

Director Of Infrastructure and assessments

G.P.O Box 39

SYDNEY, 2001

7th September, 2015

Dear Sir,

Listed in the Central Coast Community news on the front page last week was a beautiful article on the new Gosford Hospital you are going to build. This is not new news to me, I am a nurse who works there, and welcomes it gladly.

I was really excited to see what the new building would look like (as there is a picture of it one the front page with the article). I was really sad, disappointed and shocked when I couldn't see any solar panels! Thinking maybe they just didn't show them on this diagram, I took the opportunity to look through all the plans which are currently available (if you ask for them) at Gosford City Council. Though I looked on most pages (understandably not all because there are 3 full folders), but I couldn't see them there either. I am not an architect, nor a draftsman, so I am not really sure which area they should be listed in, hence searching page by page.

Can you please reassure me that they are there! I can't imagine in today's world , the government would start plans on a new building, with a large rooftop surface area , with no other buildings or trees to shade it, and solar panels would not be included! Especially when NSW was in the news a fortnight ago for being last in generating alternate power, and considering the fact that the hospital chews through SOOOOO much power!

Could you please direct me to which page they are on?

Thank you so much for taking the time to answer.

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read 'Jenny Hughes', with a stylized, cursive script.

Jenny Hughes

28 Tourmaline Ave,

Pearl Beach, 2256

