

A black and white line drawing of a dense urban environment, showing a grid of buildings and streets. A prominent tall building with a grid-like facade is in the center. The drawing is overlaid with a triangular mesh pattern.

A black and white line drawing of a dense urban environment. The scene is composed of numerous buildings of varying heights and shapes, creating a complex, three-dimensional skyline. A prominent feature is a tall building with a grid-like facade, possibly a skyscraper or a modern office building, which stands out among the other structures. The drawing uses a combination of solid black lines and white space to define the buildings' forms and shadows, giving it a stylized, architectural feel. The perspective is from a slightly elevated angle, looking down into the city block.
