

The Energy March

Words: Cathy Rytmeister, 2010

Music: Miguel Heatwole, 2011

The wind will drive the fine white sails
Of turbines out on plain and hill
We'll see a cleaner wind prevail
Our Earth can live if there's a will

We don't need your filthy coal!
Your coal seam gas or oil
We're not going to pay the toll
Of seeing our Earth spoiled
Wind power!
Wave power!
Power from the sun!
The power of our marching feet
Our voices raised along the street
Will see this battle won
We'll see this battle won!

The mighty sea rolls to the shore
it's power, harnessed, will provide.
Its strength is too great to ignore.
It's up to us to turn this tide!

Our land is bathed in sunshine bright.
We have to shout to make them see
That power to turn on our lights
Should come from solar energy!
