Dear Sir,

I have deep concerns, effects of the Narrabri Gas EIS on the recharge aquifer of the Great Artesian Basin.
I believe it is a dangerous project for a very productive area and a great threat to the wonderful Artesian Basin which is the life blood to a large portion of the Australian population.

That water is what makes a sizeable part of our country viable for both domestic and native animals.

Please do not tamper with this resource and put in danger the existence of rural towns and farms and also run the risk of making a large portion of land infertile.

Yours faithfully
Judith Cameron. (Mrs.)
