

From the train the mines are seen beyond the lower parts of the Mt Pleasant ridge. The higher parts of the ridge by contrast, protect our view and it looks as if the Upper Hunter is a safe rural place to live and work.

It is that higher stretch of ridge which Mount Pleasant Mine would break and hollow out, cutting the ridge high up near the Mount, and pushing a rock emplacement into the second view seen here, in full view of Aberdeen.