is usually from an early colonists perspective or solely based on archaeology and sites. These histories are adequate but they lack the people's stories and parts of important events and connections of the Darug people and also other Aboriginal people that now call this area home and have done so for numerous generations. This area is significant to the Darug people due to the evidence of continued occupation, within close proximity to this project site there is a complex of significant sites. Landscapes and landforms are significant to us for the information that they hold and the connection to Darug people. Aboriginal people (Darug) had a complex lifestyle that was based on respect and belonging to the land, all aspects of life and survival did not impact on the land but helped to care for and conserve land and the sustenance that the land provided. As Darug people moved through the land there were no impacts left, although there was evidence of movement and lifestyle, the people moved through areas with knowledge of their areas and followed signs that were left in the landscape. Darug people knew which areas were not to be entered and respected the areas that were sacred. Knowledge of culture, lifestyle and lore have been part of Darug people's lives for thousands of years, this was passed down to the next generations and this started with birth and continued for a lifetime. Darug people spent a lifetime learning and as people grew older they passed through stages of knowledge, elders became elders with the learning of stages of knowledge not by their age, being an elder is part of the kinship system this was a very complicated system based on respect. Darug sites are all connected, our country has a complex of sites that hold our heritage and past history, evidence of the Darug lifestyle and occupation are all across our country, due to the rapid development of Sydney many of our sites have been destroyed, our sites are thousands of years old and within the short period of time that Australia has been developed pre contact our sites have disappeared. The Aboriginal cultural heritage consultation requirements for proponents Section 4.1.8 refers to "Aboriginal organisations representing Aboriginal people who hold cultural knowledge". Recent consultation meetings have revealed that many of these Aboriginal organisations and individuals do not hold cultural knowledge of the Western Sydney area. The increasing involvement of such parties in cultural heritage management means that genuine local

						Aboriginal organisations are unable to properly care for our cultural heritage. Many Aboriginal organisations listed in the OEH response letter do not contribute to the Aboriginal community of Western Sydney. Individuals listed in the OEH response letter do not represent the community and while they may be consulted with, should not be employed for their own personal financial benefit. Our organisation is committed to providing benefits back to our local Aboriginal community through such measures as funding the local Aboriginal juniors' touch football team, painting classes for the local children and donating money to various charities. Employment in cultural heritage activities is source of income that organisations such as ours can use to contribute to beneficial activities and support within the community. Darug custodian Aboriginal Corporation's site officers have knowledge of Darug land, Darug Culture,Oral histories, landforms, sites, Darug history, wildlife, flora and legislative requirements. We have worked with consultants and developers for many years in Western Sydney (Darug Land) for conservation, site works, developments and interpretation/education strategie Darug Custodian Aboriginal Corporation have received and reviewed the report for Wallgrove Business Hub. We support the information set out in this document. We acknowledge this project is on Dharug Land . Please contact us with all further enquiries on the above contacts. Regards Justine Coplin
Artefact		Carolyn Hickey	A1 Indigenous Services Pty Ltd			Hi, I have reviewed the document and support the Information and Methodology. A1 would like to be involved in any up coming field work.
Artefact		Lee Field	Barraby Cultural Services			Good afternoon On behalf of BCS Group we have reviewed and are satisfied by the methodologies outlined. We would like to know when the archaeological survey will be taking place? Kind regards Lee Field

Artefact		Phil Khan	Kamilaroi Yankuntjatjara Working Group			My apologies for the late response, I recently came out of hospital and hope you can still accept my response. Thank you for your methodology regarding Wallgrove Business Hub development at 97-123 & 125-151 Wallgrove Road, Cecil Park. The study area is close to range of water ways, Ropes Creek & Upper Canal this suggest room for occupation by Aboriginal people, allowing a resource rich environment, allowing Aboriginal people to thrive in an ecosystem known to them and cared for the land around them for tens of thousands of years as we continue to do so today. We support your methodology to investigate further. We look forward to working alongside you on this project.

Dear Sir/Madam

Re: Wallgrove Business Hub: Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Assessment Report (SSD – 50972718) – Section 4.1.2 Request for Interested Aboriginal Parties

Artefact Heritage on behalf of West Sydney Parklands Trust (the proponent) is undertaking an Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Assessment Report (ACHAR) for the properties known as 97-123 & 125-151 Wallgrove Road, Cecil Park, in advance of the proposed redevelopment of the Wallgrove Business Hub located in the Fairfield Local Government Area (LGA).

The site on which the redevelopment is proposed comprises two lots (Lot 25 DP2954 & Lot 24 DP1152887) with a combined total area of approximately 9.716ha. The plan for proposal comprises commercial leasing for the ongoing development of new community facilities, environmental management, cultural events, programs and land management.

The project has been declared a State Significant Development under the Environmental Planning and Assessment Act 1979. The Secretary's Environmental Assessment Requirements (SEARs) (SSD 50972718) for the project have now been received which specify:

> 19. Aboriginal Cultural Heritage • Provide an Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Assessment Report prepared in accordance with relevant guidelines, identifying, describing and assessing any impacts on any Aboriginal cultural heritage values on the land.

The ACHAR will be prepared in accordance with the Guide to investigating, assessing, and reporting on Aboriginal Cultural Heritage in NSW (OEH 2011) and will include community consultation in accordance with the Aboriginal cultural heritage consultation requirements for proponents 2010 (DECCW 2010). The purpose of community consultation is to assist the proponent in identifying and describing the Aboriginal cultural heritage values within the proposal area and aid in the documentation of these values in the environmental assessment.

The contact details of the proponent are:

Tim Colless
Parramatta Park & Western Sydney Parklands Trust
Level 1, 6 Parramatta Square, 10 Darcy Street,
Parramatta NSW 2150
tim.colless@gsp.nsw.gov.au

In accordance with these requirements, the proponent would like to consult with any Aboriginal persons or organisations that hold cultural knowledge relevant to determining the significance of Aboriginal objects and places in the Cecil Park area.

In line with the relevant consultation guidelines, I am writing to you to request the names and contact details that your organisation has for Aboriginal people who may hold cultural knowledge relevant to the Fairfield area. Please forward any information you have before 17th Friday March 2023 to:

Dear Ms Price,

The National Native Title Tribunal (the Tribunal) has undertaken steps to remove itself from the formal list of sources for information about indigenous groups in development areas. The existence or otherwise of native title is quite separate to any matters relating to Aboriginal cultural heritage. Information on native title claims, native title determinations and Indigenous Land Use Agreements is available on the Tribunal's website.

Interested parties are invited to use Native Title Vision (NTV) the Tribunal's online mapping system to discover native title matters in their area of interest. Access to NTV is available at http://www.nntt.gov.au/assistance/Geospatial/Pages/NTV.aspx

Training and self-help documents are available on the NTV web page under "Training and help documents". For additional assistance or general advice on NTV please contact GeospatialSearch@NNTT.gov.au

Additional information can also be extracted from the Registers available at http://www.nntt.gov.au/searchRegApps/Pages/default.aspx

The relevant Representative Aboriginal/Torres Strait Islander Body (RATSIB) for your project area may also be able to provide information regarding Aboriginal groups or persons that have recorded an interest in that particular area. The RATSIB for your project area is NTSCORP Limited.

Dear Philip

Thank you for your recent letter seeking assistance to identify Aboriginal stakeholder organisations and persons who may hold an interest in Country at the project area designated in your correspondence.

Greater Sydney Local Land Services (GS LLS) acknowledges that Local Land Services (formerly as Catchment Management Authorities) has been listed in Section 4.1.3.(g) of the Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Consultation requirements for proponents 2010, to support Part 6, of the NSW National Parks and Wildlife Act 1974 as a source of information to obtain the 'names of Aboriginal people who may hold cultural knowledge relevant to determining the significance of Aboriginal objects and/or places'.

GS LLS understands and respects the significant role and values that tangible and intangible Aboriginal Cultural Heritage holds for First Nations/Aboriginal people with Country. GS LLS also partners with many First Nations communities on Caring for Country projects that aim to protect and enhance those tangible and intangible values in Country including Aboriginal Cultural Heritage. GS LLS considers Aboriginal Cultural Heritage matters in relation to its role in land management and considers cultural heritage issues in the context of Natural Resource Management.

However, GS LLS feels that it is not a primary source of contact for First Nations (Aboriginal) communities or persons that may inform or provide comment on development or planning issues. GS LLS strongly recommends you contact Heritage NSW to seek their advice on all-inclusive contact lists of persons and organisations who 'speak for Country' and that may assist with your investigation.

The results provided are based on the information you supplied and are derived from a search of the following Tribunal databases:

- Schedule of Native Title Determination Applications
- Register of Native Title Claims
- Native Title Determinations
- Indigenous Land Use Agreements (Registered and notified)

Results for overlapping native title matters in NSW:

For more information about the Tribunal's registers or to search the registers yourself and obtain copies of relevant register extracts, please visit our website.

Information on native title claims and freehold land can also be found on the Tribunal's website here: Native title claims and freehold land .

Please note: There may be a delay between a native title determination application being lodged in the Federal Court and its transfer to the Tribunal. As a result, some native title determination applications recently filed with the Federal Court may not appear on the Tribunal's databases.

The search results are based on analysis against external boundaries of applications only. Native title applications commonly contain exclusions clauses which remove areas from within the external boundary. To determine whether the areas described are in fact subject to claim, you need to refer to the "Area covered by claim" section of the relevant Register Extract or Schedule Extract and any maps attached.

Search results and the existence of native title
Please note that the enclosed information from the Register of Native Title Claims and/or the Schedule of Applications is not confirmation of the existence of native title in this area. This cannot be confirmed until the Federal Court makes a determination that native title does or does not exist in relation to the area. Such determinations are registered on the National Native Title Register.

We refer to your email and letter to this Office, dated 28 February 2023, requesting contact information for Aboriginal organisations, stakeholders and/or people who may have cultural knowledge relevant to the redevelopment of the Wallgrove Business Hub, at 97-123 & 125-151 Wallgrove Road, Cecil Park (Lot 25 DP2954 & Lot 24 DP1152887) NSW, as part of an Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Assessment (ACHA).

Under Section 170 of the Aboriginal Land Rights Act 1983 (NSW), the Office of the Registrar is required to maintain the Register of Aboriginal Owners (RAO) for New South Wales. A search of the RAO has shown that there are currently no Registered Aboriginal Owners in the project area.

Dear Phillip,

WRITTEN NOTIFICATION OF PROPOSAL AS REQUIRED UNDER DECCW ABORIGINAL CULTURAL HERITAGE CONSULTATION REQUIREMENTS FOR PROPONENTS 2010

Subject: 97-123 & 125-151 Wallgrove Road, Cecil Park.

Thank you for your correspondence dated 28 February 2023 to Heritage NSW (Department of Planning and Environment) regarding the above project.

Attached is a list of known Aboriginal Stakeholders for the proposed development at the Fairfield Local Government Area that Heritage NSW considers likely to have an interest in the activity.

Please note this list is not necessarily an exhaustive list of all interested Aboriginal Stakeholders.

Receipt of this list does not remove the requirement of a proponent/ consultant to advertise in local print media and contact other bodies seeking interested Aboriginal parties, in accordance with the Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Consultation Requirements for Proponents 2010 (April 2010).

Under Section 4.1.6. of the Consultation Requirements, you must also provide a copy of the names of each Aboriginal person who registered an interest to the relevant Heritage NSW office and Local Aboriginal Land Council (LALC) within 28 days from the closing date for registering an interest.

Please note that the contact details in the list provided by Heritage NSW may be out of date as it relies on Aboriginal stakeholders advising Heritage NSW when their details need changing. If individuals/companies undertaking consultation are aware that any groups contact details are out of date, or letters are returned unopened, please contact either the relevant stakeholder group (if you know their more current details) and/or Heritage NSW. AHIP applicants should make a note of any group they are unable to contact as part of their consultation record.

If you have any questions about this advice, please email: heritagemailbox@environment.nsw.gov.au or contact (02) 9873 8500.

Yours sincerely

Barry Gunther, Aboriginal Senior Assessment Officer

Department of Planning and Environment

Attachment A:

Registered Aboriginal Interests DPE Aboriginal Stakeholders List for the Fairfield Local Government Area.

LIST OF ABORIGINAL STAKEHOLDERS FOR THE DEPARTMENT of PLANNING and ENVIRONMENT (DPE) SOUTHERN REGION HELD BY DPE FOR THE PURPOSES OF THE OEH ABORIGINAL CULTURAL HERITAGE CONSULTATION REQUIREMENTS FOR PROPONENTS 2010

These lists are provided to proponents in accordance with section 4.1.2 of the Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Consultation Requirements for Proponents 2010 (the "Consultation Requirements") which commenced on 12 April 2010.

The consultation process involves getting the views of, and information from, Aboriginal people and reporting on these. It is not to be confused with other field assessment processes involved in preparing a proposal and an application. Consultation does not include the employment of Aboriginal people to assist in field assessment and/or site monitoring. Aboriginal people may provide services to proponents through a contractual arrangement however, this is separate from consultation. The proponent is not obliged to employ those Aboriginal people registered for consultation. Consultation as per these requirements will continue irrespective of potential or actual employment opportunities for Aboriginal people.

A copy of the Consultation Requirements can be found on the OEH website at:
http://www.environment.nsw.gov.au/resources/cultureheritage/commconsultation/09781ACHconsultreq.pdf.

Under the Consultation Requirements; a proponent is required to provide Aboriginal people who may hold cultural knowledge relevant to determining the cultural significance of Aboriginal objects and/or places as relevant to the proposed project area, with an opportunity to be involved in consultation. Section 3.3.1 of the Consultation Requirements states that Aboriginal people who can provide this information are, based on Aboriginal lore and custom, the traditional owners or custodians of the land that is the subject of the proposed project.

The Consultation Requirements also state that:

> Traditional owners or custodians with appropriate cultural heritage knowledge to inform decision making who seek to register their interest as an Aboriginal party are those people who:
> - continue to maintain a deep respect for their ancestral belief system, traditional lore and custom
> - recognise their responsibilities and obligations to protect and conserve their culture and heritage and care for their traditional lands or Country
> - have the trust of their community, knowledge and understanding of their culture, and permission to speak about it.

Please note: the placement of an organisation's name on any OEH Aboriginal stakeholder list for the Consultation Requirements does not override a proponent's requirement to also advertise in the local newspaper and to seek from other sources the names of any other Aboriginal people who may hold cultural knowledge as required under clause 60 of the National Parks and Wildlife Regulation 2019.

How to use this list

1. Contact the organisations/individuals who have indicated an interest in the relevant LGA/s and invite them to register an interest in your project

Do not reproduce the attached list in publicly available reports and other documents. Your report should only contain the names of the organisations and individuals who you have invited to register an interest in your project and those who have registered as stakeholders for your project.

Dear Sir/Madam

Re: Wallgrove Business Hub: Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Assessment Report (SSD – 50972718) – Section 4.1.2 Request for Interested Aboriginal Parties

Artefact Heritage on behalf of West Sydney Parklands Trust (the proponent) is undertaking an Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Assessment Report (ACHAR) for the properties known as 97-123 & 125-151 Wallgrove Road, Cecil Park, in advance of the proposed redevelopment of the Wallgrove Business Hub located in the Fairfield Local Government Area (LGA).

The site on which the redevelopment is proposed comprises two lots (Lot 25 DP2954 & Lot 24 DP1152887) with a combined total area of approximately 9.716ha. The plan for proposal comprises commercial leasing for the ongoing development of new community facilities, environmental management, cultural events, programs and land management.

The project has been declared a State Significant Development under the Environmental Planning and Assessment Act 1979. The Secretary's Environmental Assessment Requirements (SEARs) (SSD 50972718) for the project have now been received which specify:

> 19. Aboriginal Cultural Heritage • Provide an Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Assessment Report prepared in accordance with relevant guidelines, identifying, describing and assessing any impacts on any Aboriginal cultural heritage values on the land.

The ACHAR will be prepared in accordance with the Guide to investigating, assessing, and reporting on Aboriginal Cultural Heritage in NSW (OEH 2011) and will include community consultation in accordance with the Aboriginal cultural heritage consultation requirements for proponents 2010 (DECCW 2010). The purpose of community consultation is to assist the proponent in identifying and describing the Aboriginal cultural heritage values within the proposal area and aid in the documentation of these values in the environmental assessment.

The contact details of the proponent are:

Tim Colless
Parramatta Park & Western Sydney Parklands Trust
Level 1, 6 Parramatta Square, 10 Darcy Street,
Parramatta NSW 2150
tim.colless@gsp.nsw.gov.au

In accordance with these requirements, the proponent would like to consult with any Aboriginal persons or organisations that hold cultural knowledge relevant to determining the significance of Aboriginal objects and places in the Cecil Park area.

In line with the relevant consultation guidelines, I am writing to you to request the names and contact details that your organisation has for Aboriginal people who may hold cultural knowledge relevant to the Fairfield area. Please forward any information you have before 17th Friday March 2023 to:

Re: Wallgrove Business Hub: Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Assessment Report – Registration of Aboriginal Parties.

The Wallgrove Business Hub development at 97-123 & 125-151 Wallgrove Road, Cecil Park, was declared a State Significant Development under the Environmental Planning and Assessment Act 1979. The Secretary's Environmental Assessment Requirements (SEARs) (SSD 50972718) for the project have now been received which specify:

> 19. Aboriginal Cultural Heritage • Provide an Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Assessment Report prepared in accordance with relevant guidelines, identifying, describing and assessing any impacts on any Aboriginal cultural heritage values on the land.

Artefact Heritage has been engaged by Parramatta Park & Western Sydney Parklands Trust (the proponent) to prepare an Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Assessment Report (ACHAR) to satisfy the SEARs conditions as they relate to Aboriginal cultural heritage. This ACHAR will be prepared in accordance with the Guide to investigating, assessing and reporting on Aboriginal Cultural Heritage in NSW (OEH 2011) and may be used to support an Aboriginal Heritage Impact Permit (AHIP) application for the project. Preparation of the ACHAR will additionally include community consultation in accordance with the Aboriginal cultural heritage consultation requirements for proponents (DECCW 2010). The purpose of community consultation is to assist the proponent in identifying and describing the Aboriginal cultural heritage values within the proposal area and aid in the documentation of these values in the environmental assessment.

The proposed development is located within the City of Fairfield Local Government Area (LGA) and within the boundaries of the Deerubbin Local Aboriginal Land Council (LALC). The location of the study area is shown in Figure 1 below. Assessment of Aboriginal heritage for such developments is subject to the National Parks and Wildlife Act NSW 1974, under the oversight of Heritage NSW.

Office 365

Your message to mura.indigenous@bigpond.com couldn't be delivered.

mura.indigenous wasn't found at bigpond.com.

Phillip.Obah	Office 365	mura.indigenous
Action Required		Recipient

Unknown To address

How to Fix It

The address may be misspelled or may not exist. Try one or more of the following:

- Send the message again following these steps: In Outlook, open this non-delivery report (NDR) and choose Send Again from the Report ribbon. In Outlook on the web, select this NDR, then select the link "To send this message again, click here." Then delete and retype the entire recipient address. If prompted with an Auto-Complete List suggestion don't select it. After typing the complete address, click Send.
- Contact the recipient (by phone, for example) to check that the address exists and is correct.
- The recipient may have set up email forwarding to an incorrect address. Ask them to check that any forwarding they've set up is working correctly.
- Clear the recipient Auto-Complete List in Outlook or Outlook on the web by following the steps in this article: Fix email delivery issues for error code 5.1.1 in Office 365, and then send the message again. Retype the entire recipient address before selecting Send.

If the problem continues, forward this message to your email admin. If you're an email admin, refer to the More Info for Email Admins section below.

Was this helpful? Send feedback to Microsoft.

More Info for Email Admins

Status code: 550 5.1.1

This error occurs because the sender sent a message to an email address outside of Office 365, but the address is incorrect or doesn't exist at the destination domain. The error is reported by the recipient domain's email server, but most often it must be fixed by the person who sent the message. If the steps in the How to Fix It section above don't fix the problem, and you're the email admin for the recipient, try one or more of the following:

The email address exists and is correct - Confirm that the recipient address exists, is correct, and is accepting messages.

Synchronize your directories - If you have a hybrid environment and are using directory synchronization make sure the recipient's email address is synced correctly in both Office 365 and in your on-premises directory.

Errant forwarding rule - Check for forwarding rules that aren't behaving as expected.

Forwarding can be set up by an admin via mail flow rules or mailbox forwarding address settings, or by the recipient via the Inbox Rules feature.

Mail flow settings and MX records are not correct - Misconfigured mail flow or MX record settings can cause this error. Check your Office 365 mail flow settings to make sure your domain and any mail flow connectors are set up correctly. Also, work with your domain registrar to make sure the MX records for your domain are configured correctly.

For more information and additional tips to fix this issue, see Fix email delivery issues for error code 550 5.1.1 in Office 365.

Dear Lillie Carroll & Paul Boyd

Re: Wallgrove Business Hub: Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Assessment Report – Registration of Aboriginal Parties.

The Wallgrove Business Hub development at 97-123 & 125-151 Wallgrove Road, Cecil Park, was declared a State Significant Development under the Environmental Planning and Assessment Act 1979. The Secretary's Environmental Assessment Requirements (SEARs) (SSD 50972718) for the project have now been received which specify:

---

19. Aboriginal Cultural Heritage • Provide an Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Assessment Report prepared in accordance with relevant guidelines, identifying, describing and assessing any impacts on any Aboriginal cultural heritage values on the land.

Artefact Heritage has been engaged by Parramatta Park & Western Sydney Parklands Trust (the proponent) to prepare an Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Assessment Report (ACHAR) to satisfy the SEARs conditions as they relate to Aboriginal cultural heritage. This ACHAR will be prepared in accordance with the Guide to investigating, assessing and reporting on Aboriginal Cultural Heritage in NSW (OEH 2011) and may be used to support an Aboriginal Heritage Impact Permit (AHIP) application for the project. Preparation of the ACHAR will additionally include community consultation in accordance with the Aboriginal cultural heritage consultation requirements for proponents (DECCW 2010). The purpose of community consultation is to assist the proponent in identifying and describing the Aboriginal cultural heritage values within the proposal area and aid in the documentation of these values in the environmental assessment.

The proposed development is located within the City of Fairfield Local Government Area (LGA) and within the boundaries of the Deerubbin Local Aboriginal Land Council (LALC). The location of the study area is shown in Figure 1 below. Assessment of Aboriginal heritage for such developments is subject to the National Parks and Wildlife Act NSW 1974, under the oversight of Heritage NSW.

The Wallgrove Road area of Cecil Park, New South Wales is home to several Aboriginal sites and artifacts that hold immense significance to the local Aboriginal community. These cultural treasures provide a unique insight into the rich history and traditions of the Aboriginal people who inhabited the region for thousands of years.

The rock engravings, which date back to around 4,000 years, depict a range of images including animals, people, and spiritual symbols. The grinding grooves, which were used by Aboriginal people to grind seeds and other food sources, and the stone tools, used for hunting and daily activities, offer a glimpse into the daily lives of past generations.

These sites and artifacts serve as a tangible link to the cultural and spiritual heritage of the local Aboriginal community. They offer a connection to their ancestors and a deeper understanding of their traditions and customs. The significance of these sites and artifacts cannot be overstated, as they represent a vital part of the region's history and cultural identity.

This ACHAR will be prepared in accordance with the Guide to investigating, assessing and reporting on Aboriginal Cultural Heritage in NSW (OEH 2011)[NJ2] . Preparation of the ACHAR will additionally include community consultation in accordance with the Aboriginal cultural heritage consultation requirements for proponents (DECCW 2010). The purpose of community consultation is to assist the proponent in identifying and describing the Aboriginal cultural heritage values within the proposal area and aid in the documentation of these values in the environmental assessment.

The study area is located in the City of Fairfield Local Government Area (LGA) and within the boundaries of the Deerubbin Local Aboriginal Land Council (LALC). The study area is located in Lot 24 DP1152887 and Lot 25 DP2954[NJ3] (Figure 1).

1.2 Proposed assessment methodology

1.2.1 Statutory requirements for the completion of an ACHAR

Artefact Heritage proposes to develop an assessment methodology in accordance with the following guidelines:

- Guide to Investigating, Assessing and Reporting on Aboriginal Cultural Heritage in NSW (OEH 2011)

- Code of Practice for Archaeological Investigation of Aboriginal Objects in New South Wales (DECCW 2010b)

The initial stages of this process have been completed, and a list of Registered Aboriginal Parties (RAPs) has been compiled. The present letter provides the RAPs with project information and the proposed assessment methodology for review.

The ACHAR will consist of the following components:

- Aboriginal community consultation: The initial stages of this process have been completed, and a list of Registered Aboriginal Parties (RAPs) has been compiled. The present letter provides the RAPs with project information and the proposed assessment methodology for review. The next stage of the consultation process will include the opportunity for comment on the proposed works and the assessment.
- Review of existing knowledge: Review of previous archaeological works and Aboriginal Heritage Information Management System (AHIMS) search results
- Review of the landscape context: Desktop assessment of the archaeological implications of the landscape features (soil landscapes, historic land use, geomorphic character, and natural resources) relevant to the study area
- Summary and discussion of the local and regional archaeological character of Aboriginal land use and its material traces based on the finds of the previous two steps.

- Development of a predictive model for the nature and distribution of archaeological evidence of Aboriginal land use based on the previous three steps.
- Completion of an archaeological survey to test the prediction developed in the previous step. If Aboriginal sites are identified, submissions of site recordings for registration on AHIMS would be undertaken.
- Discussion of the results of the archaeological survey and re-evaluation of the regional and local archaeological character
- Assessment of the significance of any identified Aboriginal objects or places
- Assessment of likely impacts to Aboriginal objects and Potential Archaeological Deposits (PADs) based on the current design plans.
- Consideration of any practical measures that may be required to protect and conserve identified Aboriginal objects and places identified within the study area.

1.2.2 Timeframes

Artefact proposes the following indicative timeframes for the project:

- Distribution of this document to Registered Aboriginal Parties: 1 May 2023
- End of review period for the proposed methodology: 29 May 2023
- Distribution of draft ACHAR to Registered Aboriginal Parties for review: within two weeks of the closing date for comment on this methodology.

1.2.3 Information Sought

The proponent would appreciate your feedback on the methodology proposed above for the investigation and assessment of the study area.

In returning your answers, please include the following where appropriate:

1.1 Introduction

The Wallgrove Business Hub development at 97-123 & 125-151 Wallgrove Road, Cecil Park, was declared a State Significant Development under the Environmental Planning and Assessment Act 1979. The Secretary's Environmental Assessment Requirements (SEARs) (SSD 50972718) for the project were issued on 16 December 2022 which specify:

> 19. Aboriginal Cultural Heritage • Provide an Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Assessment Report prepared in accordance with relevant guidelines, identifying, describing and assessing any impacts on any Aboriginal cultural heritage values on the land.

Artefact Heritage has been engaged by Parramatta Park & Western Sydney Parklands Trust (the proponent) to prepare an Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Assessment Report (ACHAR) to satisfy the SEARs conditions as they relate to Aboriginal cultural heritage. This ACHAR will be prepared in accordance with the Guide to investigating, assessing and reporting on Aboriginal Cultural Heritage in NSW (OEH 2011)[NJ2] . Preparation of the ACHAR will additionally include community consultation in accordance with the Aboriginal cultural heritage consultation requirements for proponents (DECCW 2010). The purpose of community consultation is to assist the proponent in identifying and describing the Aboriginal cultural heritage values within the proposal area and aid in the documentation of these values in the environmental assessment.

The study area is located in the City of Fairfield Local Government Area (LGA) and within the boundaries of the Deerubbin Local Aboriginal Land Council (LALC). The study area is located in Lot 24 DP1152887 and Lot 25 DP2954[NJ3] (Figure 1).

1.2 Proposed assessment methodology

1.2.1 Statutory requirements for the completion of an ACHAR

Artefact Heritage proposes to develop an assessment methodology in accordance with the following guidelines:

- Guide to Investigating, Assessing and Reporting on Aboriginal Cultural Heritage in NSW (OEH 2011)
- Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Consultation Requirements for Proponents 2010 (DECCW 2010a)
- Code of Practice for Archaeological Investigation of Aboriginal Objects in New South Wales (DECCW 2010b)

The initial stages of this process have been completed, and a list of Registered Aboriginal Parties (RAPs) has been compiled. The present letter provides the RAPs with project information and the proposed assessment methodology for review.

The ACHAR will consist of the following components:

- Aboriginal community consultation: The initial stages of this process have been completed, and a list of Registered Aboriginal Parties (RAPs) has been compiled. The present letter provides the RAPs with project information and the proposed assessment methodology for review. The next stage of the consultation process will include the opportunity for comment on the proposed works and the assessment.
- Review of existing knowledge: Review of previous archaeological works and Aboriginal Heritage Information Management System (AHIMS) search results
- Review of the landscape context: Desktop assessment of the archaeological implications of the landscape features (soil landscapes, historic land use, geomorphic character, and natural resources) relevant to the study area
- Summary and discussion of the local and regional archaeological character of Aboriginal land use and its material traces based on the finds of the previous two steps.

- Development of a predictive model for the nature and distribution of archaeological evidence of Aboriginal land use based on the previous three steps.
- Completion of an archaeological survey to test the prediction developed in the previous step. If Aboriginal sites are identified, submissions of site recordings for registration on AHIMS would be undertaken.
- Discussion of the results of the archaeological survey and re-evaluation of the regional and local archaeological character
- Assessment of the significance of any identified Aboriginal objects or places
- Assessment of likely impacts to Aboriginal objects and Potential Archaeological Deposits (PADs) based on the current design plans.
- Consideration of any practical measures that may be required to protect and conserve identified Aboriginal objects and places identified within the study area.

1.2.2 Timeframes

Artefact proposes the following indicative timeframes for the project:

- Distribution of this document to Registered Aboriginal Parties: 1 May 2023
- End of review period for the proposed methodology: 29 May 2023
- Distribution of draft ACHAR to Registered Aboriginal Parties for review: within two weeks of the closing date for comment on this methodology.

1.2.3 Information Sought

The proponent would appreciate your feedback on the methodology proposed above for the investigation and assessment of the study area.

In returning your answers, please include the following where appropriate:

- Any protocols that you would like adopted during the project.
- Identification of any Aboriginal objects of cultural significance and/or importance that you are aware of within the study area, and how you wish them to be dealt with during the project.
- Identification of any places of cultural significance and/or importance that you are aware of within the activity area, and how you wish them to be dealt with during the project.
- Guidance on the protocols, sensitivity, use and/or distribution of any cultural information that you provide to the proponent.

The initial stages of this process have been completed, and a list of Registered Aboriginal Parties (RAPs) has been compiled. The present letter provides the RAPs with project information and the proposed assessment methodology for review.

The ACHAR will consist of the following components:

- Aboriginal community consultation: The initial stages of this process have been completed, and a list of Registered Aboriginal Parties (RAPs) has been compiled. The present letter provides the RAPs with project information and the proposed assessment methodology for review. The next stage of the consultation process will include the opportunity for comment on the proposed works and the assessment.
- Review of existing knowledge: Review of previous archaeological works and Aboriginal Heritage Information Management System (AHIMS) search results
- Review of the landscape context: Desktop assessment of the archaeological implications of the landscape features (soil landscapes, historic land use, geomorphic character, and natural resources) relevant to the study area
- Summary and discussion of the local and regional archaeological character of Aboriginal land use and its material traces based on the finds of the previous two steps.

- Development of a predictive model for the nature and distribution of archaeological evidence of Aboriginal land use based on the previous three steps.
- Completion of an archaeological survey to test the prediction developed in the previous step. If Aboriginal sites are identified, submissions of site recordings for registration on AHIMS would be undertaken.
- Discussion of the results of the archaeological survey and re-evaluation of the regional and local archaeological character
- Assessment of the significance of any identified Aboriginal objects or places
- Assessment of likely impacts to Aboriginal objects and Potential Archaeological Deposits (PADs) based on the current design plans.
- Consideration of any practical measures that may be required to protect and conserve identified Aboriginal objects and places identified within the study area.

1.2.2 Timeframes

Artefact proposes the following indicative timeframes for the project:

- Distribution of this document to Registered Aboriginal Parties: 1 May 2023
- End of review period for the proposed methodology: 29 May 2023
- Distribution of draft ACHAR to Registered Aboriginal Parties for review: within two weeks of the closing date for comment on this methodology.

1.2.3 Information Sought

The proponent would appreciate your feedback on the methodology proposed above for the investigation and assessment of the study area.

In returning your answers, please include the following where appropriate:

- Any protocols that you would like adopted during the project.
- Identification of any Aboriginal objects of cultural significance and/or importance that you are aware of within the study area, and how you wish them to be dealt with during the project.

1.1 Introduction

The Wallgrove Business Hub development at 97-123 & 125-151 Wallgrove Road, Cecil Park, was declared a State Significant Development under the Environmental Planning and Assessment Act 1979. The Secretary's Environmental Assessment Requirements (SEARs) (SSD 50972718) for the project were issued on 16 December 2022 which specify:

> 19. Aboriginal Cultural Heritage • Provide an Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Assessment Report prepared in accordance with relevant guidelines, identifying, describing and assessing any impacts on any Aboriginal cultural heritage values on the land.

Artefact Heritage has been engaged by Parramatta Park & Western Sydney Parklands Trust (the proponent) to prepare an Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Assessment Report (ACHAR) to satisfy the SEARs conditions as they relate to Aboriginal cultural heritage. This ACHAR will be prepared in accordance with the Guide to investigating, assessing and reporting on Aboriginal Cultural Heritage in NSW (OEH 2011)[NJ2] . Preparation of the ACHAR will additionally include community consultation in accordance with the Aboriginal cultural heritage consultation requirements for proponents (DECCW 2010). The purpose of community consultation is to assist the proponent in identifying and describing the Aboriginal cultural heritage values within the proposal area and aid in the documentation of these values in the environmental assessment.

The study area is located in the City of Fairfield Local Government Area (LGA) and within the boundaries of the Deerubbin Local Aboriginal Land Council (LALC). The study area is located in Lot 24 DP1152887 and Lot 25 DP2954[NJ3] (Figure 1).

1.2 Proposed assessment methodology

1.2.1 Statutory requirements for the completion of an ACHAR

Artefact Heritage proposes to develop an assessment methodology in accordance with the following guidelines:

- Guide to Investigating, Assessing and Reporting on Aboriginal Cultural Heritage in NSW (OEH 2011)
- Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Consultation Requirements for Proponents 2010 (DECCW 2010a)
- Code of Practice for Archaeological Investigation of Aboriginal Objects in New South Wales (DECCW 2010b)

The initial stages of this process have been completed, and a list of Registered Aboriginal Parties (RAPs) has been compiled. The present letter provides the RAPs with project information and the proposed assessment methodology for review.

The ACHAR will consist of the following components:

- Aboriginal community consultation: The initial stages of this process have been completed, and a list of Registered Aboriginal Parties (RAPs) has been compiled. The present letter provides the RAPs with project information and the proposed assessment methodology for review. The next stage of the consultation process will include the opportunity for comment on the proposed works and the assessment.
- Review of existing knowledge: Review of previous archaeological works and Aboriginal Heritage Information Management System (AHIMS) search results
- Review of the landscape context: Desktop assessment of the archaeological implications of the landscape features (soil landscapes, historic land use, geomorphic character, and natural resources) relevant to the study area
- Summary and discussion of the local and regional archaeological character of Aboriginal land use and its material traces based on the finds of the previous two steps.

- Development of a predictive model for the nature and distribution of archaeological evidence of Aboriginal land use based on the previous three steps.
- Completion of an archaeological survey to test the prediction developed in the previous step. If Aboriginal sites are identified, submissions of site recordings for registration on AHIMS would be undertaken.
- Discussion of the results of the archaeological survey and re-evaluation of the regional and local archaeological character
- Assessment of the significance of any identified Aboriginal objects or places
- Assessment of likely impacts to Aboriginal objects and Potential Archaeological Deposits (PADs) based on the current design plans.
- Consideration of any practical measures that may be required to protect and conserve identified Aboriginal objects and places identified within the study area.

1.2.2 Timeframes

Artefact proposes the following indicative timeframes for the project:

- Distribution of this document to Registered Aboriginal Parties: 1 May 2023
- End of review period for the proposed methodology: 29 May 2023
- Distribution of draft ACHAR to Registered Aboriginal Parties for review: within two weeks of the closing date for comment on this methodology.

1.2.3 Information Sought

The proponent would appreciate your feedback on the methodology proposed above for the investigation and assessment of the study area.

In returning your answers, please include the following where appropriate:

- Any protocols that you would like adopted during the project.
- Identification of any Aboriginal objects of cultural significance and/or importance that you are aware of within the study area, and how you wish them to be dealt with during the project.

Hi Kelly

Koori Digs agrees with methodology.

It is also important to recognize that many Aboriginal cultural sites and artifacts have been lost or damaged due to colonization, development, and other factors, and that efforts to preserve and protect these sites are ongoing. The protection and preservation of Aboriginal cultural heritage is not only important for the cultural and spiritual well-being of Aboriginal communities, but also for the broader social and environmental health of the region.

[NJ1]Just removing our project number so it doesn't get confused with address or date or something, fine to keep in the file name!

[NJ2]AHIP and SSD are two different approvals, won't have both in one project.

[NJ3]As above, is this highlighted to be updated?

Hi Kelly,

My apologies for the late response, I recently came out of hospital and hope you can still accept my response.

Thank you for your methodology regarding Wallgrove Business Hub development at 97-123 & 125-151 Wallgrove Road, Cecil Park.

The study area is close to range of water ways, Ropes Creek & Upper Canal this suggest room for occupation by Aboriginal people, allowing a resource rich environment, allowing Aboriginal people to thrive in an ecosystem known to them and cared for the land around them for tens of thousands of years as we continue to do so today. We support your methodology to investigate further. We look forward to working alongside you on this project.

Kind Regards
Phil Khan

Re: [NJ1] Wallgrove Business Hub Heritage works: Proposed Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Assessment Methodology

Dear Phil Khan,

Thank you for registering as a stakeholder for the Wallgrove Business Hub Heritage works project. Your interest in the project has been formally registered in accordance with the Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Consultation Requirements for Proponents 2010.

The next stage of Aboriginal cultural heritage work is due to commence, and we are contacting you regarding preparation of an Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Assessment Report (ACHAR) for the project.

This letter provides information about the project and the proposed methodology for the ACHAR. I would like to invite you to review the methodology and provide any comments by 29 May 2023.

If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact Artefact Heritage on 02 9518 8411, or by email at consultation@artefact.net.au.

Kind regards,

1.1 Introduction

The Wallgrove Business Hub development at 97-123 & 125-151 Wallgrove Road, Cecil Park, was declared a State Significant Development under the Environmental Planning and Assessment Act 1979. The Secretary's Environmental Assessment Requirements (SEARs) (SSD 50972718) for the project were issued on 16 December 2022 which specify:

> 19. Aboriginal Cultural Heritage • Provide an Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Assessment Report prepared in accordance with relevant guidelines, identifying, describing and assessing any impacts on any Aboriginal cultural heritage values on the land.

Artefact Heritage has been engaged by Parramatta Park & Western Sydney Parklands Trust (the proponent) to prepare an Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Assessment Report (ACHAR) to satisfy the SEARs conditions as they relate to Aboriginal cultural heritage. This ACHAR will be prepared in accordance with the Guide to investigating, assessing and reporting on Aboriginal Cultural Heritage in NSW (OEH 2011)[NJ2] . Preparation of the ACHAR will additionally include community consultation in accordance with the Aboriginal cultural heritage consultation requirements for proponents (DECCW 2010). The purpose of community consultation is to assist the proponent in identifying and describing the Aboriginal cultural heritage values within the proposal area and aid in the documentation of these values in the environmental assessment.

The study area is located in the City of Fairfield Local Government Area (LGA) and within the boundaries of the Deerubbin Local Aboriginal Land Council (LALC). The study area is located in Lot 24 DP1152887 and Lot 25 DP2954[NJ3] (Figure 1).

1.2 Proposed assessment methodology

1.2.1 Statutory requirements for the completion of an ACHAR

Artefact Heritage proposes to develop an assessment methodology in accordance with the following guidelines:

- Guide to Investigating, Assessing and Reporting on Aboriginal Cultural Heritage in NSW (OEH 2011)
- Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Consultation Requirements for Proponents 2010 (DECCW 2010a)
- Code of Practice for Archaeological Investigation of Aboriginal Objects in New South Wales (DECCW 2010b)

The initial stages of this process have been completed, and a list of Registered Aboriginal Parties (RAPs) has been compiled. The present letter provides the RAPs with project information and the proposed assessment methodology for review.

The ACHAR will consist of the following components:

- Aboriginal community consultation: The initial stages of this process have been completed, and a list of Registered Aboriginal Parties (RAPs) has been compiled. The present letter provides the RAPs with project information and the proposed assessment methodology for review. The next stage of the consultation process will include the opportunity for comment on the proposed works and the assessment.
- Review of existing knowledge: Review of previous archaeological works and Aboriginal Heritage Information Management System (AHIMS) search results
- Review of the landscape context: Desktop assessment of the archaeological implications of the landscape features (soil landscapes, historic land use, geomorphic character, and natural resources) relevant to the study area
- Summary and discussion of the local and regional archaeological character of Aboriginal land use and its material traces based on the finds of the previous two steps.
- Development of a predictive model for the nature and distribution of archaeological evidence of Aboriginal land use based on the previous three steps.

- Completion of an archaeological survey to test the prediction developed in the previous step. If Aboriginal sites are identified, submissions of site recordings for registration on AHIMS would be undertaken.
- Discussion of the results of the archaeological survey and re-evaluation of the regional and local archaeological character
- Assessment of the significance of any identified Aboriginal objects or places
- Assessment of likely impacts to Aboriginal objects and Potential Archaeological Deposits (PADs) based on the current design plans.
- Consideration of any practical measures that may be required to protect and conserve identified Aboriginal objects and places identified within the study area.

1.2.2 Timeframes

Artefact proposes the following indicative timeframes for the project:

- Distribution of this document to Registered Aboriginal Parties: 1 May 2023
- End of review period for the proposed methodology: 29 May 2023
- Distribution of draft ACHAR to Registered Aboriginal Parties for review: within two weeks of the closing date for comment on this methodology.

1.2.3 Information Sought

The proponent would appreciate your feedback on the methodology proposed above for the investigation and assessment of the study area.

In returning your answers, please include the following where appropriate:

- Any protocols that you would like adopted during the project.
- Identification of any Aboriginal objects of cultural significance and/or importance that you are aware of within the study area, and how you wish them to be dealt with during the project.
- Identification of any places of cultural significance and/or importance that you are aware of within the activity area, and how you wish them to be dealt with during the project.
- Guidance on the protocols, sensitivity, use and/or distribution of any cultural information that you provide to the proponent.
- Whether you require any further information prior to Artefact Heritage proceeding with the project.
