I strongly object to the demolition of this large modern stadium (albeit in need of some upgrading). I live in Oxford St and work in Burton street - both in close proximity to the existing stadium. I am already affected by noise, ambient light and traffic from the stadium.

However demotolition and reconstruction of this adequate stadium - for dubious and contritie political reasons - is both unfair and morally corrupt to inflict upon local residents and workers.

To be susinct my objections are based on this

1. Noise.

Demotolition will be extrememly noisy as the structure is a substantial concrete structure. The noise will persist for amny many months. Then there will be construction noise for considerable time. Added to this will be increased traffic of heavy vehicles for this purpose. Noise in the inner city is already a health and lifestyle issue.

2. Pollution

Demotolition will create sgnificant airborne pollution. Waterjets and spraying make little impact. Significant pollution is already a major problem to health and life expectancy in residents of the inner city.

Construction of this magnitude will increase this significantly and impact on health and life expectancy

3. Trees. Over the past 5 years more than 1000 mature trees have disappeared from around the inner city. Trees decrease carbon pollution and heat load in a city. They reduce cancers - such as skin cancer in particular by shading. Subsitution and replacement of 100 year old tree by a 5 year old tree is as stupid as replacing the 55 year old CEO (or premier!!) of a company with a 4 year old child. We will all too soon see the folly of disrepecting trees in such a cavallier manner. The removal of any trees in this construction is unnecessary and so disrepectful topast and future generations

4. Financial

To spend this amount of money to replace an adequate and modern stadium with essentially the same capacity and with a few more disabled toilets is morally corrupt. We are closing hospital beds to pay for some velvet lined corporate boxes, whilst the bush burns and the farmers die of drought due to global warming. (nb Easter Island!!!!)

Objection to SFS Redevelopment.

-Cost

-Numbers who use it are low

-Disruption to local area, trucks, noise, dirt, dust, working after hours.

-Use of MP1 as a compound this is public amenity

-Removal of 26 mature trees

-Locals need a break from years of construction work ie Light Rail

-Benefits minimal as to cost and amenity disruptions.

-I have lived in the area for 25 years and use stadium regularly and object to the cost, the building and construction of SFS.

I object to the proposal on the following grounds:

- This is an obscene waste of public money which could be better spent elsewhere
- It does not even offer a return to the public on any timeframe (with economic benefit ratio of less than 1)
- effectively it is putting public money down the toilet
- Knocking down the existing stadium to build a larger one doesn't even achieve any purpose as it is rarely full. Any plans to improve utilisation are unlikely to do more than pull events away from other venues where they are already adequately catered to; it would not meet any unmet needs in our city.
- To the extent that increased capacity were to be utilised, there is not sufficient parking and public transport access to the site to support the increased capacity. Even if parking were increased, the roads in the surrounding area would not be able to accommodate the increased volume of traffic. It doesn't make any sense to build more capacity at the edge of a congested city with inadequate public transport, when the larger population and demand for such facilities is in Western Sydney.
- Construction works will impact resident's access and use of Moore Park and would also result in further removal of 26 trees from the area
- I also strongly object to the lack of proper planning process, community engagement and transparency surrounding this project. Clearly there is no public support for this project so why is the government pressing ahead with it? Democracies should respond to the will of the people, not the will of Alan Jones and other vested interests. This whole process smacks of corruption and should be investigated.

This proposal makes very little sense for the following reasons-

Seating capacity- New Stadium 45,000. Current- Same

Host international events New- yes.Current-yes

Corporate boxes New-yes Current- May be modified

Home ground for teams in national comps New-yes. Current-yes

Promote non-car use.New- No different from current situation.

Light Rail- 14,000 per hr. New stadium capacity 45,000. How many hours of Light Rail trips for a match?

Proposals-

Will bring sport back to city-No difference-People will still have to walk up Foveaux St as now(less 14,000 lucky enough to catch Light Rail)Create precinct well connected to city-No difference

Include technology for future-Why not add to current stadium?

Create venue for professional sport- Same as now

Create publicly accessible entertainment (Horden Pavillion ?) and recreational facility (Centennial Park?) facility.Here already.

Create a sustainable future- 30 years? like current stadium

So what do we get for 800 million or so?

If more female toilets and Corporate boxes and a wider roof then why not ask some good architects to suggest modifications. Save money and get a better stadium without another possible financial fiasco.(See Light Rail)

I would like to submit my strong objection to the Sydney Football stadium redevelopment. It is an absolutely unjustifiable waste of a huge amount of money. The problems with the stadium can be rectified with renovation. The buildings that are to be demolished are relatively newly built and it is a wanton and flagrant waste of money demolishing them. It is unbelievable that a government to behave this way and I desperately hope it does not go ahead

 I oppose the destruction and rebuild of the stadium on the following grounds:

It is a huge waste of public money that could be better spent on much-needed schools, hospitals and public transport. The government's own analysis shows that the benefit-cost ratio is less than one, so why is this still going ahead?

The stadium project redirects public money into private hands at the request of Alan Jones and the powerful Sydney Cricket & Sports Ground Trust, serving private interests rather than those of the community.

The choice of location is poor due to lack of parking, public transport infrastructure and proximity to residential areas. Traffic congestion is already terrible during events and this is set to get even worse with a larger stadium. It would make much more sense to build a new stadium in Western Sydney where the majority of the population is.

There is no demand for a larger stadium as the current one is rarely at capacity.

The planning process has been rushed, opaque and deliberately kept out of the public eye, and the community has not been properly consulted.

Yet more trees will be destroyed in the Moore Park area, the surrounding residential areas and parks will be disrupted by construction works, and the continuing use of Moore Park as a car park during events means it is not available for use by the public.

The building is of significant architectural interest due to its award-winning design and should be properly maintained by the SCG Trust, not demolished.

Jack KingDepartment of Planning
Received

25 JUN 2013

Scanning Room

20/114 Burton St, Darlinghurst 201Sydney Football Stadium Redevelopment, SSD 9249

I object in the strongest terms to the proposed redevelopment of Sydney Football Stadium.

I object because this redevelopment is completely unnecessary, in its short 30 year history the present stadium has never reached capacity, in fact attendance of between 10,000 and 17,000 is the norm.

I object to the loss of trees and to the fact that nearly all your objectives are already in place.

I object to the fact that the Minister for Planning has not directed that a public hearing should be held.

Yours faithfully 1/1/12

Sydney Football Stadium is quite adequate as it is.

It does not require a large amount of money thrown at it, only moderate maintenance and adjustment.

The government should spend this money on developing sporting facilities in rural New South Wales and establishing a fund that will support the maintenance of such facilities.

I deeply object to the demolition and rebuilding of the stadium. As a resident of the area for many years, I know that the development is unnecessary, and that any shortfalls in the current building could be dealt with by refurbishment. It is my view that the redevelopment is for the benefit of a very small minority, and that it will have an unacceptable and permanent effect on the quality of life of nearby residents, and on the park and the environment generally. Further, I know members of the current trust who are opposed and who believe that the redevelopment will cause them to lose the substantial premium they paid to join, and the facilities that they presently have access to. Anecdotally, many members oppose the redevelopment but feel they have had no say in whether or not it should happen.

I do not believe that the project should be approved. If necessary, a refurbishment is all that should take place.

I feel my tax money could be used more usefully than updates to a football stadium (which I never use) this government is out of control. I heard they want to remove kippax lake and put a car park there unbelievable also the removal of 26 trees, what is wrong with these people maybe they should just turn centennial park into a giant stadium. just so some guys can ran around playing with a ball. mike beard has a lot to answer to and not the old need to spend more time with the family he left government so quickly. the power house museum. now they want to remove heritage listed property in parramatta for the new museum. when will someone decent like david shoebridge take the reins of this state government.

To Government, developers and her administrators,

I deeply object to the redevelopment of Sydney Football Stadium on the grounds that the proposal will destroy one of the best sporting assets in Sydney in order to increase capacity and dehumanize the venue. I feel this is a misuse of public funds because the current stadium seems work well within its densely populated Paddington context. It seems ridiculous to destroy a great stadium and I feel the proposal has been devised through a process of corrupt thinking.

Don't waste our money. There has to be a better way.

As a neighbor and a long time user of the Sydney Football Stadium I object to approval of every part of this project. I totally oppose demolition of the existing stadium. This is because:

There is no justification for the demolition of a stadium that, as demonstrated last week at the Wallaby Ireland game, already accommodates 44,000 people, similar to a new stadium. I hold a members ticket and attended the game just mentioned. The stadium coped well with the 44,000 spectators. Most often numbers at local games are well below this number and there is more than adequate space and services.

There is no reason why the mooted improvements in disabled access, toilets, food and beverage, team and corporate facilities cannot be made within the existing structure. Other stadiums are often improved gradually, stand by stand, over the years.

The comments about "venue experience" and not being able to see a "high ball" are a weak and ridiculous effort to justify this project. The Football stadium is one of Australia's best stadiums at which to watch sport.

From what has been reported in the media, there is absolutely no business case for this project, there is no return on the proposed investment. The reason for proceeding with this project is a mystery.

A further major construction project would cause more disruption to traffic in this neighborhood and generate more noise and more dust. The works already underway in Moore Park significantly reduce the amenity of this suburb.

The demolition of an existing, functional, operational stadium is unacceptable at this time when the NSW government needs set an example to conserve resources, reduce waste and landfill, and be meeting its commitment to reducing greenhouse emissions in line with the Paris agreement.

There is absolutely no justification for removing any more trees from Moore Park. This area is a sanctuary for wildlife in the city. Over 80 bird species utilize the Centennial Park/Moore Park area.

In summary the NSW Government has not given any valid or understandable reason for demolition of a perfectly functional sports stadium and approval for demolition and the building of a new stadium must be rejected.

Thank you for the opportunity to comment on the new SFS.

I have read that one of the goals of the redevelopment is to have a "world class" stadium, that will then be able to attract/host premium events in Sydney. This ambition immediately raises the bar on what should be part of the new stadium. It would be hoped that international bench-marking of exactly what constitutes "world-class" in all of the criteria is identified, and formalised, in the design brief.

My comment is on three areas:

1. new playing pitch and provision for ancillary uses;

- as a football fan (Sydney FC) this fundamental basic component of a stadium is always neglected here in Australia. Due to Rugby League and Rugby Union occupying a rectangular pitch also, it is always in my opinion neglected by stadium owners or management - the importance of the quality of the playing surface. Football requires the ultimate in a flat, grassed surface to enable the skill, and therefore entertainment value, of the teams playing to be maximised. In the recent WC qualifying campaign (2016-2017), coach Postecoglou stayed away from Australian stadiums that could not provide the surface his team required to play "world class" football.

Rugby codes can be played on a paddock. But football cannot. I hope the persons responsible for this decision watched the 2018 FIFA World Cup in Russia - and noted the types of surface that are needed for the best in the game to be able to be demonstrated.

To that end, I recommend for a surface that can stand up to the many games throughout the year - football, league and union - that the pitch be made as a HYBRID pitch.

Not an artificial pitch (known colloquially as astro-turf).

But a HYBRID pitch - usually +95% grass, and <5% polypropylene fibres.

This provides a surface that is strong, does not tear up, and lasts longer with traffic. Everyone in Sydney is all too familiar with the embarrassing scenes of the pitch tearing up with a Wallabies scrum, or sand being kicked up by footballers after a pitch relay. World class? Not! World class is now recognised to be a HYBRID pitch. I supply a link to a supplier - not as the only option - but merely an example of the technology being referred to:

<https://www.grassmastersolutions.com/en/grassmaster-overview>

2. a roof over all permanent seating;

This is mandatory for a world class stadium.

There should be no misunderstanding here - with normal vertical rain - NO PERSON should get wet. 80% people dry, 90% people dry is not satisfactory. Don't be an embarrassment and have the stadium criticised on the first shower that comes down.

3. team, media and administration facilities,

There needs to be at least 4 dressing room complexes.

This is to enable double headers for men's and women's football. You would not want to have the embarrassment of the Central Coast Mariners not being able to field a W-League team because their home stadium did not have sufficient change rooms.

Two of the dressing rooms should be larger and fitted for the home teams. The other two for visiting teams - of a smaller size. All great stadiums in the world have this format - e.g. Nou Camp at Barcelona FC, etc.

I object to this project due to:

- a) it is a massive waste of public money;
- b) it will enormously increase volume of both pedestrian and vehicle traffic in a high-density residential area;
- c) it will increase the potential for antisocial behaviour - loutishness, urination in residential streets, etc.;
- d) works will be of very long duration - we residents of the area are well overdue for some relief following major works which have now been on foot for several years.

The refurbishment will increase traffic in an already very congested area.
 It will put further strain on scarce residential parking.
 It will create nuisance through noise and unruly behaviour of patrons who have been drinking excessively.
 We should be using and encouraging the use of the Olympic Stadium which is better situated to cater for large scale football games and concerts.
 No more trees, particularly old heritage trees, should be removed from this area.
 There is very little voter support for this project, other than developers and big business.
 The taxpayer money, our money, can be much better spent on long term plans like better public transport, more parks, more public housing, health, education, shelters and refugees.

1. Let me explain my professional credentials, first of all. I was the CEO of the renaissance of Melbourne in the early 1990's, from a citizen-led, whole-of-society response, that was so successful that it had the support of all three tiers of government and all sides of politics. Ask Lucy Turnbull - she tried to emulate this approach in Sydney.
2. I am generally pro-development, given my reputation with transforming Melbourne ie I am acknowledged as the father of the Melbourne Docklands redevelopment etc.
3. Method is everything. The NSW Govt approach to this redevelopment, including through the political obfuscation and this overly bureaucratic website, is embarrassing to those of us who are experienced in good government policy development. If i were an independent public servant, I would be most careful and concerned about having my reputation associated with this project.
4. I therefore object to the proposal, not because of its intrinsic merits or otherwise, but because of the lack of respect and due process in properly informing and taking along the local and wider community with the government. In other words, it doesn't pass the smell test.
5. Specific questions: where will the tennis, swimming, fitness and ancillary facilities for the new development be located? Can the community be assured that it will be only within the envelope of the the current SCG Trust lands? Otherwise, whose land, whose amenity will be consumed?

I am writing to object to the proposal for construction of the new Sydney Football Stadium at 40-44 Driver Ave Paddington. My objections are that the construction of a brand new stadium is just not needed at this time when the issues mentioned as reasons to justify the building of a new stadium (Page 26 of the EIS) can be achieved through rectification works that could be carried out on the current stadium at a fraction of the cost of the new stadium.

I object to any money being spent on the Allianz Stadium except for repairs and upkeep, and reasonable renovations. NSW has burning need for schools, health facilities, parks for general use, and community space.

The Stadium at Homebush, serving a far wider suburban area and with plenty of parking should be the priority.

I particularly dislike any encroachment on Moore Park, and it seems this will get greater if you persist in using the MP! as a demolition and construction compound. And any encroachment on facilities in other parts of the Entertainment centre. This is mostly precious public land, and the city is going to be huge. Why on earth develop Allianz Stadium. also 26 trees to be removed is a lot when the city will need all the greenery it can get. This proposal is a dog. Dump it and spend money on something else. I am a football enthusiast by the way.

Sydney Football Stadium Redevelopment - SSD_9249

The National Trust of Australia (NSW) lodges a strong objection to this proposal to demolish the Sydney Football Stadium (Allianz Stadium) at 40-44 Driver Avenue, Moore Park and to put forward a Concept Plan for the construction of a new stadium with seating for 45,000 people.

The National Trust finds it extraordinary, given the considerable community interest and concern on this development proposal, that a period of only 28 days (20 working days), has been allowed for the public to become aware of this proposal and to understand what is being proposed and lodge a formal submission.

The 1827/37 Busby's Bore listed on the State Heritage Register in 1999 (Permanent Conservation Order 1988), passes beneath the development site.

The site is directly opposite the State Heritage Register Listed Centennial Park, Moore Park, Queens Park, listed in March 2000 and now nominated for the National Heritage List. These parks and the Allianz Stadium site were part of Governor Macquarie's 1811 Sydney Common.

The site is directly opposite the 1848 Victoria Barracks listed on the Commonwealth Heritage List in June, 2004 with the following Statement of Significance: -

"The Victoria Barracks precinct is the finest complex of colonial barracks (pre 1850) in Australia and is still in military use. It contains one of the most important groups of Edwardian military buildings in Australia. It is a good and intact example of nineteenth century military barracks planning, evidencing contemporary attitudes to planning, defence, the role of the military and the daily life and operation of the British military. It contains a substantial number of buildings, groups of buildings and other features and vegetation of high individual significance. It is the principal physical evidence in New South Wales (NSW) of many of the phases of the State's military history throughout the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries (Criteria D.2 and A.4). The precinct contains one of the best groups of colonial sandstone buildings in NSW and is a very fine example of colonial buildings in the Greek Revival style (Criterion F.1). The Barracks Precinct provides a strong townscape link between the high density development of nineteenth century Paddington and the open space of Moore Park. With Victoria Barracks, Melbourne, it is one of the most architecturally imposing nineteenth century military establishments in Australia. It is a precinct in Sydney containing a rare consistency of periods, materials and styles, a section of which has an evocative Edwardian character (Criterion E.1). The precinct is a potentially valuable site for future archaeological investigation of past methods of construction and ways of life. The locations of the original buildings both extant and removed are of particular interest (Criterion C.2). It survives as the only substantial military barracks complex built in Australia in the early Victorian period. With Anglesea Barracks, Hobart and Lancer Barracks, Parramatta, it is one of the few surviving sites evidencing the British military presence in Australia in the colonial period. The Barracks has the only surviving perimeter wall in NSW which was constructed as a defensive system around the barrack complex."

The Allianz Stadium Site (proposed development site) is within the Moore Park Sydney Cricket Ground Heritage Conservation Area listed on the Sydney Local Environmental Plan 2012 and directly adjoins the Sydney Cricket Ground Members' and Lady Members' Stands listed on the State Heritage Register in 1999 (Permanent Conservation Order 1985).

The Allianz Stadium site also sits within a ring of Heritage Conservation Areas: -

Moore Park Heritage Conservation Area (C36 - Sydney Local Environmental Plan 2012)

Paddington South Heritage Conservation Area (C48 - Sydney Local Environmental Plan 2012)

Furber Road Heritage Conservation Area (C6 - Sydney Local Environmental Plan 2012)

Victoria Barracks Heritage Conservation Area (C49 - Sydney Local Environmental Plan 2012)

The Allianz Stadium Site is within a 650 metre ring of approximately one hundred (100) individually listed Heritage Buildings (Sydney Local Environmental Plan 2012) including:

Sydney Boys High School Group

Sydney Girls High School Group

Paddington Town Hall

Victoria Barracks

University of NSW College of Fine Arts

Allianz Stadium (Sydney Football Stadium)

On 24 June, 2015 the Sydney Football Stadium, ('Allianz Stadium') in Driver Avenue, Moore Park was listed on the National Trust Register. The Statement of Significance on the Trust Register Listing Report for the Stadium is set out as follows: -

"The Sydney Cricket Ground and the Sydney Football Stadium are in the vicinity of a range of heritage items, notably the Fox Studios (former Sydney Showground) and Centennial Park. The Sydney Football Stadium is one of a suite of related structures in the SCG representing two of the nation's favourite pastimes football and cricket and sport generally.

The Sydney Football Stadium has strong associations with some of the country's most prominent sportspeople and holds undoubted social value in the wider community. It is technically expressive, rejoicing in the bravado of both sporting and structural exploits.

The Sydney Football Stadium is one of a suite of Bicentennial and Olympic projects that brought international focus on Australia and Australian architecture. It opened on 24th January 1988 to celebrate Australia's Bicentenary and is of State heritage significance as an excellent example of a Late Twentieth Century Structuralist style public building. It is an important building in the career of the prominent Australian architect Philip Cox who played a significant role in Australia's cultural history. The Stadium is critically acclaimed nationally and internationally by the architectural and engineering professions as significant example of Twentieth Century architecture demonstrating a high level of creativity in its concept, and a high level of integrity in the execution of the original design concept.

The Sydney Football Stadium was designed in 1985 by the notable architectural firm, Philip Cox Richardson Taylor and Partners Pty Ltd. it is one of a suite of outstanding Cox buildings built in Sydney and is part of the enduring image of the celebratory function of the Bicentennial. In 1988 the firm produced five major steel structures in close collaboration with internationally renowned engineers Ove Arup and Partners. Three were sited at Darling Harbour, Sydney's major Bicentennial project.

The Sydney Football Stadium is acknowledged as an aesthetically distinctive design and was a significant technical innovation; after 1988 the Cox practice's 'white stadia expressionism' was adopted globally by other architects and influenced the design of international sports and exhibition facilities.

It has been recognised as an important contributor to world and Australian architecture in numerous publications and the award of the 1988 Building and Civil Design Award, Institute of Engineers and as a Finalist World Quaternario Award. Internationally it is mentioned in Bannister Fletcher, the authoritative book on world architecture, as an important contribution to World and Australian Architecture. It has been recognised by Dennis Sharp as an outstanding example of Twentieth Century Architecture and in Jonathan Ochshorn's essay on the history of technical innovation in steel construction."

The Listing Report's Description of the Sydney Football Stadium (Allianz Stadium) documents how its construction was specifically designed to minimize impacts on the historic Moore Park Conservation Area and the surrounding residential housing: -

"The Sydney Football Stadium is designed as one enclosure seating in excess of 40,000 spectators, with a continuous curving roof around the circumference. The majority of spectators are seated adjacent to centre field for better viewing, with the result that the extent of seating required at each end of the field is minimised, thus allowing the height of the roof to be lowered at each end, reducing the building's scale.

Structurally, the warping of the roof allows a more efficient roof structure while avoiding excessive shading of the turf playing field. The continuous roof edge contains lighting directed toward the field, eliminating any need for lighting towers with their inevitable overspill. This method of floodlighting also gives rise to a more uniform coverage of the pitch, with no defined shadows. The circular form provides good acoustic control while generating an exciting atmosphere.

Part of the overall design provides an exclusive Members Club with a leisure pool, tennis courts, gym and restaurant facilities.

Innovations: The seating bowl was sunk into the ground to reduce built structure scale, visual and environmental impact. Sports lighting was mounted to the leading edge of the roof to avoid the spill caused by lighting towers. The roof was designed in bays to allow for substantial completion on the ground before lifting into position. The circular design places the majority of the seats adjacent to the centre line.

Problems/Solutions: Constraints of the site included its position in the historical Moore Park Conservation Area, the surrounding residential housing, and its confinement by the Cricket Ground to the south, and a major road to the north. By enclosing the field in a circle, the majority of spectators are seated at centre field for better viewing. Thus the extent is reduced at either (residential) end allowing the scale to be reduced. Lighting is in a perimeter bend on the roof edge ensuring there is no spill of light.

The brief for this Bi-centennial project required an economically viable stadium able to seat at least 40,000 spectators with optimum viewing conditions, to provide roof for shade over 60% of spectators, whilst minimising overshadowing of grassed playing area, to produce a building appropriate to its environment and to minimise the effects of light and noise on the surrounding residential areas.

The site presented a number of constraints which included its position within the historic Moore Park conservation area, the problems associated with surrounding residential housing, and the confines of this site with a well established and much patronised Cricket Ground to the south and a major through road to the north.

In order to accommodate the confines of the site the field was enclosed in a circle, with the majority of spectators seated at centre field for better viewing. This has the twofold effect of providing the maximum number of seats at the optimum spectator position, while reducing the numbers and therefore the scale at either end where the effects on the surrounding residential areas are greatest.

The seating bowl was sunk into the ground to further reduce the built structure and its visual and environmental impact.

Structurally, the warping of the roof shape allows a more efficient roof structure, whilst avoiding excessive shading of the turf playing field. In order to maintain that structural integrity, a continuous roof edge was needed. The opportunity was taken to utilise the edge as a band of continuous lighting directed toward the field, thus eliminating any need for lighting towers with their inevitable light overspill.

The continuous circular form provides good acoustic control in addition to generating a quality of atmosphere not possible at the nearby Cricket Ground.

Spectators are divided into two categories - members who take up the upper level western stand and ticket holders who occupy the eastern stand and all the terraces. Circulation is designed as a continuous level ring concourse with all spectators entering the arena on concourse level. On each stand, part of the seating is cut away to provide bars with direct views of the playing fields. In terms of expression and language, the Stadium is a sculptural form which successfully combines architecture and structure."

The National Trust Register Listing Report also set out the history of the site and the history of the Sydney Football Stadium ("Allianz Stadium"): -

"The Sydney Cricket Ground (SCG) was established on the former 1852 Garrison Ground behind Victoria Barracks, Paddington, by the NSW Cricket Association. Between 1878 and 1909, a substantial building program produced seven spectator stands, a scoreboard and related facilities around the playing field. The ground has hosted athletics, baseball, tennis and cycling, but its major sports have always been cricket and, more recently, various codes of football. Rugby league and rugby union matches were removed from the SCG in 1988, when the Sydney Football Stadium (currently called Allianz Stadium) was constructed adjacent, and SCG members' facilities were expanded and upgraded. Opening on 24 January 1988 it was a major Bicentennial project, costing $68 million.

In 1988 the Sydney Football Stadium received the following awards:
The Building and Civil Design Award, Institute of Engineers
Finalist World Quaterario Award

The Sydney Football Stadium was the main competition venue for the Olympic Games football during the Sydney Olympics in 2000, attracting 226,519 spectators. In 2001, NSW Rugby Union moved its administration HQ to the Sydney Football Stadium. The site has been managed by a public trust since 1877, currently the Sydney Cricket and Sports Ground Trust.

In 2002, the stadium changed its name to Aussie Stadium as a result of a sponsorship deal with Aussie Home Loans. The deal ended in 2007, and after referring back to the old name for five years, the naming rights were sold again to Allianz in 2012.

The history of these grounds reflects the sports and cultural history of Sydney and NSW. It is one of the Sydney Cricket and Sports Ground Trust's goals to be an effective custodian of this heritage.

The design of the Allianz Stadium followed a progression of innovative projects out of the Cox Office - buildings of clearly expressed engineering producing a proud and strong architecture - the two stadiums in Bruce ACT, predating (Lord) Richard Rogers first tensile building, and then the township of Yulara, NT, a wonderful mix of traditional and "new" residential design and construction. The Australian predecessors of this structural expression remain the Melbourne Olympic Pool (McIntyre and Borland 1956) and the Myer Music Bowl (Yuncken Freeman 1959), and the Sydney Harbour Bridge.

Allianz Stadium underwent some small renovations in 2006, which also raised capacity with a further 3,000 seats.

The Allianz Stadium has hosted many international football matches, including rugby league and rugby union Tests, Bledisloe Cup matches and World Cup and Olympic Games Football since it opened in 1988. It has hosted many concerts for International entertainers as well as events such as the Edinburgh Military Tattoo and performances of the opera 'Aida'. The Stadium demonstrates accumulated memory & collected life and has strong or special association with particular communities or cultural groups in NSW for social and cultural reasons.

The construction of the Sydney Football Stadium in 1988 was one of five major steel structures built to celebrate the Australian Bicentennial. Three were sited at Darling Harbour where Bicentennial Park was also established, the first major new park since the Centenary in 1888."

The National Trust strongly objects to the demolition of this important award-winning building which was specifically designed to minimise impacts on its historic and scenic environment.

The new stadium under construction in Parramatta can now to seen to be a massive and imposing building, impacting on historic Parramatta Park.

The National Trust is very concerned that the proposed new structure in Moore Park would result in a similar imposing and unsympathetic design to that being constructed at Parramatta and that it would have major negative impacts on Moore Park, adjoining Conservation Areas and individually listed heritage items of local, state and national significance.

Sydney Football Stadium Redevelopment – SSD_9249

The National Trust of Australia (NSW) lodges a strong objection to this proposal to demolish the Sydney Football Stadium (Allianz Stadium) at 40-44 Driver Avenue, Moore Park and to put forward a Concept Plan for the construction of a new stadium with seating for 45,000 people.

The National Trust finds it extraordinary, given the considerable community interest and concern on this development proposal, that a period of only 28 days (20 working days), has been allowed for the public to become aware of this proposal and to understand what is being proposed and lodge a formal submission.

The 1827/37 Busby's Bore listed on the State Heritage Register in 1999 (Permanent Conservation Order 1988), passes beneath the development site.

The site is directly opposite the State Heritage Register Listed Centennial Park, Moore Park, Queens Park, listed in March 2000 and now nominated for the National Heritage List. These parks and the Allianz Stadium site were part of Governor Macquarie's 1811 Sydney Common.

The site is directly opposite the 1848 Victoria Barracks listed on the Commonwealth Heritage List in June, 2004 with the following Statement of Significance: -

"The Victoria Barracks precinct is the finest complex of colonial barracks (pre 1850) in Australia and is still in military use. It contains one of the most important groups of Edwardian military buildings in Australia. It is a good and intact example of nineteenth century military barracks planning, evidencing contemporary attitudes to planning, defence, the role of the military and the daily life and operation of the British military. It contains a substantial number of buildings, groups of buildings and other features and vegetation of high individual significance. It is the principal physical evidence in New South Wales (NSW) of many of the phases of the State's military history throughout the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries (Criteria D.2 and A.4). The precinct contains one of the best groups of colonial sandstone buildings in NSW and is a very fine example of colonial buildings in the Greek Revival style (Criterion F.1). The Barracks Precinct provides a strong townscape link between the high density development of nineteenth century Paddington and the open space of Moore Park. With Victoria Barracks, Melbourne, it is one of the most architecturally imposing nineteenth century military establishments in Australia. It is a precinct in Sydney containing a rare consistency of periods, materials and styles, a section of which has an evocative Edwardian character (Criterion E.1). The precinct is a potentially valuable site for future archaeological investigation of past methods of construction and ways of life. The locations of the original buildings both extant and removed are of particular interest (Criterion C.2). It survives as the only substantial military barracks complex built in Australia in the early Victorian period. With Anglesea Barracks, Hobart and Lancer Barracks, Parramatta, it is one of the few surviving sites evidencing the British military presence in Australia in the colonial period. The Barracks has the only surviving perimeter wall in NSW which was constructed as a defensive system around the barrack complex."

The Allianz Stadium Site (proposed development site) is within the Moore Park Sydney Cricket Ground Heritage Conservation Area listed on the Sydney Local Environmental Plan 2012 and directly adjoins the Sydney Cricket Ground Members' and Lady Members' Stands listed on the State Heritage Register in 1999 (Permanent Conservation Order 1985).

The Allianz Stadium site also sits within a ring of Heritage Conservation Areas: -

Moore Park Heritage Conservation Area (C36 - Sydney Local Environmental Plan 2012)

Paddington South Heritage Conservation Area (C48 - Sydney Local Environmental Plan 2012)

Furber Road Heritage Conservation Area (C6 - Sydney Local Environmental Plan 2012)

Victoria Barracks Heritage Conservation Area (C49 - Sydney Local Environmental Plan 2012)

The Allianz Stadium Site is within a 650 metre ring of approximately one hundred (100) individually listed Heritage Buildings (Sydney Local Environmental Plan 2012) including:

Sydney Boys High School Group
Sydney Girls High School Group
Paddington Town Hall
Victoria Barracks
University of NSW College of Fine Arts

Allianz Stadium (Sydney Football Stadium)

On 24 June, 2015 the Sydney Football Stadium, ('Allianz Stadium') in Driver Avenue, Moore Park was listed on the National Trust Register. The Statement of Significance on the Trust Register Listing Report for the Stadium is set out as follows: -

"The Sydney Cricket Ground and the Sydney Football Stadium are in the vicinity of a range of heritage items, notably the Fox Studios (former Sydney Showground) and Centennial Park. The Sydney Football Stadium is one of a suite of related structures in the SCG representing two of the nation's favourite pastimes football and cricket and sport generally.

The Sydney Football Stadium has strong associations with some of the country's most prominent sportspeople and holds undoubted social value in the wider community. It is technically expressive, rejoicing in the bravado of both sporting and structural exploits.

The Sydney Football Stadium is one of a suite of Bicentennial and Olympic projects that brought international focus on Australia and Australian architecture. It opened on 24th January 1988 to celebrate Australia's Bicentenary and is of State heritage significance as an excellent example of a Late Twentieth Century Structuralist style public building. It is an important building in the career of the prominent Australian architect Philip Cox who played a significant role in Australia's cultural history. The Stadium is critically acclaimed nationally and internationally by the architectural and engineering professions as significant example of Twentieth Century architecture demonstrating a high level of creativity in its concept, and a high level of integrity in the execution of the original design concept.

The Sydney Football Stadium was designed in 1985 by the notable architectural firm, Philip Cox Richardson Taylor and Partners Pty Ltd. it is one of a suite of outstanding Cox buildings built in Sydney and is part of the enduring image of the celebratory function of the Bicentennial. In 1988 the firm produced five major steel structures in close collaboration with internationally renowned engineers Ove Arup and Partners. Three were sited at Darling Harbour, Sydney's major Bicentennial project.

The Sydney Football Stadium is acknowledged as an aesthetically distinctive design and was a significant technical innovation; after 1988 the Cox practice's 'white stadia expressionism' was adopted globally by other architects and influenced the design of international sports and exhibition facilities.

It has been recognised as an important contributor to world and Australian architecture in numerous publications and the award of the 1988 Building and Civil Design Award, Institute of Engineers and as a Finalist World Quaternario Award. Internationally it is mentioned in Bannister Fletcher, the authoritative book on world architecture, as an important contribution to World and Australian Architecture. It has been recognised by Dennis Sharp as an outstanding example of Twentieth Century Architecture and in Jonathan Ochshorn's essay on the history of technical innovation in steel construction."

The Listing Report's Description of the Sydney Football Stadium (Allianz Stadium) documents how its construction was specifically designed to minimize impacts on the historic Moore Park Conservation Area and the surrounding residential housing: -

"The Sydney Football Stadium is designed as one enclosure seating in excess of 40,000 spectators, with a continuous curving roof around the circumference. The majority of spectators are seated adjacent to centre field for better viewing, with the result that the extent of seating required at each end of the field is minimised, thus allowing the height of the roof to be lowered at each end, reducing the building's scale.

Structurally, the warping of the roof allows a more efficient roof structure while avoiding excessive shading of the turf playing field. The continuous roof edge contains lighting directed toward the field, eliminating any need for lighting towers with their inevitable overspill. This method of floodlighting also gives rise to a more uniform coverage of the pitch, with no defined shadows. The circular form provides good acoustic control while generating an exciting atmosphere.

Part of the overall design provides an exclusive Members Club with a leisure pool, tennis courts, gym and restaurant facilities.

Innovations: The seating bowl was sunk into the ground to reduce built structure scale, visual and environmental impact. Sports lighting was mounted to the leading edge of the roof to avoid the spill caused by lighting towers. The roof was designed in bays to allow for substantial completion on the ground before lifting into position. The circular design places the majority of the seats adjacent to the centre line.

Problems/Solutions: Constraints of the site included its position in the historical Moore Park Conservation Area, the surrounding residential housing, and its confinement by the Cricket Ground to the south, and a major road to the north. By enclosing the field in a circle, the majority of spectators are seated at centre field for better viewing. Thus the extent is reduced at either (residential) end allowing the scale to be reduced. Lighting is in a perimeter bend on the roof edge ensuring there is no spill of light.

The brief for this Bi-centennial project required an economically viable stadium able to seat at least 40,000 spectators with optimum viewing conditions, to provide roof for shade over 60% of spectators, whilst minimising overshading of grassed playing area, to produce a building appropriate to its environment and to minimise the effects of light and noise on the surrounding residential areas.

The site presented a number of constraints which included its position within the historic Moore Park conservation area, the problems associated with surrounding residential housing, and the confines of this site with a well established and much patronised Cricket Ground to the south and a major through road to the north.

In order to accommodate the confines of the site the field was enclosed in a circle, with the majority of spectators seated at centre field for better viewing. This has the twofold effect of providing the maximum number of seats at the optimum spectator position, while reducing the numbers and therefore the scale at either end where the effects on the surrounding residential areas are greatest.

The seating bowl was sunk into the ground to further reduce the built structure and its visual and environmental impact.

Structurally, the warping of the roof shape allows a more efficient roof structure, whilst avoiding excessive shading of the turf playing field. In order to maintain that structural integrity, a continuous roof edge was needed. The opportunity was taken to utilise the edge as a band of continuous lighting directed toward the field, thus eliminating any need for lighting towers with their inevitable light overspill.

The continuous circular form provides good acoustic control in addition to generating a quality of atmosphere not possible at the nearby Cricket Ground.

Spectators are divided into two categories - members who take up the upper level western stand and ticket holders who occupy the eastern stand and all the terraces. Circulation is designed as a continuous level ring concourse with all spectators entering the arena on concourse level. On each stand, part of the seating is cut away to provide bars with direct views of the playing fields. In terms of expression and language, the Stadium is a sculptural form which successfully combines architecture and structure."

The National Trust Register Listing Report also set out the history of the site and the history of the Sydney Football Stadium ("Allianz Stadium"): -

"The Sydney Cricket Ground (SCG) was established on the former 1852 Garrison Ground behind Victoria Barracks, Paddington, by the NSW Cricket Association. Between 1878 and 1909, a substantial building program produced seven spectator stands, a scoreboard and related facilities around the playing field. The ground has hosted athletics, baseball, tennis and cycling, but its major sports have always been cricket and, more recently, various codes of football. Rugby league and rugby union matches were removed from the SCG in 1988, when the Sydney Football Stadium (currently called Allianz Stadium) was constructed adjacent, and SCG members' facilities were expanded and upgraded. Opening on 24 January 1988 it was a major Bicentennial project, costing $68 million.

*In 1988 the Sydney Football Stadium received the following awards:
The Building and Civil Design Award, Institute of Engineers
Finalist World Quaterario Award*

The Sydney Football Stadium was the main competition venue for the Olympic Games football during the Sydney Olympics in 2000, attracting 226,519 spectators. In 2001, NSW Rugby Union moved its administration HQ to the Sydney Football Stadium. The site has been managed by a public trust since 1877, currently the Sydney Cricket and Sports Ground Trust.

In 2002, the stadium changed its name to Aussie Stadium as a result of a sponsorship deal with Aussie Home Loans. The deal ended in 2007, and after referring back to the old name for five years, the naming rights were sold again to Allianz in 2012.

Sydney Football Stadium Redevelopment - SSD_9249

On 26 June, 2018, the National Trust of Australia (NSW) lodged a strong objection to this proposal to demolish the Sydney Football Stadium (Allianz Stadium) at 40-44 Driver Avenue, Moore Park and to put forward a Concept Plan for the construction of a new stadium with seating for 45,000 people.

The National Trust now lodges a supplementary submission to that lodged on 26 June.

Environmental Impact Statement

In seeking to establish the strategic need for the proposal, it is argued that there is a need to host more day-long and multi-day events with a different and higher standard of facilities required to accommodate this usage pattern. In reality, the world has moved on to night games.

The EIS then attempts to argue -

The building standards at the time the SFS was constructed differ markedly from those of today. Accessibility was not a key factor in design and the SFS has a deficit of approximately 400 accessible seats compared to modern standards. Women were under-represented as both spectators and players at the time of construction. As such, inclusions such as adequate female toilets and change rooms were not considered.

The Sydney Football Stadium complied with the building standards at the time of its construction and could easily be adapted to comply with current standards.

In the Analysis of Alternatives, Option 3 the Refurbishment Option, the cost of this option is greatly inflated by proposing a new roof with a 95% coverage of seats and a basement with a 360-degree ring road. These are not critical requirements for a successful refurbishment.

In the Consultation Section, the Environmental Impact Statement states -

Most of the community feedback received to date focused on:

- * Improving transport options to reduce traffic in the area;
- * Removing parking on Moore Park grounds;
- * Improving connectivity between Paddington and Anzac Parade; and
- * Concern about the loss of members facilities.

The summary is selective about feedback and does not reflect the true responses of the community feedback.

With the feedback from the community information sessions 21% was concerned with the design of the stadium, 14% with the investment and 33% was simply labelled 'other'.

Of emailed enquiries, 62% were concerned with the investment decision and involved -

- * Questions about the NSW Government decision to spend money redeveloping the stadium,
- * Questions about alternative options such as refurbishing the stadium, and
- * Comments about funding being spent elsewhere, such as schools and hospitals.

With the Building Envelope, the Environmental Impact Statement seeks to justify the project's building envelope with a reference design which is not in the public domain.

The Visual and View Impacts section of the Environmental Impact Statement seeks to lessen the considerable visual and view impacts of the new stadium by arguing that -

- * It will be a 'landmark' (always a convenient justification for a construction that is massive and dominant)
- * It won't change the fundamental visual character of the visual catchment which is an urban landscape within a natural setting (although the urban form is to be massively increased)
- * Impacts on medium-range views are considered acceptable considering the intent of planning instruments (do planning instruments envisage and allow degradation of the quality of these views?)

Figure 51 indicates a building envelope that appears to more than double the height of the existing stadium and a proposed outcome height that doubles the height of the existing stadium, when viewed from the Oatley Road/Renny Street intersection, in the Paddington South Heritage Conservation Area.

Of course, the views from the intersection of Oatley Road and the Stewart and Leinster Street intersections would have shown the much greater visual impact of the proposed stadium on the Paddington South Heritage Conservation Area, but these views were not provided in the Environmental Impact Statement.

Similarly, Figure 50 (the view from the intersection of Moore Park Road and Poate Road) shows the view of much of the proposed stadium blocked by a higher corner wall and trees. Proceeding westwards along Moore Park Road, the views of the proposed stadium would not be blocked by trees or the lower wall and will be increasingly dominant and intrusive. None of these views were illustrated in the Environmental Impact Statement.

Heritage Impact Assessment

The significance section of the HIS Executive Summary is unintelligible. The argument that the redevelopment site's intangible heritage values are more important than the Sydney Football Stadium is a nonsense. Imagine seriously arguing that Rome's Coliseum or the Paris Opera could be demolished because the events that took place there were more important than the structure itself!

The Impact Assessment's statement -

"...the physical fabric of the extant stadium itself is not an appropriate focus for conveying the heritage significance and values of the Sydney Football Stadium"

Is one of the most bizarre, demolition justifying statements that the National Trust has ever encountered in a Heritage Impact Assessment. The National Trust's Register listing of the Sydney Football Stadium sets out the reality of the stadium's importance as the focus of the place's heritage significance.

In the National Trust's first submission, the importance of Busby's Bore was highlighted. It is not acceptable to attempt to argue that the exact location of Busby's Bore is unknown and need not be investigated in the Environmental Impact Statement and Heritage Impact Statement at the Concept Proposal Stage. To not deal with this State Heritage Register Listed Item in the current Statements makes a mockery of this process.

The section in the Heritage Impact Statement on the Form and Bulk of the New Stadium tries to argue that a new stadium would not radically differ in overall form from the existing and would retain a similarity in form and bulk to the existing stadium when in reality it has a much bigger footprint and is much higher!

Given the increased height and footprint of the proposed new stadium and inevitable bulk of this building it is impossible to understand how the Heritage Impact Statement can conclude -

"...(it) is considered likely that the Sydney Football Stadium Redevelopment will have a neutral impact to existing view lines from Moore Park to the Sydney Football Stadium, as well as from Moore Park Road and Paddington South Heritage Conservation Area, and will not majorly alter the views to the site."

The Heritage Impact Statement acknowledges that the Draft Sydney Cricket Ground Conservation Management Plan assesses the existing Sydney Football Stadium building itself to be of high significance (as confirmed and quantified in the National Trust Register Listing of this building).

But then the HIS attempts to tortuously extract the heritage significance values from the building and apply them to the vacant re-development site.

If this precedent is allowed to stand then there would not be a heritage building (church, residence, school, hospital, government building etc) safe from redevelopment by simply arguing that the historic use will continue following demolition of the heritage building. This is a horrendous concept!

The National Trust again lodges its strongest objection to this Concept Plan for the demolition and redevelopment of the Sydney Football Stadium.

It will be a waste of money to knock down and rebuild the stadium as it is never at capacity apart from when music events are held there. Why waste taxpayers' money on building a new, larger capacity stadium when it will never be full.

Don't waste the taxpayers' money and disrupt the traffic in the area even more (after the fiasco of the light rail construction and the Albert Cotter bridge). The money should be spent on public high schools and hospitals rather than wasted on an unnecessary knockdown and rebuild.

Also don't appropriate any more public parkland to build carparks as tabled in the plans.

We live in a heritage area and there isn't the infrastructure and transport to support large capacity crowds.

This is a total waste of taxpayers money.
The business case does not stack up.
There are much more important things to spend our money on such as health and hospitals.
This government cannot be trusted to successfully execute projects within budget and schedule so it will end up costing even more and be late and still be a white elephant.
I strongly object to this proposal.

- Stadium is currently perfectly fit for purpose, often not even filled near capacity
- Stadium is not old enough to warrant knockdown/rebuild.
- Obvious misuse of public funds. This is plainly not necessary.
- Stadium Australia (Homebush) can more than cater for any larger matches.
- Area is already badly congested traffic on game days, the area is not suited to any stadiums of a larger capacity - the light rail will only go so far to relieve this.
- Will have a negative impact on surrounding residents (Noise, crowds, view loss, traffic) - this area is densely populated and Homebush is clearly a better option as there are very few residents, who are further away.
- Tree loss therefore also unnecessary

27th June 2018.

The Premier of NSW
The Hon. Gladys Berejiklian

The Minister for Planning
The Hon. Anthony Roberts.

Dear Premier and Minister,

Re: The Rebuild of the Sydney Football Stadium at Moore Park.

I am strongly opposed to the knocking down and the rebuilding of the SFS.

The NSW Government has an opportunity to enhance our city and make it truly a better place in which to live and for a tourist to visit. Wasting money on a flawed project should not be the legacy with which our Government would want to be remembered.

There are many reasons for my strong objection to the project.

The Moore Park location is on the eastern fringe of our city, very badly gridlocked with traffic which will not be solved by the Light Rail. It is a folly to try to create a multi-complex entertainment precinct in the eastern suburbs that has inadequate public transport when the larger population and demand for such facilities is in Western Sydney - say Homebush.

The increased traffic congestion in an already gridlocked area will render the whole Moore Park Complex a 'not to visit location'. The pretend continuous flow intersection proposed for Anzac Pde/Dacey Ave is not continuous as the right turning traffic is stopped short of the right hand turn by traffic lights.

The business case clearly demonstrates that it is not warranted. The cost benefit ratio of less than one clearly demonstrates this.

There is a threat that the EQ site will be commercialised and appropriated for professional sport when there is a need for community/amateur sport facilities. This is still public land.

The rebuild of the SFS will place unfair pressure to use Moore Park as its carpark. There is no major provision for car parking in the new stadium proposal. I find it offensive that the SCGT can reduce its own car parking areas for its patrons but demand the Centennial Park Trust not lose a single car park space on its own lands.

If we are to rebuild the SFS we should do it properly with the best possible design that will enhance our city and be a landmark structure. I look at the Opera House as a perfect example
That said the methodology adopted by the Government is of great concern. I have spoken at length with iNSW who have been charged with the construction.

The method adopted by iNSW of D+C automatically excludes the best possible design. 'Design Excellence' is not able to be achieved by D+C without; extraordinary and unusual protection of design through contract; 80% of construction documents complete to define in detail 'design intent' and the appointment of an empowered Design Review Panel to review design to Practical Completion and to follow the progress of the project to provide advice in relation to any amendment to the original approval.

To have no architectural design on which to gauge the price needed to achieve excellence and to have price determining the outcome is a recipe for mediocrity. To then have modifications made down the track to overcome the expected cost blowout again shortchanges any chance of a good outcome. Experience has shown that most major projects often end up costing nearly double the announced original budget estimate - think Perth Stadium at Burswood, Eastern Suburbs Light Rail, WestConnex etc.

Of equal concern is the total disconnect between the iNSW building of the SFS and the SCGT's duty to replace the removed SCG Club facilities. This whole project needs a holistic approach. Without a holistic approach there is a strong chance the SCGT will demand parking be available on Moore Park which is totally unacceptable.

iNSW has told me that we need world class stadiums to attract major events such as Women's Football (Soccer) World Cup, future Commonwealth Games etc. So why are we wasting money on the SFS and reconfiguring the Olympic Stadium to rectangular if we want to attract the Commonwealth Games (and maybe future Olympic Games)?

Better planning would suggest we upgrade the SFS, keep the Olympic Stadium and build a rectangular 80,000+ capacity stadium next to the Olympic Stadium.

When I spoke with iNSW about the proposed relocation of the tennis courts, gymnasium, swimming pool, cricket academy, Azure Coffee lounge and Sheridan Building facilities I was informed it was not their brief and it was up to the SCGT to relocate those lost facilities. The only land left on the SCGT lands is to use the remaining Gold Members Car Park.

This is an opportunity for our Government to enhance our city.

May I suggest the Powerhouse Museum should not be moved but rather a new museum be built at Parramatta to house many of the stored treasures of the Powerhouse (think D'Orsay in Paris) and rather than build an extension to the Art Gallery (with glass windows on which no paintings can be hung) to build another Art Gallery at Parramatta (think Tate Modern in London).

There is a widely held perception that there is an unhealthy relationship between the Government and developers. This cannot help any Government facing an election. Equally the rebuild of the SFS is not acceptable to a vast majority of voters (see surveys)

In summation I am totally against the rebuild of the SFS as it is an opportunity lost and a waste of taxpayers money.

Yours sincerely,

Peter Tzannes.

I wish to object to the demolition of the existing Moore Park stadium and rebuild of a new much larger stadium for the following reasons:

1. the existing iconic stadium is only 30 years old and requires a mere upgrade in food/drink/toilet facilities, not a demolition and rebuild. Average crowds are 15,000-18,000 and the existing stadium has more than enough capacity for such crowds (the stadium is rarely full). What is the point of building a new 55,000 capacity stadium given these figures? It is a well known fact that NRL and Rugby Union crowds are in decline. Building a larger stadium will not draw more crowds as the problem is the product and not the venue. Demolishing is also a waste of good materials going to land fill.

2. the price tag of around $730 million is wasteful, money which could be better spent on much needed upgrade to hospitals (which are experiencing record waiting lists) and health facilities, schools and child care centres public transport and community services, especially in country towns. These services are used by the majority of the population; sports and entertainment benefits only a small proportion of the population - and big business of course. And there is no doubt the above conservative cost will blow out. A growing body of research suggests that publicly financed stadiums rarely stimulate the economy enough to recoup construction costs. "The claimed benefits often don't stack up": Liam Lenten, Senior Lecturer, LaTrobe University.

As stated by Cr Stephen Bali (WSROC President): "it makes an absolute mockery of real community needs. It implies that major events are more important to the Government than health, schools and transport. Western Sydney has billions of dollars worth of backlogs on the social infrastructure needed to meet basic liveability aspirations".

3. the potential and serious impact of demolition and rebuild in terms of all kinds of noise and pollution on relatively low density residential areas such as Paddington (which is heritage listed), Surry Hills and Centennial Park

4. the potential impact of operation of a new, much larger stadium (in terms of traffic, noise, crowds etc) on a relatively low density residential areas such as Paddington, Surry Hills Centennial Park. The number of potential extra events - up to 60 a year - will cause unacceptable levels of traffic and noise pollution to the area. Even with the current stadium, on event days I can no longer find parking (and I pay every year for a resident parking permit!) and often when events terminate late at night crowds (often intoxicated) stumble along my street screaming and swearing. There are never any police in the area monitoring the situation. enquire

It is clear from many public surveys that the majority agree with the above.

Over 200,000 people have signed a petition against this development. Demolishing the currently well-functioning and much-admired (if not heritage) SFS and rebuilding it would be an obscene waste of hundreds of millions of dollars of public money which clearly could be better spent elsewhere. Therefore the negative impact this proposed development would have on the local community in terms of noise pollution, traffic issues, parking problems, is completely unacceptable. I oppose this development application in the strongest possible terms.

I oppose this development application for the redevelopment of Sydney Football Stadium on the basis that the existing facilities are more than adequate. The demolition process and subsequent construction will cause serious disruption to the neighbouring properties in Paddington and Centennial Park. In addition, the proposed relocation of sporting events to another location such as Astrolabe Park in Daceyville will not be cost-effective. This will cause disruption and inconvenience to residents in Daceyville and the neighbouring suburbs as well as to Paddington. Local people do not want this to happen.

I do not have the qualifications to be able to list the deleterious effect this will have on different groups of people in these neighbourhoods but do know from being a local resident of Paddington and Darlinghurst that local people do not support it.

There are serious consequences in the way of disruption, heavy traffic, noise and dust which will be caused to this area by this unnecessary development.

I object to any money being spent on the Sydney Football Stadium Redevelopment SS9249 unless it is required for safety. If there is a safety issue I wonder why the facilities are currently being used at all. My objection is based on priority. I believe all people should have a roof over there heads and somewhere to call home.

The homelessness in Sydney is increasing.

Surely this should be the first priority. Shelter.

I would like this money redeployed into housing for the homeless.

Sporting arenas come after the homeless are housed.

Ref: ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT STATEMENT,2018-06-06 029. APPENDIX L- HERITAGE IMPACT STATEMENT. PART 1 (SECTION 3.0. Historical Summary.).

Busby Bore is one of the most important infrastructure projects ever built in Australia. However its importance has been overlooked. The EIS presents a timely mechanism to correct that situation. It is the whole of Busby's Bore which ties together the entire system of Drinking Water, Stormwater and Wastewater, both surface water and groundwater.

By 1826, the Tank Stream, the reason for the urgent and actual siting of Sydney (with the disappointment of Botany Bay) had been totally polluted but there was no alternative except to bring water by cart from the Blackwattle Swamps or the Lachlan Swamps, (later to be Centennial Park). Some digging of wells was successful, but not brilliantly. This was the benefit of ground water which is found in parts of the Sydney Basin. Sydney Water during the early 2000 Drought was forced to try and find groundwater as well as construct the Desalination Plant at Kurnell, strangely enough on the shores of Botany Bay.

Governor Brisbane called on the Mineral Surveyor, John Busby, a neighbour of Commissioner Bigge to design a water supply. In 1827 Busby recommended a tunnel to bring water from Lachlan Swamps to Hyde Park, in Government land, in a virtual straight line, primarily down Oxford St. This was after his earlier recommendation for a Convict "treadmill" to pump water through a pipeline or canal was proposed but met steep opposition. The Tunnel Scheme was approved by Governors Brisbane and Gipps and supported by Surveyors-General John Oxley and (Sir) Thomas Mitchell.

The Tunnel Shafts in 1827 were numbered 1 to approximately 24 from Hyde Park (cnr Oxford St and College St). It was thought that each of the shafts would need to be completed before the Scheme could be commissioned. However as they tunnelled up Oxford St, so much groundwater came into that completed section of tunnel, that water had to be drained to waste to allow for construction to continue. By 1831 a main had been laid to the wharves so that ships could be supplied with pressurised water, doing away with the need to lift barrels onto ships or use hand pumps. A great advance, with the project only partly finished.

Black powder (gunpowder) was used as an explosive and the holes had to be made by hammer and tap whereby one man rotated the drill whilst the other man used the sledge hammer. The charges had to be kept dry for firing, all in a tunnel 1.2m by 0.9m. The scheme assumed that it would be rock or hard soil all the way. This would be hard work but would be to specification. However the problems came from the softer/sandy areas closer to the area near the Sydney Football Stadium. These areas were virtually "quicksand."

As work progressed, 2 sections were tunnelled near the then Billygoat Swamp (later Kippax Lake). There was so much water and sand seeping into the tunnel that the 2 sections needed to be abandoned and instead diverted to the East, up Moore Park Road, to get around the quicksand area. By default, Billygoat Swamp became the de facto water supply for Sydney. The idea was to skirt around the Showground area. This involved Shafts at different locations, but also numerically additional Shafts, numbered 1,2,3... .., in reverse numerical order, to that originally approved back from the the Lachlan Swamps. The Additional Shafts were called Intercepting Shafts. The shaft inside the later Victoria Barracks is now the Military Museum. It had a winch to draw up water, especially if it had ever become a Fortress Under Siege. The Shaft immediately to its West is the deepest shaft in the System.. The elevated area allowed for large guns to be trained to the South, partly to protect against the perceived Russian Invasion. Bare island was part of this scenario. The much later siting of the Upper Nepean Water Supply is understood to have had this in mind. When the Australian Underground Construction and Tunnelling Association, hosted the International Tunnelling Conference, they visited Victoria Barracks.

Within the South-Eastern Half of Busbys Bore, there are 3 Intercepting Shafts. Intercepting Shafts might well have been constructed to speed up completion of the work by increasing the number of tunnel faces. The single such shaft in Victoria Barracks, may have been so done to access to the greatly surplus water from Billygoat Swamp, could reach Hyde Park..It could also have been done to somewhat drain the tunnel to allow for construction on the original approved line. This approved line would have gone under the future Sydney Cricket Ground and the much later, Sydney Football Stadium as well..

Although the South-Eastern section of the tunnel looks badly planned,(see Figure 1) it needs to be pointed out that the tunnel could be too deep but not too shallow and still allow water to flow. This shows up as "SAG POINTS" where sand could be deposited over time but could be removed as necessary in later years. It needs to be kept in mind that John Busby was c.60 years old and suffered from Arthritis. It would have made access difficult for him. He had 2 sons well capable of assisting. One became an MLC in later life. Another son was the British signatory of the treaty of Waitangi in New Zealand. (a descendent of the MLC, in 1887, proposed a Scheme to the NSW Royal Commission on Water, that Snowy Water should be sent to Lake George, to hold water for the Murrumbidgee River and/or the Lachlan River. This did not proceed possibly due to high salinity of Lake George.

As the project continued, it became evident that there would be insufficient flow from the actual Lachlan Swamps. This was put down to a possible survey error by Surveyor Finch and/or Surveyor Hoddle. Hoddle became Assistant Surveyor-General for the Port Phillip Region of NSW. He later became Surveyor -General of Victoria. Hence Hoddle St Melbourne, but also Hoddle St, Paddington NSW.

This problem was overcome by deepening parts of the tunnel, where necessary, but also building the present Busby Pond Dam in Lachlan Swamps and not building a large reservoir in Hyde Park. It became the major Storage Reservoir This became a major problem 20 years later. This shortfall was overcome in the drought of 1854, by building the lower elevation Randwick and Kensington Ponds, and pumping that water to Busby's Pond. It was a temporary steam pumping station, near Alison Rd. 1854-59. The 6 inch pipes were lent by the Gas Company (AGL). and when that ran out by completing twin 4 inch pipes. This was superseded by the Botany beam engine pumps at the Mill Pond at the Botany Swamps near Mascot Airport. Thereafter Botany Pumps assisted by Busby's Bore supplied Sydney till 1888. Botany supplying the elevated areas and Busby's Bore the lower areas.

In 1888, the Upper Nepean Scheme was completed. It had only one large storage, Prospect Reservoir, but no dams, till Cataract in 1907. As planned, after WW1 the other dams were completed Cordeaux, Avon and Nepean, subject to the financial restrictions of the Great Depression. After WW2 warragamba was commenced, after being started as a Emergency Scheme c.1938.

Busby's Bore, (which is an unfortunate name or nickname,) played a major role in allowing Sydney to develop. Tempe Dam, on Cooks River was completed 1839, was meant to assist, but its water was salinated due to osmosis through the dam wall, as the result of tidal action in downstream Cooks River. Busby's Bore had to await till 1859 for the Botany Scheme to assist. This was boosted in time by a series of small dams in the Botany and Lachlan Swamps. It was an integrated scheme.

In 1835 John Busby was removed from the scheme, replaced by his sons and supervised by Lt Colonel George Barney, Australia's first Military Engineer, who was to build Tempe Dam, Liverpool Weir and Campbelltown Cattle Tanks. In the future, Barney was proposed to be the Governor of North Queensland. In evidence to a 1837 Legislative Council Enquiry, he reported favourably on John Busby's work. John Busby lived for another 30 years in the Hunter Valley. Barney took a trip back to Britain where he was commissioned to report on Irish Workhouses. He returned to Sydney. Admiralty house was his private residence. Much later, because of work carried out during the Great Depression, Kippax Lake became a flood retention basin, as did Busby's Pond, which rises by over 600mm during such events.

On Remembrance Day this year, at the Centenary of the end of WW1, the long delayed Water Feature on the Southern end of the Shrine of Remembrance will be officially opened. It could not be completed because of the Great Depression. The Pool of Remembrance was completed then and by coincidence is a higher user of Drinking Water due to its shallow depth and large expanse being subject to Evaporation.

Busby's Bore is more than a small area. It is part of a major forward thinking Scheme. About 10 years ago the Chairman of Centennial Park and Moore Park Trust, Professor John Niland, re-dedicated the refurbished Rotunda in Moore Park. It is one of the many organisations which should link together to properly honour Busby's Bore and the Water Industry. It is understood that Moore Park became an informal War Memorial before The Shrine and the earlier Cenotaph were completed. John Bradfield as well as building the City Railway Tunnels and the Harbour Bridge, selected the largest block of Granite from the Moruya Quarry, 27 tons, to span the Tank Stream in Martin place outside the GPO Clock Tower.

There are 2 monuments to John Busby, one at either end of the scheme. Busby's Fountain (1962) in Hyde Park, the other is the substantial plinth 1988 in Centennial Park, near Shaft No.1, ie the Southern, re-numbered No.1, as shown on attached plan, which is page 5 of Sydney Water Centenary Book, from "The Sweat of their Brows" (note that the 2 Shafts in Driver Ave are specifically not numbered, under the amended Numbering System.). These shafts are "silent" Memorials to the immense problems that were encountered in completing the overall Project.

The reference to the "dead ends" fails to acknowledge that the existence of these lateral spur tunnels being used to maximise groundwater entering the main tunnel, and thus supplying Sydney with groundwater at times of extreme drought.

CONCLUSION

Busby's Bore played an important part in allowing Sydney to develop. It is little known, but as planned and approved went across the future SCG and later SFS. With the development of Fox Studios, quarterly tours along the surface were organised by Centennial Park and Moore Park Trust and Sydney Water, but there was dwindling interest compared with the Tank Stream, which Sydney Water and Sydney Living Museum have needed a ballot system to meet the extreme demand. Busby's Bore became an orphan asset between the City Council and Sydney Water. An attempt was made to re-use Busby's Bore approximately 10 years ago to irrigate Hyde Park using the then flow, which prior to c1908, was used to feed the ponds at the Royal Botanical Gardens. The Water has since gone wastefully into the Bondi Sewer at the Hyde Park corner. It is claimed that the flow rate has decreased, either by Development, Climate Change or possibly someone puncturing Busby's Bore during construction of the Eastern Distributor. It had been hoped that the completion of the Shrine of Remembrance for the Centenary of Anzac may have allowed some use of nearby Busby's Bore.

The History of Busby's Bore is the National Symbol of the Australian Water Industry, not just the visible surface water, but the less understood Underground Water, which is such a major feature of other areas of Australia such as Newcastle and Perth.

RECOMMENDATION

That Busby's Bore and the route of where it was approved to be located across the later SCG and much later SFS, be treated with Maximum Respect..

Jon Breen MIE Aust, CP Eng.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION

Figure 8 is taken c.1920 underneath Oxford St, close to College St. The supporting timber work was required to prevent Oxford St subsiding further. The subsidence was caused by the vibration of trams going along Oxford St, (steel wheel against steel rail.)

The original sandstone blocks can be seen on either side. It was reported that ironstone slabs were used in the roof of the tunnel, some were reported to have split. This relatively shallow section of tunnel may have been built as an open cut.

The collar of a 375 mm pipe can be seen, almost covered by sand. The pipe was laid to ensure water could continue to flow in the tunnel. The tunnel at that section was completely filled with sand. The road had been a 4 lane road when built but was widened to 6 lanes under the Improvements to Sydney Commission. As a result tram tracks had been repositioned centred on the widened road. There is an access point near Pelican St, so that staff can enter the tunnel from the footpath.

This is the area where the offtake point was located to supply the Botanical Gardens.

Colonel Ralph Sutton FRAHS, a Korean War Veteran lived with his family at Victoria Barracks.. He developed a real passion for Busby's Bore. He became the Military Historian at the Barracks. He became Treasurer of the Royal United Services of NSW. On a private trip to Ireland he discovered a reference to Lt Colonel George Barney, on a report done by Barney about Irish Workhouses. That report is now available on the Internet. Barney is buried near North Sydney.

Ralph Sutton was a senior Organiser of the Queens 1954 Tour. When his wife Fay contracted Polio, Ralph had to stand aside. Fay gave birth to their 2nd child 2 months later in the Infectious Diseases Ward at RPA. They had a 3rd child 2 years later. The Queen had become one of the first people in the World to be given a Polio injection, even though it was not fully approved at that time. Fay became an Environmental Activist despite her disabilities. It was mentioned at his funeral that Ralph used to spend 2 hours each morning preparing her for the day and 2 hours in the evening. She was a Council member of ACF and the Nature Conservation Council of NSW.

William Holmes was born at the Barracks, as was his wife. Her father became Soldier No 1 in the new Australian Army. He became Secretary of the Water Board. He was killed in August 1917 as Major-General Holmes whilst escorting the NSW Premier around the Battlefield in Belgium. Hence General Holmes Drive.

When the World Tunnelling Conference was held in Sydney, all the delegates visited Busby's Bore at the Barracks.

 The rebuild of Allianz\Sydney Football Stadium is a gross misuse of taxpayer funds.

Other than the recent Ruby Union Test, Allianz Stadium is lucky to attract an attendance over 11,000 patrons for the events held there. Why would a responsible government spend millions building a new stadium to host events that DO NOT attract large crowds?

The only event that attracted a crowd close to capacity was the ANZAC Day match where 41,142 attended. The ground holds 44,000 seated, so this is still not at capacity. Big Games can be held at ANZ Stadium, which has seating capacity 83,500. ANZ Stadium also struggles to pull an attendance over 20,000, so why this ground is being renovated? This is also a gross misuse of tax payer funds.

Neither of these stadiums need to be rebuilt or renovated. Crowd attendances are extremely low to events held at both Stadiums. If crowds where at capacity, I would agree that a redevelopment was needed. But the attendance stats to events held at these grounds, does not support a gross waste of money this government has approved.

Think again and spend out money wisely

The proposal to demolish this stadium and to rebuild it, as with the other proposed stadium demolitions, is a flagrant and shameless misuse of our public monies, it is a total disgrace. NSW has so many other needs, including affordable housing, dealing with homelessness and mental health, improving the lot of aboriginal people, improving our dilapidated schools and hospitals, protecting our environment and the list goes on. A reckless and irresponsible government which is in total neglect of it's purpose, which is to serve the people and improve our society. You have lost my vote, amd that of everybody I know. The amount of money being spent on this project is obscene. It is being pushed by a small group from the top end of town just so that they can have a luxurious private box at taxpayers expense. A lead actor in this farce is Alan Jones who seems to have ministers performing like puppets to his tune, afraid that he might criticise them on his radio show.

Just recently we find out that Astrolabe Park in Daceyville is to lose its green space, being turned in to a concrete stadium to house 6000 all because of works taking place at the Sydney Football Stadium.

Health and Education come first. The sporting fraternity have enough.

Thank you for the opportunity to comment on the proposed redevelopment of the Sydney Football Stadium. As a lover of sport I am a very satisfied customer when it comes to watching Rugby League and Union at the existing stadium. It's comfortable and a great venue for viewing the games. Maybe there are some upgrades needed, but they're certainly not obvious to me. Yes the toilets could be improved, along with the food and beverage services, but it's hardly a massive inconvenience to queue for a beer and pie. It seems a monstrous extravagance to demolish a working stadium with significant architectural heritage and contemporary history in order to build something a bit more comfortable and accessible which is unlikely to be stretched to capacity more than two or three times a year. In the process there'll be massive disruption to the sports currently using the stadium, not to mention the AFL who I believe will also be subjected to a number of compromises to accommodate this expensive process. If you took a poll of the punters, the genuine followers of teams, rather than the corporate free-loaders, I'm sure you would find very little enthusiasm for pouring large amounts of their taxes into replacing this stadium... especially when their children can't find a local ground on which to play sport, and they're being taught in demountable class rooms. My decision to make this submission is, as they say, a triumph of hope over experience. I have a sinking feeling that this is a done deal. Wouldn't it be great if I were wrong? It takes courage to admit a mistake, but in this case I feel sure that the government would be applauded for changing its mind.

This money should be spent on schools, not a stadium, The stadium rebuilt/upgrade is not an urgent issue and it has very limited benefits to the local community. The issue of horrific planning for schools is a state-wide problem. In NSW, there are over 140,000 students who learn in over 6000 demountables, rather than proper classrooms. And there are more and more students coming to the system and more and more demountables being added to the schools taking away play and sports space. The planning for new schools and upgrades is even not sufficient to even clear the backlog of maintenance and investment, population growth alone. In the northern Easeterm Suburbs (exactly around the location of the Stadium) we are denied access to uncrowded, well maintained public schools. This is a more urgent and impactful challenge that needs to be addressed before luxury items like stadiums. Build a school (or a few), not a stadium (option of adding a school inside a stadium could be a solution).

I strongly object to this project.

1. There is no economic or business case justification for spending over $700 million on an entertainment venue.
2. The current venue has not reached the end of its economic life. Like all major assets it could be refurbished if necessary. No proper data has been provided to address the refurbishment option.
3. The venue is very rarely used to anywhere near its capacity & this will remain the same post re-build.
4. The current venue has been poorly managed & maintained. That is a problem of governance & expertise which is best addressed by replacing those who cannot meet standards with those who can.
5. Sydney is well endowed with venues already including the Olympic precinct.
6. The proposal does not meet even the basic cost/benefit ratio.
7. The proposal continues the atrocious environmental degradation of the Moore Park & surrounding area (eg cavalier tree destruction & encroachment by light rail, carving public land for road projects) by more tree destruction, increasing the build coverage of the land.
8. Local community feedback is strongly opposed to the project. It sits in the heart of a small scale network of streets & will further overwhelm the area, the amenity & the environment.

Objection to the proposal and public funding.

1) proposed encroachment on Moore Park. This would exacerbate central Sydney's diminishing open space & generation of motor traffic - cumulative environmental and social impact (within the walking catchment of the CBD)

2) Proposed massive government subsidy

3) Lack of economic benefit to the State (published INSW view)

4) Concerned about the role of Infrastructure NSW as the proponent & putting scrutiny of Planning Assessment Commission aside

5 Therefore reject "rebuild" option (i.e. destruction & rebuild with massive state subsidy, instead revisit refurbishment option 3 supportable, not "rebuild" (ie destruction and rebuild).

The continued commercialisation without local interests is impacting residents, as demonstrated by the Illenium concert at Moore park on 30th June. The noise levels vibrate all the 70s built apartment blocks with aluminium windows. The constant neglect by local and state planning has reduced the desirability of owners occupying dwellings. There has been a marked increase of crime in the area and drug trafficking as a result. The demand for a larger stadium is questionable based on sports events attendance which results in more concerts for Moore Park trust to sell to pay for redevelopment costs.

I am opposed to this proposal. The business case in justification of the proposal is not clear. The impact on local areas including on transport during redevelopment is enormous. There are compelling ALTERNATIVES to expending this enormous sum. The main government focus should be on reviewing WHY a complete re-do is needed on such a young facility!

This project is a very significant and a potentially transformative project for New South Wales, The City of Sydney and most particularly, the wider Moore Park sporting precinct. The application submitted should be viewed as the starting point for meaningful and informed dialogue about the manner in which this $675 million project can present this city as a significant sporting destination and at the same time greatly improve the experience for patrons and residents that use the Moore Park and Centennial Park sporting precincts.

In principle, this proposal is supported, however the design review process must be carefully managed to ensure all the fine details of the precinct are well resolved and improved.

Make this the best stadium for football in the best sporting precinct in Australia.

SSD 9249 – Sydney Football Stadium Redevelopment | Concept Development Application

This project is a very significant and a potentially transformative project for New South Wales, The City of Sydney and most particularly, the wider Moore Park sporting precinct. The application submitted should be viewed as the starting point for meaningful and informed dialogue about the manner in which this $675 million project can present this city as a significant sporting destination and at the same time greatly improve the experience for patrons and residents that use the Moore Park and Centennial Park sporting precincts.

The 1988 stadium is an iconic presence and for 30 years has been a very well used sporting facility. It is disappointing that it has not been well looked after nor progressively improved to keep pace with new demands of elite sport. This must be addressed so that the stated lifespan of 50 years for the new stadium is actually delivered. There must be a statutory obligation on the part of the Sydney Cricket Ground Trust to maintain the proposed new facility to a very high standard so that the capital investment made by the State of NSW is preserved.

While it would have been preferable to see the current stadium retained and improved, there are many benefits of a new stadium and this project must actively deal with these opportunities to make this new stadium a truly 'world class venue'. This should not just be a slogan - the project must be exceptional as a sporting venue and as an integrated part of the City Sydney, this must be a place that we value and respect.

The Urban Design Guidelines prepared by SJB and submitted with the Environmental Impact Statement are well setout and carefully analyse the relationship of the proposed new stadium to the wider precinct of Moore Park, Paddington and Surry Hills. However, they need to be strengthened and expanded to deal with some deficiencies on the initial scope for the project.

Project Scope

The project scope and in particular the site is arbitrarily defined by an irregular boundary. The exclusion of the MP1 carpark, the Rugby Australia, the NRL Headquarters and the outdoor Wickets and Tennis Courts has left a severely constrained site that does not fully capitalise on the opportunities for such a transformative project. Each one of these facilities could be relocated or reworked into a project with more breadth – resulting in a precinct that was fully engaged and truly representative of the power of sport in our culture.

This proposal remains silent on the MP1 surface carpark except for its retention and ongoing use by the SCG Trust following its use as a staging zone for the construction of the new stadium. This is the single greatest deficiency of this application. This carpark:

- Presents a massive barrier for public engagement and movement of pedestrians
- Is completely out of character with the overall aims to create a vibrant sporting precinct in a parkland setting
- Is not the best use for this significant site

The other retained built elements – The Rugby Australia and the NRL Headquarters buildings while relatively new are not sited or designed in such a way that they will ever be fully integrated into the new activated precinct. Section 1.8 of the Urban Design Guidelines acknowledges this yet makes no comment on how to address this issue. This proposal should not exclude the opportunity to either demolish or radically transform each of these buildings. These buildings have not been adequately masterplanned and this significant project should not be hampered by short-sighted and self interested mistakes of the recent past.

This proposal is also silent on the great opportunity it has to radically transform Driver Avenue from a haphazard zone of residual roads, service access points and ill-defined pedestrian zones. As the Urban Design Guidelines acknowledge, this is not a road defined under the NSW Roads Act and thus there exists great opportunity to completely reconsider the nature and character of this space. Driver Avenue could be the unifying link that ties together the entire sporting and entertainment precinct, particularly once the Light Rail stop becomes operational.

At one end will be the new Football Stadium, followed by the Sydney Cricket Ground, (which requires a far more significant forecourt and arrival plaza than exists today) terminating with the Hordern Pavilion and the Royal Hall of Industries. With a purposeful approach to public domain and consideration of the arrival sequence for each of these facilities, this precinct will be greatly improved.

Suggestions

This project will ultimately involve a large number of skilled design professionals that must respond to the brief and wider opportunities of the project and the following comments are made as suggestions to enhance the opportunities already noted in the Urban Design Guidelines.

1. Place MP1 carpark underground or partially cover it to improve the public domain experience. Acknowledge the significance of the site both in its urban form and location and the heritage significance of the former Sydney Sports Ground.
2. Reconsider the exclusion of The Rugby Australia and the NRL Headquarters buildings from the project. Neither are architecturally significant and both detract from the potential for a truly integrated precinct. While both are relatively new, replacement would be an insignificant cost as a percentage of the $675m cost of the project. The Rugby Australia building could be partially retained or reworked into a new flanking edge along Moore Park Road.
3. Give the new stadium more space around it. This is a large capital investment and it is being constrained by short sighted retention of low value items. With more space it could be moved further to the west giving a better arrival sequence to the north east and more significantly make a better interface between secure and public zones of the precinct.
4. Ensure the arrival plaza on Driver Avenue is well conceived and not constrained by pragmatic constraints of land ownership. A plaza that connected the north west pedestrian access and the South west route from the Tibby Cotter bridge and the future light rail stop must be made more explicit and direct. Consider taking Driver Avenue under a podium or a land bridge.
5. Ensure the Sydney Cricket Ground is integrated into this development as respected neighbour – two excellent yet very different sporting facilities in one unique sporting precinct.
6. Make sure the new stadium is unique and iconic. Not just another steel and concrete coliseum. Having gone to all this effort, the new stadium should be something that is unique and is identifiably from Sydney.
7. Make sure there is a mandated recurrent budget for maintenance and upgrades at 10, 20, 30 and 40 years. This must be guaranteed and verified for the lifespan of the stadium.

Conclusion

In principle, this proposal is supported, however the design review process must be carefully managed to ensure all the fine details of the precinct are well resolved. This is more than a parkland improvement project and more than just a rebuild of a 45,000 seat stadium. Each would be a significant project on its own, however together they will result (if done well) in a positive addition to Sydney.

To ensure this process is well managed, a well resourced Design Review (or Integrity) Panel must be formed. It must have the authority to require design changes be made if design excellence is being compromised by pragmatic and self interested concerns.

Finally - don't value engineer out the best ideas that the design team comes up with. Make this the best stadium for football in the best sporting precinct in Australia.

I object to the knock down-rebuild of the Moore Park stadium. It should be renovated only. The cost of the renovation should be met by the sports organisations that use the stadium. No tax payer funds should be used for any work done at the stadium, These elite professional sporting organisations have bucket loads of money. Our public schools are crying out for money. At Clovelly Public School we can't get our damaged and decaying playground repaired let alone upgraded. Schools across NSW have unsafe unflued gas heaters. They are causing ill health in susceptible children. They need to be replaced. Taxpayer funds should go to our public schools not stadiums.

In addition, no open space should be consumed by this proposed redevelopment. The footprint of the stadium should remain exactly as it is or better still it should become smaller. The open space parklands must not be touched. No mature trees should be felled for this project.

I strongly object to the Sydney Football Stadium Redevelopment proposal, for the following reasons:

- I oppose the continued encroachment on public land, bequeathed to the State of NSW as parkland. I oppose any further loss of parkland to built infrastructure.
- I oppose the removal of 26 trees in an area that the State Government has already denuded of its magnificent, memorial historic fig trees on ANZAC Parade.
- As current stadium reportedly rarely exceeds 40% capacity, it is an irresponsible waste of public money to replace a relatively new and functional stadium with one that is unnecessarily increased in size and bulk.
- The current stadium is a distinctive and architecturally significant building, that sits lightly and appropriately on its site and perfectly suited to its location. I oppose the wasteful redevelopment when we have a perfectly good stadium already.
- I do not want to find out a few years after the current stadium is torn down that, like the ludicrous Tibby Cotter walkway, the replacement was badly designed, massively overpriced and completely unnecessary.
- I do not believe this proposal to redevelop the Sydney Football Stadium is in the public interest but serves section interests including sports broadcasters whose main aim is the maximisation of profit and also for the benefit of the gambling industry. It has almost nothing to do with public sport participation, which should be the aim of government policy.

yours sincerely

Firstly this is a completely unnecessary project wasting vast quantities of public money on a project which appears to have zero need, given the sparsity of attendance at the existing stadia. We already have white elephants at the Olympic park. Secondly the disastrous light rail development across the city with no agreed final date in sight - and the waste of money building a footway across Anzac Parade with almost zero foot traffic points to absolute amateurs handling projects - they are clearly incapable of designing and bringing a project in on time and on budget and relevant to the Sydney/NSW taxpayer. I don't trust this government to manage this project even if it WAS necessary. Thirdly this area is already well developed with 2 Stadiums, an Entertainment complex, cricket grounds etc etc which arguably is also under utilised - there is simply NO demand for the extra disruption traffic parking zones , destruction of property and trees, noise which this will entail for residents. Fourthly, it shows a bias of priorities and massive spend in $$ and man power towards an already well heeled and well-developed part of Sydney ; surely this government has the vision to come up with a more exciting use of public money ?? I totally object to this project - it makes no sense whatsoever

I strongly protest at this disgusting waste of public money. To demolish a stadium that is only 30 years old that holds 42,000 and replace it with a stadium holding 45,000 is ludicrous. I attended two rugby league finals last year with Easts playing on their 'home ground' in both matches and the crowds were 20,000 and 23,000 - half full !. There were 0 people in the first game and 6 people in the second crossing over that other 38 million dollar waste of money - the footbridge !. Spend the money in getting the homeless off the streets - Do something useful !!!!

I object to the DA No. SSD 9249 that has been lodged for the Sydney Football Stadium Redevelopment on the grounds that;

- There has been insufficient time for appropriate consideration by the community regarding the need for this redevelopment.
- There has been insufficient engagement of stake holders in the need for this redevelopment
- There would be a significant loss of amenity to the community during the redevelopment period. This could be overcome by staging of any works
- There is an unjustifiable loss to the community caused by the removal of 26 trees as proposed in the d.a.

Major Projects NSW

Dear Sir / Madam,

Re: Sydney Football Stadium EIS SSD 9249
Objection

We refer to the DA and EIS for the redevelopment of the Sydney Football Stadium.

We object to the proposal on the following grounds:

Need for the Project

We do not believe there is justification for this project! We understand there are issues relating to maintenance, lack of toilets, services, etc. but the existing building should be refurbished not replaced.

Comparison with Rod Laver Arena in Melbourne is interesting. Both were designed by Phillip Cox and opened in 1988. RLA had a refurbishment in 1995 and is currently undergoing another major refurbishment which will address a number of issues that are similar to the SFS. Why can this approach not be adopted?

We do not believe the mantra that it is cheaper to demolish than rebuild. This view is promoted by construction companies and consultants who all have a vested interest in promoting this position. It doesn't take into account all factors such as the longer time frame to rebuild and therefore disruption to the community, the waste of resources, that a new build is more likely to have cost blow outs, etc.

A business case for the project has not been issued. We do not believe that the usage numbers of a new building will increase enough to justify the expenditure.

Environmental

The proposal will involve the demolition of huge amounts of concrete, steel and aluminium which will then be replaced with more huge quantities of the same materials. Even if the existing materials are recycled (which in itself involves significant expenditure of energy) there will be enormous amounts of energy required to manufacture new materials and transport them to site. I don't believe this has been considered in any discussions so far and should be considered.

Documentation

The documentation that is online is hard to assess and has very little detail regarding the final design. As such we do not believe an accurate assessment can be made of all the issues.

Time frame

For such a major project, it is not acceptable to have only a 1 month exhibition period. Why such a short time? We have been notified as residents but how have the broader community been notified?

Conclusion

We strongly object to the application.

The majority of issues relating to the current building could be addressed within a refurbishment project, particularly toilets and catering which have been cited as major problems.

This is an unnecessary and divisive proposal. Refurbishment would be less expensive, less disruptive during construction and more environmentally sustainable.

Yours sincerely

I am a long term local resident living in Surry Hills. I am totally opposed to the NSW Government's current plan for the Sydney Football Stadium redevelopment, and call upon the NSW Government to stop this wasteful and unnecessary proposal and instead spend tax payers' money in ways that are useful for the whole State such as in Education, Health or Transport.

In light of the enormous and unwelcome explosions in the costs of the Light Rail and other Transport for NSW projects, I doubt that the estimated costs of SFS demolition and rebuild will be proven accurate as the work evolves. Instead, it is likely that this work will be much more expensive and unjustifiable.

While the proposal has a BCR of 0.94, this represents a disappointing benefit, hardly justifying the effort involved. Why not relocate major football events to ANZ Stadium with its bigger capacity?

The Government has already changed the plans for the two Stadiums, and now it is time to change them again before it is too late.

It is staggering that this is considered not only a good use of taxpayers money, but that this must take priority over so much else. It shows significant disdain for public opinion to try and push this work through, when so many object to it. Surely these funds could be put to better use, like perhaps fixing the monumental cluster fuck that is the Sydney light rail. Or how about you actually fix the roads to a passable standard so that I don't have to swerve dangerously on major arteries with substandard lane markings to avoid dangerous potholes. Are you going to be reimbursing me for my broken engine mounts and screwed suspension? I doubt it. I digress, this stadium plan is just ridiculous, the money needs to go towards things the people of this city actually need. What tangible benefits are there for the people of this city in upgrading a few stadiums that are utilised by such a small percentage of us..... I whole heartedly DO NOT APPROVE

The government is quandering huge sums of money knocking down and rebuilding the SFS, and is cynically trying to rush the process so that it is irrevocably underway prior to the next election, thereby denying the electorate a chance to have its say. On top of all the other problems with this plan, this has now become also fundamentally undemocratic. Please stop and wait for the people to decide. Put the money to health and education.

Rather than spend obscene amounts of money on stadiums that are still absolutely fit for purpose, the NSW Government should be diverting that money to drought assistance for farmers and regional development.

This obscene spend will go down as this Government's folly, a white elephant which is pandering to the vested interest of the high profile members of the Sydney Football Stadium Board.

The stadium is NOT a recreational facility but the place of employment of professional sports people and entertainers and as such their employers should be paying for its construction or a commercial rent thereof .

Surely modifications and upgrades would be a better proposal .

As a member of these grounds for many years and a frequent visitor to the games and the amenities, I agree with those who see this development as a terrible waste of taxpayers money. So far I have read no justification for it. The whole process appears to be rushed and in opposition to the majority opinion of members. Given the suitability of the existing amenities, the rebuilding of them does not seem to be justified.

Could there be something that we don't know?

This plan needs to be scrapped as it is a disgraceful use of taxpayer funds which would be better put to use by building schools and hospitals.

State Schools, especially on the North Shore, are overcrowded and underfunded. This money could change the lives and educational outcomes for many of our young people.

How can this largess be justified when only 1 school has been built on the North Shore in the last 50 Years, yet many have been closed. e.g. Cremorne Girls.

Young people are our future and that future is being sold out to vested interests. If the NRL needs a new Stadium, they have plenty of money to build it themselves, and if the business case is so good, they will get a return on their money very quickly.

Do not proceed with this and do not underestimate the anger of the people regarding this matter.

This anger shall be reflected at the ballot box.

I attend sporting events at the SCG, SFS and Olympic Stadium on a regular basis.

Along with several friends, we have discussed on numerous occasions the proposed demolition of the SFS and Olympic stadium and the reaction is always the same - what fool came up with this plan.

We attend approximately 9 -10 days of Cricket per year at the SCG - five of us are full paying members. Our opinion is that based upon strong attendances at the SCG, that the SCG could do with extra funding and further redevelopment.

With respect to the SFS, several of us have held Waratah's memberships for approximately 20 years - let me tell you - that is dedication. In the early 2000's the Tahs would get crowds of 25-30K on a regular basis - nowadays they are lucky to get 10-15K. Why? It's not because of the stadium, it's because (and this pains us to say) the team are not entertaining and we rarely win! Will a new stadium fix this? We doubt!! Maybe developing a new concourse with food outlet and other facilities would be worthwhile but pulling the stadium down - no way!

And then we have the Olympic Stadium, I attended the opening ceremony of the Olympics, the Bledisloe Cup games that attracted 100K plus and sadly witness the Wallabies lose game after game versus the ABs for the past 15 years. I could throw in a couple of RL games and a few Swans games. Oh, and I forgot to mention both semis and the final of the RWC in 2003. During this time, attendances have dropped and dropped. Will a new stadium fix this? I doubt! What Sydney (Australia) needs is teams that win games, that make fans want to attend! A new seat is not going to change our attitudes or our chances of winning the Bledisloe! Apart from make developer better off and leave a big hole in the State's finances!

Spending $3billion on demolishing the SFS and the Olympic Stadium will do nothing!

So start spend the $3Billion on things that matter!

Regards,

Glenn

The knock down re build of this stadium is the biggest waste of money in the eyes of a lot of Sydney siders.

Our current Premier seems intent on either selling everything off to foreign investors or wasting money!

Why don't our Politicians listen to the people. We are supposed to live in a democracy. It's not up to the Government to make these sorts of decisions without consulting the general public.

We want our taxpayer dollars invested in areas such as hospitals, education, aged care, renewable energy Things that make a difference in the community.

This stadium is used for a maximum of probably two hours at each event. It's not a five star hotel.....it is what it isa stadium! Plastic seating, the lot. Which is what people expect when they attend these types of events. Your'e not "checking in" for the night, you're there for a couple of hours.

There is nothing wrong with the facility the way it is. Just because you have money in the budget, doesn't mean you need to be wasteful with it! Invest it into the areas where it is desperately needed.....ask the community where they would like to see the money spent!

I don't agree to NSW government knocking down a perfectly useable stadium. Modifications can be made at a much lower cost if they must and have the same result.

I do not agree to this waste of money. It doesn't make sense. There are so many other IMPORTANT issues to be resolved in NSW that would benefit the whole state and change lives.

As usual, governments, once in power, find it difficult to actually govern in a democratic way. Gladys B is in charge but not formally elected as our leader. Put it to a vote if you find it difficult to stay in touch with the taxpayers.

I am a 70 year old who has lived in Sydney since 1971 after migrating from U.K. I am appalled that this government wishes to go ahead with this proposal. There are so many more things this money could be spent on which would benefit EVERYONE in this state i.e. Health and Education. I personally have never been to a sport of any kind in this stadium in almost 50 years however my children and grandchildren have benefited from NSW education system and I want my grandchildren to continue to do so. We all benefit from a better health system. If you consider the ordinary people of NSW you will cancel this project. If you don't it shows that one person like Alan Jones has more sway than the majority

Approval for this development should be refused on the basis that the economic benefit of the proposal can not be justified given the useful life remaining in the existing facility, and a cost-benefit analysis of the new stadium couple with alternate uses of the limited funds.

Given the profitability and the financial resources of sporting codes that the facility will benefit any new stadium should be funded by the organisations that will benefit rather than using public funding.

I note that the proposal looks to remove 26 trees. The trees concerned are probably close to 100 years old and hence irreplaceable. Consequently, if the stadium proceeds a condition of approval should be to keep these trees in situ. The architects could easily design a stadium and associated works to keep these trees which are a key component of the aesthetics of the area. Expediency over character appears to be a driving influence over the design.

Thank you for your consideration and I look forward to the planners taking a fiercely independent role at a time when there is likely to be significant political pressure brought to bear to approve a deeply flawed scheme.

The current stadium is sufficient. The area does not need more major infrastructure works, causing pollution and further traffic delays. While the light rail project is behind schedule and over budget, the government should be looking to save taxpayers' money not waste it on a stadium that is use once every couple of weeks at best.

If it looking for things to spend money on why not spend it on local/community sports, or schools or hospitals (to name just a few of the many, more justifiable areas that money needs to be spent on).

I would like to see the money earmarked for this project go towards something that more citizens can use such as schools and hospitals. Coming from out of the Sydney area we feel "left out" and the majority of people I speak to in my practice have expressed this sentiment for a number of years now. Please reconsider where this money will spent. Thankyou for your time.

I object to the proposal for demolition of Sydney Football Stadium and the erection of a new stadium. Such expenditure is totally unjustified and would constitute economic vandalism. The existing building should be preserved and upgraded and the funds saved spent on more deserving and appropriate causes. There is far too much money spent on sport and associated causes in NSW and this is yet another example of that unfortunate imbalance.

I like the stadium as it is.

I go to see most of the Sydney Roosters home games and also some Sydney FC matches.

I go either with a large crowd of my footy mates or with my family and other families from Bondi and the Eastern Suburbs.

Guess what?

None of them want the stadium rebuilt.

Not one person I've asked.

For them the nonsense about poor amenities and long toilet and food queues is not enough to warrant the HUGE cost of another stadium.

Ask them what'd they'd rather have with the money and they ALL say, another high school, more teachers, spend it on public transport, more hospitals, etc.

It's pretty funny how the SCG Trust conveniently send out this report saying the place is falling down. If it's in such bad condition, why wasn't more done about this years ago??

Save your/our money. Spend it on something worthwhile.

The SFS redevelopment is a shocking waste of tax payers money. When nurses at our public hospitals have to bring their own pens to work because they are so underfunded that stationary can't be provided spending 30 million + to redevelop a sports stadium, that is already fit for purpose, is a disgrace.

I object to the demolition of the existing stadium, which was originally designed and built in a manner that minimises visual and other impacts to its surroundings, which consist of a number of important heritage buildings and sites.

Having seen the aggressive and ruthless overdevelopment this state government has led across Sydney over the last 7 years I have lost all faith that it will respect heritage, planning controls or community wishes in relation to this project.

Also, I do not believe that there is a need for the stadium to be completely demolished in the first place.

Content:

Briefly stated: (1) It is unrealistic to think construction workers will pool or catch public transport. Many carry tools or come from long distances (eg Central Coast) and no amount of 'encouragement' will make them pool or use public transport. Instead they will park on Moore Park Rd and surrounding residential streets and deprive residents and their guests of parking. This is was the case during the construction of the UTS building. Residents and their guests have only just been able to reclaim their street parking and now stand to be subjected to more years of limited access. Therefore, there should be a mandatory requirement that workers park on site or in EQ and not on Moore Park Rd or surrounding streets; (2) There is inadequate provision in the revised precinct for point to point traffic such as cabs, Uber and drop off by private individuals. The notion that people will walk up to Oxford Street is an academic dream and inconsistent with actual behaviour. Have tried to upload pdf photos with the submission of 'before' and 'after' images of traffic around the 23 June Rugby test without success. As an aside, it is needlessly difficult to upload PDFs on this site and, in any case, there should be provision for uploading of jpeg or other common image files. That said, the photos are available on request. They clearly show actual behaviour on Moore Park Rd and surrounding streets which is at complete odds with the expected behaviour being touted by the EIS consultants.

The photos clearly show: (a) in the absence of an existing proper holding pen in the precinct, illegal parking by hire cars pending the end of the Test (b) again in the absence of a proper holding pen in the precinct, hire cars and taxis circling the area and creating traffic congestion before end of the Test; (c) dangerous taxi/Uber/pedestrian behaviour on Moore Park Rd after the end of the Test as cabs/Uber drivers attempt to pick up fares close to the stadium and likewise attendees try to get a cab/Uber without going to far from the stadium exit. There is an opportunity to create proper and decent sized holding pens and drop off/pick-up areas to deal with what is currently not only illegal but also dangerous behaviour before and after the end of events. What is currently proposed falls very short and is in defiance of observed behaviour and accordingly unacceptable

It is a ridiculous waste of tax payers money to demolish the stadium - if a new sports stadium is needed then it should be "user pays" by the sports themselves. Money would be much better spent on serious infrastructure such as affordable housing, hospitals and schools not frivolous projects which line the pockets of developers.

The historic SFS - must be preserved for both the Sydney public's ongoing enjoyment and the many international and national travellers who make a special trip to see the building.

This building has such an aesthetic value and history as to demand it be heritage listed to safe-guard it from any future attempts to demolish it for economic and political gain.

The other stadiums on the site - which have no aesthetic value although they do have modern features for convenience can be upgraded if need be but surely we must treasure this building for the joy that it gives MOST of us - if not developers and politicians who have short term views for their specific gain upper most in their minds!

I thought we had learnt the lesson of heritage long ago ... that heritage has a value including a psychological value research shows that people prefer to live in cities that have a visible history - reflected in old buildings, way beyond a simple $ value.

Once gone ...it is gone forever!! A photograph is a pathetic stand in!

Please do not demolish this priceless stadium.

The current stadium development proposals should not proceed until the population have had a chance to properly evaluate the impact on them and also any cost/benefit overall and to consider alternatives for the amount allocated.

This involves the expenditure of a large amount of money at a time when there are very many extremely serious problems that require priority. As well all future developments should be put under scrutiny to see if better ways can be found to avoid piecemeal development but rather find new ways of integrating all future developments to include strategies to provide training in worthwhile trades for both young people and the retrenched. These can include the classical trades of stonemasonry,, mosaic tiling, woodcarving and so forth as well as decorative aspects of welding and so on. Building 'decorations', (that could easily be required of a developer as a percentage of the development $ so at no cost to council) are often only provided at extra expense as 'addons', (if at all) at even greater expense as not incorporated into initial designs.

It is now urgent that all future developments, especially those of this size are thrown open to new ideas and town planning that is truly 'people centric' ie. it provides ways to enable the harmonious interaction of business, services, recreation and entertainment with medium density housing for all age groups, that is affordable, for pensioners, students and young workers, thirdly for small families saving for a first home or artists and crafts people who are not yet established. It is a better and happier society when all age groups can mix with one another and develop a 'neighbourhood - around community gardens and community spaces. At present there seems to be a tendency to create ghettos of 'over 55's', low income areas, student accommodation etc. It is healthier where the generations mix and become mutually helpful.

However pertaining to the current stadium proposals no decision should be made until these are put to the public before the next NSW election together with options for other projects on which the money could be spent.

Let the NSW government show it is putting the people first and is financially responsible

Thank you

Sydney Football Stadium Redevelopment - SSD_9249
I call on the Premier of NSW, Gladys Berejiklian, and the NSW Cabinet, to not knock down the Sydney Football Stadium (Allianz Stadium at Moore Park at a time when there is ZERO public demand to replace it.

The stadium is of significant architectural, historical and cultural value and deserves to be preserved for these reasons. Further, the proposed development would have a direct and deleterious impact on several nearby heritage sites or buildings and locations of historical and cultural significance.

I believe that the enormous allocation of funds required to carry out a project of the type proposed would be far better spent on other community projects across the State that will be more worthwhile. Increasing the concentration of activities in an already over crowded location and destroying our heritage can only have negative flow on effects that will cause problems for many future generations if the project goes ahead.

Regarding the proposal to demolish and rebuild the Sydney Football Stadium.
I oppose this proposal because:
The existing stadium serves all present and likely needs for a stadium so close to the city.
The existing stadium can be repaired and made safe at much less cost than a complete knock down and rebuild.
The funding saved would be more wisely spent on football facilities for the population state wide.
Or on upgrading public school infrastructure.
The interruption to the existing use of the stadium for two years is unacceptable for the football clubs using it as home.

I am eligible to object to this proposal, since I live nearby and was sent the forms.

Attached is a list of the grounds for my objections, and of my constructive, alternative suggestions.

https://majorprojects.accelo.com/?action=view_job&id=9249

Site: #3891 Sydney Football Stadium
https://majorprojects.accelo.com/?action=view_site&id=3891

Grounds for my objection to this project:

1. In the past five years in NSW, homelessness has increased by 48%; funds should be instead devoted to public housing, see below my constructive proposals.
2. The Sydney Football Stadium is often empty, and never a full house; the building was well-designed. A new building is a total waste of money and any future income is likely to be zero.
3. The entire Moore Park-Centennial Park area is owned by the people, not for the NSW or C/wealth governments to do what they like. I opposed the original Stadium for that reason, and the takeover of the publicly-owned running field, which is now the car park. I also opposed, but had no way to object, to Fox [aka Rupert Murdoch] getting the Showground for a peppercorn rent. As well, the so-called "Trust" has heaps of well-off members and profits for any necessary renovations to the Stadium. For example, the "Trust" has not bothered to keep the Stadium's burglar alarms in working order: residents up from the valley endure its alarms often from 1am to 5am. The "Trust" has done zero that is positive: all is negative.

CONSTRUCTIVE PROPOSALS

1. Leave the Stadium as it is and keep the 'Precinct' inside the Showground – which is also poorly attended (on that see below).
2. Remove the "Trust" and instead appoint an Ombudsman for public lands. The peppercorn rent to Fox can be rescinded: the NSW government is very happy to terminate long leases and turf out public tenants in NSW, even the frail; that practice must be reversed.
3. The Showground is an ideal place for public housing, and the entire Paddington area can be rejuvenated this way – with the Precinct offering lots of amenities and Oxford Street within walking distance. I remind you I live one street up from Moore Park Road and welcome public tenants. The same should apply elsewhere, notably the harbour view places like Point Piper: Commissioner L Turnbull cannot ethically object; the same for LNP members of parliament, state and federal.
4. Public housing can thus be provided in lots of accessible places for jobs; moreover, in the Showground small businesses and studios could also regenerate an area of appalling privilege and selfishness.
5. To repeat, the record of the Baird-Berejiklian Governments – Chainsaw governments of fantastic incompetence, vandalism across NSW and authoritarianism – is a disgrace. The 48% rise of homelessness can be reversed, and my positive proposals are aimed for that.

We cannot afford to spend the public's money on a stadium that whilst it may not be perfect is fine, whilst we have housing needs for the homeless, schools falling apart or needing extra classrooms, not enough hospital beds/equipment, teachers who are underpaid for what they are now expected to do (lots of extra work dumped on them over the last few years with no compensation).....and the Government thinks wasting money on a sport's stadium is a good idea? Priorities need revising!

I am disgusted with this governments complete disregard for public opinion! I appreciate the need for sporting venues but this development is a gross waste of public money. Please stop taking us for fools! The overpriced Tibby Trotter bridge to nowhere was built because the plan was to turn Moore Park into a car park connecting a new stadium which in turn would extend over Kippax Lake. Please don't pretend this is not so or why build the bridge in the first place! I have no faith in the integrity of our politicians they are concerned with facilitating developers and private companies, not with improving public amenities and using taxpayers money effectively and for the common good!

It would be very sad to lose the historical architecture and facilities of the SFG. As a relatively young country, we should make every effort to preserve our historical culture and national identity in such a public place, but at the same time, every effort could also be made to provide modern facilities within the fabric of the existing structures for the comfort of users. Many other countries achieve this balance with great success and indeed many old structures show their integrity by outlasting the newer facilities and contemporary building practices.

I am one of the members of the general public who is a regular user of the Football stadiums and am seriously concerned about the amount of money the nsw state govt is spending on this project. Looking at the changing face of sport and the increase in ESports there is absolutely no guarantee that the stadium will even be needed in the future. I don't even want the money spent in other ways I am more than happy for the money to stay in government funds until needed but I really wish that this proposal be voted one by the general public and nit just a few people with vested interests in the development going ahead

I fervently watch sporting fixtures held at this stadium and staggered that the Govt is prepared to waste so much public money on something that benefits and only used by a small minority. The stadium is always 80% empty when there are events on.

Schools, hospitals, roads, public transport and infrastructure should be the focus of this Govts agenda.

This is a blatant waste of public funds for the benefit of a few.

Typical Government waste of money when it should be going to better use - like the over-crowding in School eg Chatswood Primary School.

To spend money when sporting groups and most of all the supporters not want this change is really burying one head in the sand thus ignoring the people of NSW.

The SFS has been an icon in Sydney for centuries, pulling it down and re-building will never regain the atmosphere that one needs at a sporting venue - what people want is to be up close and personal, which is why the old fashion crowds are drawing more people for sport than over priced monstrosities one the Government is only lining the pockets of the Developer and Builder.

It is about time that the Government and its members took notice of the people, because it is the every day person that he voted the Government/Members in and can bring them down because they are around for the long haul -Developers and Builders are not in for the long haul - get their money and go. It is said that ignorance is bliss but ARROGANCE BY THE PREMIER AND THE GOVERNMENT IS SHEER STUPIDITY.

With the new Parramatta Stadium under way, the Premier and Members can be assured that people will boycott this Stadium because prices will have to be increased for entry and families cannot afford the prices for venues now let alone a new stadium.

STOP THIS LUNACY NOW AND LISTEN TO THE PEOPLE DO NOT PULL DOWN THE STADIUMS - POWER TO THE PEOPLE AND KEEP YOUR SEATS IN PARLIAMENT.

IS OUR PREMIER WASTING MONEY LIKE THE PREVIOUS GOVERNMENT - WELL THAT'S A NO BRAINER TO ANSWER - OF COURSE SHE IS!!!

TO OUR PREMIER AND ALL HER MEMBERS - TAKE A GOOD LOOK AT YOURSELVES - GO OUT AND SEE THE OVER-CROWDING, THE HOSPITALS, HOMELESS PEOPLE LIVING ON THE STREETS OF SYDNEY AND HUMBLE YOURSELVES. YOU ARE SO WRONG IF YOU GO AHEAD WITH THIS DEVELOPMENT.

Dear Premier

Please do not waste NSW taxpayers funds on this proposed stadium redevelopment.

Please redirect these public funds to rural and regional NSW communities who are in desperate need of NSW Government services and infrastructure.

I object to this development on 2 grounds:

1. Removing those old trees is unacceptable when we should be planting more, not chopping them down.
2. This development will only lead to much more use of public land (Moore Park) being commandeered for parking. That white elephant "pedestrian bridge" over ANZAC Parade is proof of the hidden agenda!

This project is a disgraceful waste of resources. For critical environmental reasons, NSW should be lowering emissions and pollution. A project of this scale will pollute via the construction process and the associated mining processes to source material goods. NSW should spend money to determine imaginative ways to minimise resource use. A good starting point would be re-designing the economy such that it did not insist on endless growth to keep functioning.

In my view this is an excessive unnecessary overdevelopment for a venue which historically has small attendance figures. In my opinion a less expensive and more useful stadium would be a small upgrade catering to the existing capacity and also meet current occupational health and safety and crowd management requirements as expected by NSW taxpayers. I suggest the proposal be rejected in its current form as it represents a blatant nonessential plan benefitting a select few. Taxpayer funds are finite and should be better directed.

I am strongly against the State Government wasting money on rebuilding sports stadiums.
The State has more pressing needs, particularly in Sydney.
Fix the roads, get rid of tolls, improve public transport, increase the police force, and put money into schools and universities.
We DO NOT NEED to spend money on stadiums.

There is no public benefit to this inane plan. It exists only to shovel public money to those who least need it.

Save the cash. Let professional sports foot their own bills out of the money they aren't spending on taxes.

Hospitals. Schools. Public transport. Housing. Do something for the people, not for the Liberal Party donors.

No case has been presented for why this should be done, no cost-benefit analysis, no feasibility reports. We have simply been told that this is what our money is being spent on. And every one of us knows why any such analysis is conspicuously absent. Because this is a colossal waste of money, entirely against the public interest.
