

A 3D wireframe architectural model of a city block. The model is composed of numerous rectangular blocks of varying heights and widths, representing different buildings. The entire scene is set on a perspective grid that recedes into the distance. The buildings are arranged in a dense urban layout, with some taller structures in the center and shorter ones towards the edges. The wireframe style allows for a clear view of the underlying geometric structure of the model.

JUN-2014 15:12