To Whom it my concern

Submission against the Narrabri Gas Project

1. We are living in a time of major changes, concerning our energy and environmental needs . Change on many levels of human conduct, if personal or governmental, is eminent, and the politician or government worker who dares to support change in a progressive, renewable sense will help to write history, while compliance to the rule of money and power will take a trail of death and destruction on to the grave.

2. According to research done in the US no gas bore can be claimed to be free of contamination to the underground aquifers. Coal Seam Gas Bores claimed to be 100% safe have been found to leak at a rate of 10% of all bores in the first year and 80% of all bores in the following 10 years. A risk far to high to be considered for the sake of quick money.

3. How is it even possible, that citizens concerned about the general well being of society and the environment have to take a stand against short term gain of global companies. I ask for you, the reader to take a moral and ethical stand and prevent this form of destruction from going ahead.

Please consider, that the land acclaimed will be deserted for generations to come. All because a small number of people - without any connection to it will aggressively profit from this exploration. On top, many animal and plant species will lose their last refuge according to scientific research and thus will be extinct like many others have been already.

4. Further more with the birds and plants pushed out, a great resource for the tourist industry will be lost. No one would want to go and see an industrial estate. In my personal strive to stand up for the environment and its people, I had to face many lost courses in my time. I can only plead to you, to make this one a success in the growth of peace with ourselves and the environment. Thank you!

Sincerely
Richard C Rickert
