

Taken from the Downs, western part of Scone. This is a long rise where a new suburban development obtains extensive views around from West and the South to the East. The open Valley horizon is central, and the focus of the vista. We see Liddell power Station quite easily, Mount Arthur, sometimes Ogilvie Hill depending on the dust level and the haze.

To have Mount Arthur removed from this horizon, by a highly visible new hill as high as the Browns Mountain, is just unacceptable.
