EXPLICIT CAUTIONARY NOTICE

TO THOSE RESPONSIBLE FOR WIND TURBINE

ASSESSMENTS, APPROVALS AND DEVELOPMENT

Specifically

Directors of Wind Energy Companies, Publicly Elected Officials from Federal, State and Local Government, and Bureaucrats in Relevant Departments

BE ADVISED that, as a result of information gathered by the Flyers Creek Wind Turbine Awareness Group, from the clinical and acoustic research available nationally and internationally, serious medical conditions have been identified in people living, working, or visiting within 10 kilometres of operating wind turbine developments. The onset of these conditions would appear to correspond directly with the operation of wind turbines.

We remind those in positions of responsibility for the engineering, investment and planning decisions about project and turbine siting that their primary responsibility is to ensure that developments cause no harm to adjacent residents; and, if there is any possibility of any such harm, then the project should be re-engineered or cancelled. To ignore existing evidence by continuing the current practice of siting turbines close to homes represents a breach of the duty of care, and thus attracts grave liability.
