

F6 Extension

How to access submissions on the Major Projects website

The Department of Planning and Environment thanks the public, community groups, government agencies, local councils and organisations for their submissions during the exhibition of the F6 Extension application.

In response to the amount of submissions received and to increase transparency, the Department has adjusted the way it presents submissions on our website to ensure information can be easily access by members of the public.

Submissions are arranged into packaged and numbered PDFs and instructions are provided below.

The table below indexes all submission received during the public consultation period for the application. PDFs have been produced containing submissions within a numerical range. These have been uploaded to the Department's Major Projects website on the F6 Extension proposal page.

Where a submitter made more than one submission these are identified with a "-M000001", and included after the initial submission. Please note multiple submissions are not identified in the table below. However, these are contained in the PDF packages on the website.

The Department undertook a thorough audit of all submissions to identify and categorise the information for assessment. The total number of submissions published online is approximately 600.

The applicant will include a similar numbering system to identify issues raised in each submission within its Response to Submissions Report. When the Response to Submissions Report is submitted to the Department, it will be uploaded to the F6 Extension proposal page.

To identify which submission number has been assigned to a submission author you can use the "Ctrl +F" on PC or "Cmd +F" on Macs to enable a search function. Inputting the first name or surname of an author will take you to the corresponding submission.

Where confidentiality was requested by an author for a submission, it will not be possible to search for an author's submission as the name has not been published. In these instance "Name Withheld" is provided in the name column below, in line with the information provided on the Major Projects webpage.

Please note that where a confidentiality request was made on one submission and not on other submissions made by the same author, these have all be treated as confidential.
