Hi Karl and apologies for not clarifying.

BGCP is not intending to make a submission. We have viewed the documentation and, as the proposed works are primarily internal, we do not believe they will have a direct or indirect impact on the Royal Botanic Gardens.

With any works project for the Opera House we are always mindful of the location of construction compounds and work areas that might interfere with access into the RBG from the QE2 Gates. In this case it appears from the accompanying Construction Management Plan that any external construction compounds / work areas will be confined to the building perimeter and not in the southern forecourt so we would not expect there to be any impact on access to the Gardens.

Hope the above is helpful but please let me know if you require any further info.
