I cannot understand why a company is allowed to take water that is supposed to ^{be} there for everyone to use. This resource is not finite. What are the residents of Lue supposed to do when Bowdens mine has used all of the groundwater and our water bores are no longer working. We saved money for years to put a bore in so that we would have water security. Why the bloody hell did we bother. And what about Lawson creek. It will be no good jumping up and down when the platypus and other native animals are all gone. Do you expect people and animals can live without water. REALLY!! And the roads around the mine are already atrocious. What will they be like when the mine really gets going.
